FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17 1902.

THE STRIKE IS OFF.

The big anthracite coal strike that has vexed the coal industry for five months is declared off, and the men may now go to work. The settlement has been brought about by the interferance of President Roosevelt who acted not as the friend of the operator or the miner but as the agent of the great third interest the public. The president, as mentioned last week, first offered arbitration. This was rejected by the operators, mine owners. The president then appealed to the miners proposing relief later. The miners refused. They were almost as blunt as the operators The president put pressure on the railroad companies and the bankers, The operators then offered to submit to a Board of arbitration to be appointed by the president but the committee must be appointed from among certain classes of eligibles, that is, an army or navy engineer officer, an expert mining engineer not connected with the coal mining properties, one of the judges of the United States Courts of the eastern district of Pennsylvania, a man of prominence as a sociologist, and a man who by active participation in mining and selling coal, is familiar with the physical and commercial features of the business. There was a disposition on the part of the miners to reject the proposition, but they finally assented.

The committee that will enquire into, consider and pass upon all questions at issue between the operators and miners in the authracite coal fields consists of the following men:

"Brigadier General John M. Wilson, United States Army, retired, late Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., Washington, D. C.

"E. W. Parker, Washington, D. C., as an expert mining engineer. Mr. Parker is Chief Statistician of the coal division of the United States Geological Survey, and editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal, of New York.

"George Gray, Wilmington, Del., as a Judge of a United States Court.

"E. E. Clark, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand chief of the Order of Railroad Conductors, as a sociologist.

"Thomas H. Watkins, Scranton, Pa., as a man practically acquainted with the mining and selling of coal.

"Bishop John L. Spalding, of Peoria, Ill. The President has added Bishop Spalding's name to the commission.

"Carroll D. Wright has been appointed recorder of commission."

The committee is one of experts and without a question its verdict will be final not only for this strike but others.

While this coal strike has cost millions, if its settlement shall be the means of forming a basis for disposing of all the disputes between capital and labor then it will not have been in vain. It has been recognized dimly that the public is a third party in interest where there is a strike, but now President Roosevelt has sharply brought that fact to the front. Lately all legislation on labor problems has been in the interest of the unions. Capital has had its recognition by law makers, but the public has had all bills to foot. True there have been some attempts to curb monopolies sometimes called trusts, but they have been all too feeble. Labor unions in all settlements of strikes have made one of the conditions that employers shall not discriminate against members of the union. Now it is to be hoped that employers may be made to agree that they will not discriminate against free labor, non union labor. It should be that any of our young men can go to any employer in any establishment in Portland or any other locality and get employment at work he is fitted to do without requiring him to pay his first hall months, wages into the treasury of a labor union. In the coal fields of Pennsylvania there are about 53,000 union miners, and about the same number of non union men. Will the verdict of President Roosevelt's committee permit these non union men to labor or shall they be mobbed out of state?

TARIFF AND BEEFSTEAK.

The honest workingman of the North End or South Boston, who reads in his "Post" that beefsteak has advanced from 20 or 25 cents to 40 cents a pound, and that the extortionate Dingley Tariff has done this, will want to know just how high the Tariff on beefsteak actually is. He has now more than three months before the election to discover that the "Post" is playing a bunco game upon him—that the duty on beefsteak, instead of being 15 to 20 cents, as the "Post" would lead him to imagine, is, as a matter of fact, just two cents a pound. Now the wildest Free-Trader never has pretended that a Protective Tariff is able to grind the helpless consumer to the extent of more than the whole of the actual duty. The worst thing which the Dingley Tariff could do, therefore, would be to increase the price of beefsteak from 20 or 25 cents to 22 or 27 cents a pound. If the price is actually 40 cents, here is absolute demonstration that the real factor in forcing up the price of beefsteak is something very different from the Tariff.—Boston "Journal."

Discussing the election of United States Senators the Hartford Courant (Rep.) makes a new suggestion approvingly reports the Oregonian. Senators are nominated and practically elected by the caucus of the dominant party. This, the Courant thinks is where the rascality is found, and it is made easy by a secret ballot. While the secret ballot is the right of each individual voter, yet the open ballot is what every voter has the right to demand from any man whom he delegates to vote for him. This the Washington Post (Ind.) describes as "the best suggestion that has ever been submitted on this vexed question. Let the legislators in caucus be compelled to vote openly, with the voice instead of a ballot, and scandals will be reduced to small proportions." As much as six years ago the INDEPENDENT advocated the open ballot in caucus. It did not deny the right of a secret ballot for the individual elector, but did urge that the representative cannot lay claim to the rights of the individual, but should be required to vote by vive voce. At that time the Oregonian was not favorably impressed with the idea. Perhaps its vision is now clearer.

It may be true, as alleged, that shoes are cheaper in England than in this country, on account of our tariff. But it is also true that English workingmen have less money to buy shoes with than the workingmen of this country—also on account of our tariff.

The Dalles Mountaineer is not convinced that the Lewis & Clark Exposition should be assisted by the state in the sum of $500,000 and suggests that any sum over $250,000 is more than should be used. The Mountaineer keeps in mind who it is that will contribute the money.

WILLAMETTE VALLEY.

wonderful returns from vetches, both at the Agricultural College and on another farm visited. I have never seen any vetch crop that would compare with what you can grow in Oregon. This means much to your farming people. The rape plant flourishes with you to a degree I have never witnessed elsewhere. Then it will live through the winter and bear seed next year. Oregon should produce the rape seed required by the United States. We now import it from Europe and importers have to pay duty thereon. With rape and vetches, peas and clover, as well as vast quantities of wheat, mill offals, etc. your people can produce great quantities of pork, which because of the feeds used should be of the highest quality. Oregon should not attempt to produce lard hogs, but bacon hogs. The highest priced hog meats in England are bacon hogs from Ireland and Denmark. Next comes Canada, and lowest is the lard hog products from the Mississippi Valley. Now why should not Oregon pork product rank with those of Canada and Denmark, when you have much the same feeds for hogs?

Lands are yet low priced in Oregon and you are about to witness a great influx of farming people who will buy out many of your old settlers and in other cases will locate on lands not heretofore occupied for farming purposes. Your state should at once begin to advertise and put the price of your farming lands before the people in the east in such a way that settlers would come to you. Here in Wisconsin and further to the northwest people are out looking for lands in every direction. Perhaps in Oregon you have almost forgotten that we are nearing the point of having 80,000,000 people in these United States and that farms are getting more and more scarce in the East. You have done some advertising at the eastern expositions, but it should be taken up in a more specific way and tracts of land should be offered at definate prices and prospective settlers should be told in advance just what can be grown thereon. If it were not for the danger of getting mixed up in politics and making an office an easy berth for some one, I would say that you were in need of a bureau of immigration with a secretary who would keep Oregon lands before the people of the east all the time. Your rail-road companies should be the most deeply interested of all in the matter of getting in fresh blood, new and improved methods of farming, diversified crops, more livestock, many settlers, etc. I noted that some of the officials were beginning to awaken in this particular and were giving land seekers rates from the East. This is just what should be done, and if kept up along with other methods of advertising, you will witness an influx of settlers that will surprise you. With your vast timber resources and your excellent farming lands largely yet unoccupied, there is a great future for Oregon.

In regard to your Agricultural College, let me say that while the Oregon institution is not nearly so far ahead as it should be, it is now doing well and needs and should receive encouragement and better financial support. First of all the next Legislature should appropiate to the Agricultural College from five to ten thousand dollars annually for a department of farmers institutes. It is not fair to ask the Agricultural College to spend government money to send lecturers over the state to help farmers in their occupation. The state of Oregon should provide for this. A professor cannot be in two places at once. In Wisconsin we have $12,000.00 a year for farmers institutes. Minnesota gives $13,500 New York $20,000, etc. You should have a separate intitute force with the professors helping whenever they can be spared from the College. Your College should also have means with which to more completely test new varities of seeds and plants and to disseminate the test of these freely among the farmers whenever a valuable variety is discovered. It takes money to run an agricultural college, but your institution at Corvallis will pay back a hundred dollars to the state for every one the state invests in it. Professor Withycombe is doing good work in many lines, and one can only wonder as he studies it over that so much can be accomplished with such small outlay of money. Oregon is rich enough to support an agricultural college in first class shape and on the other hand she needs all that a first class agricultural college will do for her in return. You have in your state a number of people who came there in early days when agriculture was in a primitive condition in the region from which they moved. Many of these people and their children have not kept up with the times. They are certainly wise enough, however, and far-seeing enough to realize that the world is moving rapidly and that Oregon must bestir herself if she is to keep up with sister states. All success to the ambitious, thrifty farmers of Oregon and to their growing Agricultural College.

Yours very truly
W. A. HENRY,
Dean and Director.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 20, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $11,500.00 and was paid by a syndicate of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 5, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address JOHN J.
