FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1902.

The Arkansas state ?ectic was held on Monday. The feature of the contest was the extreme small vote cast. Jefferson, democratic candidate for goveanor and the whole ticket was elected.

The Ohio Democratic state convention is in the hands of Thos. L. Johnson of that state who seeks the democratic nomination for president in 1904. His platform endorses the Bryan platform of 1900.

Senator Platt of New York states that Pres. Rosevelt is not to be indorsed by the republican state convention of that state soon to convene. The reason is understood to be on account of the President's recent utterances on the trust problems. If the trusts insist on making a fight along those lines, President Roosevelt ought not object and he probably will not. The fight when it comes will bring a solution of the vexed qbestion and it will not be the tryranical monopolies that will be winner.

The state fair which opens Sept. 15, only a week from next Monday, will be the best exhibition of the resources of the state that have ever been exhibited. The farm, the pasture and the factory are to be represented. The attendance ought to be good. The week can be profitably taken as an outing period. We of the West know how to camp out so well and like to do it, that this opportunity ought not to be neglected. No finer camp ground was ever provided for the tent and its outdoor fire. Farmers for a hundred miles around should go to the state fair.

Dr. George C. Pardee of Oakland, was nominated for governor of California on the sixth ballot by the republican state convention. Gage who entered the contest with the greatest number of votes lost but his active opponent Flint also lost so Pardee seems to have been a compaomise choice though not a "dark horse." He is very popular in his home town and is said to stand for what is clean in politics and honest in the administration of office. Pardee was born in San Francisco in 1857. Last week it seemed certain that ex-Governor Budd would be nominated by the democrats, but as the democratic convention meets, Franklin L. Lane appears to lead for the choice of his party. The republican party appears to be united on Pardee and there seems to be no reason why he should be defeated.

A late news report states that the Canadian government has gone into the Wyoming district and offered to the striking miners land in the wheat belt of Manitoba and Alberta. It is proposed to furnish homesteads of 160 acres each to 30,000 miners with families who will colonize those Canadian prairies. As further inducement the agents offer certain employment for six weeks at $85 to $100 per month, and further work as the same can be provided. The certain employment is probably in the harvest fields. This alluring offer will without doubt take many of the English speaking miners from Pennsylvania, but they will very apt see frosts before they smell the fragrance of roses. However, very many perhaps the large majority of those who emigrate to Canada will have to stay there.

Mrs. Waggoner found a corpse in the brush by the side of a lonely road in Washington. Inquiry revealed the fact that the dead man was Merrill the outlaw. Mrs. Waggoner carried the body to Salem and claimed the reward of $1500 offered by the prison authorities, on the ground that she turned the dead body over to the state. The claim was referred to Secretary of State Dunbar to be audited. He disallows the bill because it was not shown that the claimant did anything toward the capture as well as return or that any effort of hers contributed to the capture. The "capture and return" are acts so closely associated that a separation cannot be considered. It takes the two words to nominate the act which entitles to reward. Mr. Dunbar incidentally states that the service done the state in returning the dead body is entitled to compensation. But no part of the offered reward is to be treated as such compensation. A separate claim for compensation must be filed. The decision of the Secretary is to be commended. It is just and business like.

A WEAPON OF DEFENSE.

Europeans have some difficulty about comprehending the American Monroe doctrine. One English paper is aroused to great anger by some remarks spoken recently by Pres. Roosevelt. It asserts that the doctrine will cause friction between England and America that will lead to war. Another journal takes an opposite view, maintaining that it is quite as much to England's advantage to have that doctrine maintained as to America's. But why does America desire to maintain the doctrine? Certainly not for expansion purposes, though it is admitted that the reason is selfish. But selfishness in this instance is to be commended. It is for self defense that we refuse to allow any of the strong European nations to acquire territory in Central or South America. It is no answer to this that England and France have colonies there. Those colonies were planted before we had national existence and we have never had excuse to drive them away. Nor do we seek excuse. Now that Spain is out of the American continent we will not allow her to return. We have the right of self defence nor will the most radical English jingo for a moment question our right to maintain an army or equip a navy. No Spanish or Russian fleet can attack our coasts from Europe because by the time it has steamed from Europe it is out of coal and if no port is open where a new supply can be had the enemy is helpless and at our mercy. Spain even when she had a coaling station at Santiago, found herself handicapped when she had to enter the harbor. We maintain the Monroe doctrine for self defense. We took peaceable possession of the Sandwich Islands for self defense and that is why Dewey sailed into Manila Bay, 1898. It was easier to protect Puget Sound, the Columbia river and San Francisco bay in the Orient than guard each home port. Because we have expanded and occupied a place which some of our neighbors denominata "world power," we will not voluntarily surrender any means of defense.

Pres. Roosevelt touring through New England has made some speeches in which he discusses the public questions of the day. Among the inquiries the trust problem comes in for analysis. The President points out some difficulties that are met in dealing with monopolies. The distribution of power between the general government and the states has not been clearly defined and the courts are really at a loss to know where the duty of the federal authority ends and the state commences. The President sees the stumbling block and says: "Some governmental sovereign must be given fuller power, and in my opinion that sovereign must be the national government." More than two years ago republicans saw the same trouble and sought to meet it by placing in the constitution of the United States a section that would empower Congress to legislate. Democrats refused to vote for the amendment and since the republicans did not have a constitutional majority, the amendment was not adopted. While the republicans have a working majority for ordinary legislation, there is not a majority for proposing amendments to the constitution, and it is exceedingly doubtful if such amendment will be proposed by the next Congress.

For some time physicists have been able to make diamonds tho the stones have been small like fine sand, but they keep trying till large gems are obtained. The method is to saturate molten iron at a high temperature and then suddenly cool it. Iron follows the general law and will hold more carbon when hot than when cold. The cooling bath to the lay mind arrouses curiosity. Water is not suited as the molten mass when plunged into the liquid is at once surrounded with a covering of vapor which is a poor conductor of heat, hence molten lead is selected. Another good cooling bath is a block of copper in which a hole has been drilled. The carbonized iron is poured into this hole which is quickly corked. When cooled the iron is removed and disolved in muriatic acid. The diamonds are not attacked by the acid, but remain to reward the curious investigator. It is to be admitted however that the artificial stones are yet too small to be commercially valuable.

The three cornered fight in Vermont resulted as expected. No governor has been elected and the choice is now to be made by the legislature.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

"Wood butchers" charge $1 per cord for splitting and stowing wood in the shed in Portlad.

The big dam on Rogue river near Grants Pass with the machinery that it gives water to, was dedicated last Monday.

The Grants Pass Mining Journal reports that J. T. Logan, owner of rich gravel diggings at Waldo, Josephine county, is to install new machinery of the heaviest type.

The ocean steamship Indiana has been chartered by a Portland company to ply between Portland and Alaska. The first trip north will be made from the home port starting September 25. 800 miners will be brought from Nome to Portland where they will spend the winter.

The game warden has arrested and convicted a prominent hunter of Portland on a charge of having prairie chicken in his possession out of season. The game was killed in Eastern Oregon where it is open season but brought to Multnomah where it is closed. The hunter complains.

From the annual report of Supt. Ackerman it appears that last year $2,383,074 93 were collected for common schools and $1 999,809 43 spent The scholars attending school were 100,659 and persons of a school age not attending 82,488. The number of teachers employed were 4,510. men on an average were paid $47.58 per month and women $37.60.

C. L. Fay, arrested last week in Portland on a requisition from Wisconsin, was stopped in Dakota when Gov. Geer revoked the writ. Fay's attorneys turned about and indicted the district attorney of Wisconsin, the plaintiffs in the action against Fay, and will bring them to Oregon for trial. There is a great mixup which promises to be profitable to the lawyers.

Coos Bay is a center of interest this summer. It is said that the bay is to be the Pacific terminus of a transcontinental railroad. Ships of 30 feet draft may enter the bay and proceed as far as Empire City. With a transcontinental road and a harbor that will accommodate 30 footers, together with the coal beds that already are worked, there seems every indication that Coos county is to boom.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, B. W. I., Sept. 2.—The British steamer Korona arrived here Sunday evening rfom Fort de France, Island of Martinique. She reports that a terrible eruption of Mont Pelee occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday night and people who arrived at Fort de France from the northern part of the island reported that the village of Morne Rouge, near the district previously devastated, had been entirely destroyed, and that Le Carbet, a village on the coast, which was destroyed at the time of the great eruption, had been swept by a tidal wave. About 200 persons lost their lives.

A sloop from the island of St. Vincent which reached here yesterday morning reports that Mont Pelee's crater is now quiet, but that detonations during Saturday night were the loudest heard up to that time and that the inhabitants were terribly alarmed.

Bass Terre, Island of Guadalupe, F. W. I., Sept. 2.—The French Transwhich has just arrived at Point-a-Pitre, reports that she left Fort de France, Island of Martinique Saturday afternoon and passed Mont Pelee at 7 o'clock the same evening. The volcano was then in violent eruption. On approaching the islands of Les Saintes (small islands of the southern extremity of Guadalupe) ashes were falling on the vessel. She arrived off Point-a-Pitre at 5 o'clock, but was unable to enter the port until 10 o'clock at night owing to the obscurity.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $11,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 5, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 40 Montgomery St. San Francisco, Cal.
