Easiest of access among all the canons of Colorado, being situated on the main line of the Denver & Rio Grande between Canon City and Salida in the front range of the Rockies, is the most spectacular, awe-inspiring and magnificent. Down this mighty cleft, in the heart of the granite rock-barrier rush the raging waters of the Arkansas river, lashed into foaming fury and dashed into sparkling spray by its swift descent through the tortuous defile. So narrow is the passage at one point that there was no room for both the road and river, and therefore a curiously constructed bridge of steel had to be thrown lengthwise of the stream, suspended from iron supports mortised into the canon walls on each side to the right and left. And right here can be seen the climax of all the canon's grandeur, that which has been aptly called "The Royal Gorge." For two thousand six hundred feet the solid monoliths soar upward—five times as lofty as the Washington Monument, the highest permanent structure reared by the hand of man. No words can adequately describe the magnificence of the scene. Only those who have beheld its glories can appreciate them.

This is but one of the many wonders of nature revealed to the traveler on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, "The Scenic Line of the World." For detailed information about this most delightful trip to the East, Address J. D. Mansfield, Rio Grande System, Portland, O.

BLACK ROCK

By RALPH CONNOR

Abe stopped at once and in a surprised and slightly pained voice said: "Why, what's the matter with that? Ain't that what you wanted?" "Yes, yes. God forgive me! I am afraid it was," he answered hurriedly, "but I must not." "Oh, don't you worry!" went on Abe cheerfully. "I'll look after that part. And anyway, ain't they the blindest blankety blank?"—going off again into a roll of curses till Craig, in an agony of entreaty, succeeded in arresting the flow of profanity possible to no one but a mountain stage driver. Abe paused, looking hurt, and asked if he did not deserve everything he was calling down upon them. "Yes, yes," urged Craig, "but that is not our business." "Well, so I reckoned," replied Abe, recognizing the limitations of the cloth. "You ain't used to it, and you can't be expected to do it, but it just makes me feel good—let out of school like—to properly do 'em up, the blank, blank!"—And off he went again. It was only under the pressure of Mr. Craig's prayers and commands that he finally agreed to "hold in, though it's tough." "What's to be done?" asked Shaw. "Nothing," answered Craig bitterly. He was exhausted with his long ride from the Landing and broken with bitter disappointment over the ruin of all that he had labored so long to accomplish. "Nonsense!" said Graeme. "There's a good deal to do." It was agreed that Craig should remain with Nixon, while the others of us should gather up what fragments we could find of the broken league. We had just opened the door when we met a man striding up at a great pace. It was George Crawford. "Haw ye seen the lad?" was his salutation. "No one replied, so I told George of my last sight of Billy in the orchestra. 'Ain't he no' coming after him?' he asked in indignant surprise, adding, with some contempt, 'Mon, but ye're a feckless boddie!'" "Billy gone, too?" said Shaw. "They might have left Billy alone. Poor Craig stood in dumb agony. Billy's fall seemed more than he could bear. We went out, leaving him heart-broken amid the ruins of his league.

CHAPTER IX.

THE LEAGUE'S REVENGE.
As we stood outside of Craig's shack in the dim starlight we could not hide from ourselves that we were beaten. It was not so much grief as a blind fury that filled my heart, and, looking at the faces of the men about me, I read the same feeling there. But what could we do? The yells of cursing miners down at Slavin's told us that nothing could be done with them that night. To be so utterly beaten and unfairly and with no chance of revenge was maddening. "I'd like to get back at 'em," said Abe, carefully repressing himself. "I've got it, men," said Graeme suddenly. "This town does not require all the whiskey there is in it." And he unfolded his plan. It was to gain possession of Slavin's saloon and the bar of the Black Rock hotel and clear out all the liquor to be found in both these places. I did not much like the idea, but George said: "I'm gae'n after the lad. I'll have asethin' to doae wi' yon. It's no that easy, an' it's a sinfu' waste." But Abe was wild to try it, and Shaw was quite willing, while old Nelson sternly approved. "Nelson, you and Shaw get a couple of our men and attend to the saloon. Slavin and the whole gang are up at the Black Rock, so you won't have much trouble, but come to us as soon as you can." And so we went our ways. Then followed a scene the like of which I can never hope to see again, and it was worth a man's seeing, but there were times that night when I wished I had not agreed to follow Graeme in his plot. As we went up to the hotel I asked Graeme: "What about the law of this?" "Law," he replied indignantly. "They haven't troubled much about law in the whiskey business here. They get a keg of high wines and some drugs and begin operations. No," he went on, "if we can get the crowd out and ourselves in we'll make them break the law in getting us out. The law won't trouble us over smuggled whiskey. It will be a great lark, and they won't crow too loud over the league." I did not like the undertaking at first, but as I thought of the whole wretched illegal business flourishing upon the weakness of the men in the mines and camps, whom I had learned to regard as brothers, and especially as I thought of the cowards that did for Nixon, I let my scruples go and determined, with Abe, to "get back at 'em." We had no difficulty getting them out. Abe began to yell. Some men rushed out to learn the cause. He seized the foremost man, making a hideous uproar all the while, and in three minutes had every man out of the hotel and a lively row going on. In two minutes more Graeme and I had the door of the ballroom locked

The Worst Form.
Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. Sold at Delta Drug Store.

What Do They Want?
The tariff reformers should at once designate what duties should be lowered and how much. If congress is expected to agree within thirty days after convening, these tariff reformers should be able to agree within a number of days. If the reformers want to hit high prices they will have to hit farm produce. The understanding is that if the prices of everything had been low there would have been no tariff discussion. Therefore the reformers must want lower prices. If this be true they should tell us what prices should come down. Prices are always high in good times and low in poverty-stricken times. Do they want poverty again?—Des Moines "Capital."

Natural Anxiety.
Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It's attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquidifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Va.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." Sold at Delta Drug Store.

Forty Years' Torture.
To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. Sold at Delta Drug Store.

Not Doomed For Life.
"I was treated for three years by good doctors," writes W. A. Greer, McConnellsville, O., "for piles and fistula, but, when all failed, Bucklin's Arnica Salve cured me in two weeks." Cures burns, bruises, cuts, sores, eruptions, salt rheum, piles or no pay. 25c at Bailey's Pharmacy.

It is comical to see our poor contemporaries, the Springfield "Republican" and Boston "Herald," lifting bedraggled heads out of the tidal wave of the Maine election and gaspingly assuring each other that it was not much of a shower after all.—Boston "Journal."

Stops the Cough and Works Off the Cold.
Luxative Bromo Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No cure, no pay. Price 25 cents.

Look with horror on skin eruptions, blotches, sores, pimples. They don't have them, nor will anyone, who uses Bucklin's Arnica Salve. It glorifies the face, cures sores or salt rheum, vanishes before it. It cures sore lips, chapped hands, chilblains. Infallible for piles. 25c at Bailey's Pharmacy.

LOOK AT THIS.
Have you looked at those iron beds, those beautiful couches, that fine line of rockers and bed room suites, at prices that defy competition? Portiers, lace curtains, trunks and wall paper. Will give you low, reasonable prices. If there is anything in the furniture line or in carpets I do not carry in stock, will give you an order on firms in Portland and pay freight and put it in your house at Portland prices, saving you freight.

HELPING THE DESERVING.
Kind ladies in McMinnville made up a box of clothing and sent to the forest fire sufferers in Multnomah Co. To a cape was pinned a slip asking the recipient to write telling of her condition. The following letter has been received which was first published in the McMinnville Reporter. It leads one to ask "Of what account are professional philanthropists anyway?"

"Kind friend: I will now try and write you a few lines and let you know that I have your cape. I received it a few days ago. Now about the fire. We lost most all we had, which we were going to sell so as to raise money we needed. It makes it awful hard for us this winter. Our barn, hay and harness, wagons and farm implements of all kinds were lost in the fire, and some of our stock. It was the worst fire I have ever seen in my life. I was at home alone when the fire broke out around here. We live on Mt. Scott. At first it looked so hard that I hardly knew what on earth I should do, so I took the children down on a small potato field and got them to stay there. It was hard on the little baby, 13 months old, to sit in that wind and smoke and dust, but that was the only way to save ourselves. The fire went in whirlwinds and would fly all around you. I want to say that people like us get but very little of what has been given in both clothing and money. Some people around us who only had their fencing burnt and who have money in the bank and a good business besides are the first ones to be helped, but we have not got anything yet. Is that the right way? We lost everything and have not a dollar to fall back on, and on a rented place at that. Some one will have a good stake of these fire funds. They put in the papers that they have ample funds on hand for the needy, but when you go to get it they will not give it to you. Well, there are a good many around us that have just lately found out how we have been treated, and they make a fuss about it; but that is all the good it does us. The needy people are not getting what the people think, and that is the way it always goes. It is hard for us. If we had got some our hay hauled off it would have been a little help, but every bit of it had to go up in smoke. But we will try and make out the best we can. I hope that I will never again have to see so big a fire and so many people burnt to death. I hope to hear from you. I think that this is all. I have been sick ever since the fire, and in May I had got my knee broken. I thank you for the cape. I will make good use of it, as I did not have any.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. HELMA ROWE.

And say some other false, ointment, lotion, oil or alleged healer is as good as Bucklin's Arnica Salve, tell him thirty years of marvelous cures of piles, burns, boils, corns, fells, ulcers, cuts, scalds, bruises and skin eruptions prove it's the best and cheapest. 25c at Bailey's Pharmacy.

Look Out For Fever.
Billousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tone and strength to the glands. At Delta Drug Store.

The last four years of Democratic rule left this country plunged in despair, but after six years of Republican rule, traffic is so congested that the greatest railroad system in the world cannot handle it.—Hannibal (Mo.) "Courier-Post."

Of course, there are two sides to every question affecting the public, and perhaps it would be well in the future to modify some item of the present tariff, but does not the fact stand out prominently that more men are employed at fair wages than ever before in the history of this country.—Davenport (Iowa) "Republican."

NEWS OF THE STATE.
The nickle-in-the-slot machines have been sent under the counters in Portland.

George Drake a negro was convicted of adultery in the Marion County circuit court last week.

Sam White, chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee denies that he is a candidate for Superintendent of the State Penitentiary.

Dr. Douglas Riggs was found dead Thursday on the Mount Hood road. He had left his team standing on the road, tied up the lines, and had lain down beside the wagon, where he was found.

Fort Stevens has again been visited by fire, and twice within the past two weeks there have been recurrences of the attempted incendiary work similar to those which happened some months ago.

It is understood that a large part of the Hood River exhibit of apples at the recent fruit fair will be taken to Chicago by the Harriman system of railroads to be placed on exhibition at their office in that city.

The woman who is establishing agencies for an alleged book concern, has been victimizing Corvallis girls, one of whom, Miss Ida Van Hoosen, was induced to part with $16, her earnings in the hop fields this season.

A mortgage on the Congregational church at Oregon City was burned at a so-called last Thursday, with much ceremony. Mrs. Sophia Charman who has been a member of the church since 1853 lighted the match and held it to the paper.

The body of an unknown man was found on the beach near the Point Adams Lighthouse Station by a soldier from Fort Stevens Thursday afternoon. The remains were those of a man about 25 years of age, six feet in height and weighing fully 175 pounds.

The U. S. government will install dredging machinery in the U. S. transport Grant that was in the Philippine trade, and use that craft as an ocean dredge at the Columbia river bar. It is thought that the necessary changes can be made by next spring.

Several Polk county schools have had difficulty in securing teachers, that is, in the rural districts, and a like condition is noticeable all about us. A letter received at Independence by a party well up in educational work asks for nine teachers at one place in Eastern Washington.

Charles Meserve, a newspaper man of ability, has completed arrangements for installing an up-to-date printing plant at Medford, the cost of which will be several thousand dollars. He will issue a newspaper and conduct a job printing office. Meserve was formerly publisher of the Oregon City Enterprise.

One of the Portland school janitors thrashed a school boy several weeks ago for the reason the lad was trespassing on the school grounds to their injury. The janitor was arrested and on trial was fined. The matter was laid before Gov. Geer in a petition asking for a pardon. Gov. Geer has examined into the action and remits the fine.

At a mass meeting of citizens of Grants Pass called last Friday to raise another thousand dollars to purchase a terminal site for the proposed deep salt water railroad, the necessary funds were raised, over $4000 being now subscribed. It was stated that the cost of the surveys to date amounted to about $15,000, and that construction will commence immediately. A report of P. H. Harth, chairman of the committee on right of way and terminal grounds, showed the bonding of some 30 acres for the purpose near the Southern Pacific Company's track, east of town.

The State Land Board, having met with such success in its first effort to sell state school lands a few weeks ago, has decided to sell another tract of similar timber lands, and will soon advertise the tract in question. This land the Board proposes to sell now is partly located on the California line, and all of it in Southern Oregon, and consists of three small tracts, aggregating 1280 acres. The land is described as follows: All of section 36, and the south one-half of section 36, township 33 south, range 14 west; also the north one-half of section 16, township 41 south, range 1 east.
