

Mrs. A. M. Carille is visiting relatives in Portland this week.

Cl. Blazer and wife left last week for a month's visit with relatives in Ohio.

The prolonged dry weather is hard on corn. Remove them with the Delta Corn Cure.

Dr. Geo. Merryman has returned from his trip to China. He is pleased with the experiences he has met.

Mrs. John Dennis and Mrs. E. L. McCormick returned Monday morning from a month's visit with their parents at Grangeville, Idaho.

The Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias met in Portland Tuesday of this week. The delegates from this place are H. T. Bagley and L. M. Hoyt. The uniform rank also went down.

Heinshaw & Wheeler are now making cider at the old Kester mill in North Hillsboro. They are also making an excellent article of vinegar from prunes, which they cannot handle in the dryer.

Enoch Jones, late of the East was brought before Judge Rood Monday charged with being insane. After an examination he was committed to the asylum at Salem. He had an idea that he was a preacher.

At the meeting of the Grand Lodge K of P, held this week in Portland, the brethren of this County were taken care of reasonably well. Mr. J. M. Wall is Grand inner guard, L. M. Hoyt, major of 1st battalion of the first regiment of Uniform rank and Mrs. Eliza Imbrie, Grand Chief, grand temple Rathbone Sisters.

Messrs. Groner & Rowell have fully tested their tile plant and find that it is perfect. Two kilns of tile have been made and burned. The company is now building their saw-mill on the banks of the Tualatin near the tile factory. The log pond is in the creek where the old mill stood. A canal has been cut from this pond to the river so that logs can be floated to the new mill.

Christopher Linder, an early settler in this county died Wednesday the 15th, at his home near Phillips aged 71 years. His premises were threatened by the forest fire of September and he, fighting fire, over-worked and took cold, from this he did not rally. Probably he realized that his life would not be prolonged, for only on Monday last he sold his farm and was proceeding to wind up his business. He leaves a widow, sister to Jacob Bronger, who was well known in this county during his life time.

It is with pleasure that the people of the state and especially of the First Congressional District listen to the words of commendation which the officers of the Washington Public Roads Inquiries have for Mr. Tongue. Several times Director Martin Dodge on Wednesday last mentioned the efficient services Mr. Tongue was able to render in Congress last winter. One especially may be mentioned, that of raising the appropriation carried by the bill after it had been reported by the committee. The committee considering the appropriation for continuing the Public Roads Inquiries reported recommending an appropriation of $20,000. Discussing the bill, Mr. Tongue made a Good Roads speech that was so convincing that the house without further debate increase the appropriation to $30,000. Mr. Tongue's speech has been adopted by the Department as standard literature on the subject of Good Roads.

Silas Bennett until the past few months a resident of this county and a familiar figure on the streets of Hillsboro was killed in Portland last Friday evening where he fell through a bridge spanning a deep gulch. Bennett was employed at a rock crusher to help load wagons. Friday evening when the last wagon was loaded it was quitting time and he got on the wagon with the driver to ride home. The way to the city ran through Corbett street. This street crosses a gulch that was bridged and from the bridge to the bottom of the gulch is a distance of fifty feet. When the loaded wagon was over the deep gorge, the structure fell. Wagon, team and men went with it, though the driver by great good fortune saved himself jumping. Bennett was instantly killed as were also the horses. The bridge appeared to be safe but when examined it appears that only a very thin shell on the outside was sound. The wonder is that it stood so long. Had inspectors bored into the timber its condition would have been shown. And that is what ought to be done frequently.

Mrs. Wm. Bennett and daughter of Cornelius who had started to Portland in a buggy on Wednesday morning met with an accident and had to postpone the trip. Going up the short steep incline off the temporary bridge over the creek the horse lost its footing and fell. Both hills of the buggy were broken and the horse rolled over a time or two before getting to the bottom of the bank. Neither of the ladies were hurt, though for a few minutes they were frightened.

There were on Wednesday of this week three big ocean liners in the Columbia, either at Portland or at Astoria that together have a carrying capacity of 30,000 tons. Practice shows that big ships are economical and Portland will hasten the deepening of the Columbia channel which it is claimed can go to 40 feet. If such a way can be secured it is not easy to see wherein the Puget Sound ports can claim advantage.

A party of thirty land-seekers (grabbers?) went to Corvallis on Wednesday trained by Dr. Littlefield. There were a number of women in the company, among them Miss Tillie Cornelius. The party planned to plunge into the forest from Corvallis, but upon what town or section they will pitch their tents was not stated.

The Southern Pacific Company has during the past week had a gang of carpenters on their line in the neighborhood of Hillsboro, making repairs to culverts and cattle guards. Since the track has been fenced, the guards will be kept in perfect order.

The Western Union linemen who have been setting new telegraph poles on the line of the railroad have got as far south as Whiteson. The crew has about 40 miles yet to complete before they will have the line repaired.

C. J. Dante, of Portland, an old time resident of this county, was in Hillsboro last week renewing old acquaintances. He has not been here for 12 years and says things look decidedly different now than then.

The Christian church will begin a series of revival meetings next Sunday morning Oct. 19th. Services each evening during the week at 7:30. All are invited to attend.

The Hillsboro Hotels have been taxed to their utmost capacity for the past fortnight. The Tualatin has been using outside rooms for the overflow, and even those are too few.

It was known several weeks ago that all the residences in Hillsboro were occupied, and now the shacks are filling. More houses will have to be built next summer.

It is thought that by tomorrow night or perhaps sooner the long bridge will be open to travel. The long time it has been closed has been due to lack of lumber.

We are now prepared to serve all kinds of lunches or short orders, oysters any style. Fancy canned lunch goods always on hand. H. A. Palmer.

Mrs. Grace Poe-Featherstone who has been visiting with her uncle and aunt Geo. Wilcox for a few weeks returned to her Montana home on Tuesday last.

The Astoria Fir Lumber Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000. The new company will build a new saw-mill at Astoria.

Dora D'hoind who was sent to the insane asylum from this county last spring, died in that institution last Saturday, Oct. 11th.

Mrs. John Slavin with her daughter, Mrs. Prince visited at her nephew's E. C. Brown yesterday. From there the ladies went to Forest Grove.

A fine rain set in on Wednesday morning which bids fair to continue in showers for several days. Fall field work on the farm will soon be possible.

Mr. E. A. Bowman, of Heppner, Morrow county, Oregon, is visiting relatives and friends in Hillsboro. He will return to the upper country in a few days.

A number of visitors went from Hillsboro to Corvallis on Wednesday last among them were Dr. Tameile, J. M. Greear and wife and Benton Bowman. The train carrying the large delegation from Portland and beyond was run in two sections.

A buyer from Seattle, Washington was in the county buying cows the first of the week. He shipped a carload on Tuesday from the Hillsboro station. These are probably to be put in the dairies about Kent that furnish milk to the condensed milk factory at that place.

Founders Day was appropriately observed at Pacific University last Wednesday. The oration was delivered by Hon. W. N. Barrett of the class of 1878. The citizens of the town did not attend the exercises in mass, which is to be regretted. Without the College there would have been no excuse for building Forest Grove. Appathy leads one to think a spirit of commercialism has fastened itself upon the people which will lead to the decline of the school.

We sometimes forget that industrial disturbances in places remote from our homes hurtfully affects us. A case in point may now be mentioned. The mills which make vegetable parchment used in wrapping butter, fish and some other food products are located in New Jersey. The coal strike has caused them to suspend work for lack of fuel. Jobbers therefore are not able to have orders promptly filled. Portland dealers can get no promise of paper under six months. In their extremity they turn to the larger cities where greater stocks are left over from the time of plenty. Manufacturers are not advancing prices, but the middle men are, and while the higher price has not yet been exacted of the consumer, present conditions if long maintained will make butter paper worth more than has heretofore been asked.

Earl Hansen who is under arrest on a charge of stealing horses at Prosser, Washington and bringing them to Sherwood, this county where several were sold, had his preliminary examination last Saturday before County Judge Rood, sitting as committing magistrate. From the evidence Judge Rood thought there is probable cause why the defendant should be held to the next term of the Circuit Court. He ordered accordingly and fixed the bail at $1000. The defendant has not furnished security and is held at the county jail. The evidence on the part of the state showed that, Hansen and two companions brought a band of sixteen or seventeen horses from Prosser to Sherwood, where the owners came up with the horses and found them in the possession of Hansen who was exercising all acts of ownership. He was offering to sell, and did sell some five or more animals receiving the money or taking notes in his name. He gave out to the public that the horses were his own and that the boys were his employees. The defense submitted statements made to his uncle to the effect that a part of the horses belonged to the boys who are respectively 19 and 16 years of age, that he was selling as agent and receiving a commission. He claims that he does not know how the boys got the horses and that his first suspicion that they were not regularly obtained was aroused at Arlington. The accused put his father and sister on the stand to prove his good character. The prosecution suggested that the evidence was not the best since a father or sister are the last persons to hear evil reports of sons and brothers. No bills of sale of the horses were presented to show that the young men were rightfully in possession of the stock. The defense charges malice on the part of the prosecuting witness induced by an action for damages in the sum of $10,000 for alleged false imprisonment. Hon. Thos. H. Tongue assisted the state and Hon. W. N. Barrett and attorney Hume of Portland defended.

GOOD ROADS IN WINTER.

A state goods convention was held in Portland last Tuesday and Wednesday presided over by Col. R. W. Richardson commissioner of the Mississippi valley. He is accompanied by Martin Dodge, Director of the U. S. Roads Inquiries and J. W. Abbott commissioner of the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states, with their stenographer, Taggart. Col. Richardson did not assume the chair arbitrarily, but was put there first by a local committee of arrangement from the Portland Chamber of Commerce and permanently by the unanimous vote of the convention.

Director Dodge holds conventions to tell what is doing in other places toward making good roads, giving instruction for building and quoting the most successful laws that have been enacted to raise money to be used in building.

The convention in Portland was attended by county judges and engineers together with business men and farmers from every part of the state. Perhaps the county with the poorest representation was Multnomah. If the county judge was there he was in the back ground. It was intended early in the season to have the Good Roads machinery here, but it got side tracked by the Great Northern Railroad which is not doing very much advertising of any kind for Oregon. This train consists of nine cars of road building machinery—plows, scrapers, rollers, ditchers, automatic gravel spreaders and the like. The machinery is contributed perhaps it is better to say "loaned," by the manufacturers. The Railroad Companies furnish the transportation and the local authorities the operating force. A section of some county road is selected and a half mile or more of the road is built. It is a sample. As a result of the convention in Portland, a state association has been organized with Judge Scott of Marion for president and Judge Magers of Portland, but late of Yamhill, secretary. The state association is to hold annual meetings in October. One of its chief duties will be to have an eye to state road legislation. Director Dodge and his associates are pleased with Oregon and much appreciate the cordial reception they have received. Indeed the social events have been so numerous that all could not be accepted. There was a smoker on Tuesday night attended by the whole convention though there was but little eating and less smoking. The speaking though was more indulged. Congressman Tongue was principal speaker, but the real Oregonian was Jas. W. Abbott, commissioner for the Pacific states. The INDEPENDENT gives this tip. Do not utter the same sentiments in Washington Idaho or California, or the half, for cash or for love. Excursions were taken to the Cascades, to Astoria and tomorrow the visitors go to Salem after that trip they go east. The delegation to the Good Roads Convention from this county was Congressman Tongue and Judge Rood.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

At a reception at his old home at Grants Pass, Consul Miller, who is in America on a vacation from his station in China, made response to the address of welcome.

Speaking of the missionary question, Consul Miller stated that the general impression, created largely by press reports, to the effect that the missionaries were the cause of the recent troubles in China, is altogether erroneous, and that it is doing the missionaries a great wrong and injustice to so blame them. However he said he was not in favor of sending young girls as missionaries to China as it is absolutely impossible for them to accomplish anything. It is an impossibility to instill the teachings of Christianity into the heathen heart of the Chinese in a direct way. It can only be done in an indirect way. This is the method being followed by the French Catholics. The plan followed is to teach the Chinaman civilization first and christianity will naturally follow; as a result they are accomplishing much good.

IN MEMORIAM.

As a stroke of lightning came the death angel to the home of George S. and Amelia Campbell, whose happy circle had never before invaded and took away one of their loved ones. Wilbur D., their only son, on September 28, at 12:30 his white-winged spirit took its departure from this tenement of clay to the land where no shadows fall upon the glorious scene. After only little more than a weeks illness he suddenly grew worse and almost before any one could realize it his young life ceased on earth, for he was but 14 years 2 months and 27 days old. In the midst of our bereavement we thank God for the blessed hope of meeting him soon in a better country for Jesus said of children "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." "Asleep in Jesus blessed sleep from which none ever wake to weep."

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Campbell, of Farmington, wish to thank the people of their own community and of Hillsboro for the many acts of sympathy and love in their bereavement. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Campbell.

The Kind You're Always Bought

The Wisdom of Cheerfulness. Gladness is health giving. It prolongs life. We all know the good cheerfulness in the sickroom. It is just as much needed in everyday life. It adds zest to our work. Whistling or singing at one's task makes time pass more swiftly and less tediously. Work cheerfully done is better done. One puts something of one's personality in one's work. If we have trouble to bear, so do all others. Do not add to the burdens of others by going about with a gloomy face and presence. Think of the cheerful things. Do not repine at failure. What seems such may not be so. Out of failure one may reap riches of character. There is no failure so great as failure of spirit and heart in life. If we are sincere, if our work is real, no misfortune, no lack of appreciation, no malice can ruin us. With truthfulness and earnest endeavor in us we can face the world with a smile on the lip and gladness of heart shining in our eyes.—Milwaukee Journal.

Old Time Boiler Making.

It is not necessary to look back more than a few years to recall the time when a steam boiler was made of almost "any old stuff," riveted up somehow, anyhow, so long as the rivets were spaced with apparent regularity and had good, big heads on them. The clipping and cutting made the thin sheets look about as eighth of an inch thicker than they actually were, and the fittings and mountings of cast iron were so lavish in material that the buyer felt he was getting a good deal for his money. No one could see inside on the seams, even if it had occurred to him to look there and discover the mischief wrought by drift pins urged by heavy forging hammers upon recalcitrant rivet holes that simply would not let the rivets in or find the liners and "dutchmen" that filled gaps where the plates would not come together. But all these defects existed in cheap boilers made to sell.—Engineering Magazine.
