Flat salaries mean fat salaries.

The initiative and referendum means a government by majorities. Constitttions are made to protect minorities. Under the new order, the prohibitions of the constitutions are suspended.

If Oregon can continue to sell products for an annual income of forty-four million dollars along the lines indicated in the subjoined summary there is nothing to prevent the state becoming wealthy. The nine products that last year brought that sum of money were:

Lumber	$10,000,000
Livestock	9,000,000
Grain	8,750,000
Minerals	5,000,000
Hops	3,500,000
Fish	2,000,000
Wool	2,800,000
Fruit	1,500,000
Dairy products	1,500,000
Total	$44,050,000

The Astorian is quoted as saying "many of the articles on the free list should no longer receive protection." From this sentence as a text, the paper by the sea proceeds to conduct a sermon favorable to tariff reform. Just how articles on the free list are to be effected by re-arrangement of the schedules is not plain unless such articles are put on the dutiable list. Coffee is on the free list and so is tea. Would the Astorian take them off that list and put them on the dutiable as required by a free trade schedule? The INDEPENDENT prefers to have them remain on the free list. And it cannot see how the coffee trust will be controlled in the least by taking coffee off the list where it is now.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton prominently before the public for the last half century as an advocate for the enfranchisement of women, died at her New York residence last Sunday at the age of 86 years. The first woman suffrage meeting she attended was held at Seneca Falls, New York, July, 19 and 20, 1848. This meeting was the first of the public agitations on that subject that have continued to this day. Mrs. Stayton married H. B. Stanton, a journalist and anti-slavery agitator in 1840. To them have been born six children. Notwithstanding the great amount of public work undertaken by this gifted woman it is asserted that she never neglected her children or her household duties.

The people anxious for a special session of the legislature have cooled a bit. Examination of the law convinces them that the U. S. Senitorial contest will be precipitated at the special session if it should not adjourn before the second Tuesday after it convenes. This is what they hoped to avoid. It now recurs to the flat salary scheme. It is urged that a flat salary law allowing the governor $4500 per year would be quite as proper as to allow him compensation for services not among the duties of his office as fixed by the constitution. Politicians should not pursue this line of reasoning too far. If the governor and secretary of state may have a flat salary of $4500 when the constitution fixes only $1500, why may not the members of the legislature draw a salary of $5.00 per day?

The issue between democrats and republicans relative to the treatment of the big industrial combinations is being quite positively written. The democrats as organized for this campaign especially in New York declare for public ownership of mines, transportation lines and perhaps some of the great manufacturing industries. And this is understood to be where the Bryan wing of the party stands. So there is no question between the Hill-Cleveland-Wall Street nabobs and those of Kansas City platform adherance. Republicans favor private ownership under government control. This idea is met in the fixing of tariff rates of transportation companies and is strongly hinted at for such large properties as the coal mines. The Sherman trust law is a first realization of the plan that is to be further perfected and the contention for governmental control will be further advanced by the report of the Roosevelt commission now considering differences between capital and labor on one side and the public on the other. By the republican idea, capital is left free to construct its business and enjoy the profits as it sees fit so long as public interests are not jeopardized.

TWO SIDES TO A TREATY.

The last congress, urged apparently by Cuba, attempted to remit duties laid on sugar and tobacco imported into this country from that island, in return for concessions granted on some of our exports. The House passed a bill remitting the one cent per pound collected on refined sugar but the senate did not concur, so the attempt to aid Cuba failed. Then it was said the same thing could be accomplished by commercial treaty which would not have to go to the House which showed a disposition to deal hardly with the sugar trust. Well the treaty was framed and sent to Cuba. That government returned it with the comment that duties on American goods were so low in return for the sugar and tobacco concessions that the little state would not have revenue enough to defray the expenses of the government. That contingency was seen last winter and spring but was not considered by those American friends of Cuba who were urging reciprocity. Pres. Palma sent a counter proposition to Washington but this has not been made public.

Cuba is a little nation less than half the size of Oregon, and the question of revenue is a serious one, when it is remembered that a president, a congress, an army and a navy have to be maintained. Cuba does not have to study a tariff schedule for protection, but for revenue and it is exceedingly doubtful if a tariff act can be written that will permit reciprocity trading. A nation having tariff for revenue, or a free trade tariff can conclude no reciprocity treaties except at the expense of revenue. Cuba realizes that now, and here counter proposition is in the nature of a rebate favorable to her sugar and tobacco without any compensating favors to the United States.

IMPORTANT HOP DECISION

Last Saturday at Salem Judge Burnett, of the circuit court, made a sweeping decision affecting hop contracts. The ruling was made in the replevin suit of A. F. Backhaus vs F. W. Buell, a Silverton grower, to get possession of 10,000 pounds of this years' hops, for which the plaintiff had contracted at 12 cents.

In deciding the case Judge Burnett holds that the ordinary hop contract operates only as a chattel mortgage, and that when the money advanced on a contract, together with the accrued interest to the date of tender has been paid or offered to the contracting purchaser, it operates the same as the cancellation of any other chattel mortgage. In cases where the advance is made, and the offer to refund the same with the added interest is made, then the ruling of the court is that the transaction terminates, and the grower has discharged his liability in the premises. The effect of the decision is that the writing of the contract in no way implies the present sale of the crop that is involved, and that the contract can operate only as a chattel mortgage on the crop.

The effect of the decision is more comprehensive than is apparent on the face of it. The bulk of the contracts that have been written affecting this year's crop are similiar to this contract, and the effect of the decision is that growers who have contracted their crop can tender in payment the amount of money that was advanced to them for harvesting purposes, under the contract, and hold their hops. Judge Burnett holds that the contracts are unilateral, and cannot be enforced.

If this decision had been made earlier it would have resulted in the growers throughout the state reaping the benefit of the present high prices, as it is nearly all hops contracted throughout the state have been delivered and paid for at contract prices.

EX-SECRETARY LONG AND THE NAVY

A series of articles which will undoubtedly be of distinct historical importance, begins in the Magazine Number of The Outlook for November. The subject is "The New American Navy," and the author is Ex-Secretary John D. Long—the man who from experience, special knowledge and official connection with the building up of the new American navy is best fitted to write such a book, for undoubtedly the series of articles will appear in book form after their magazine publication. The first chapter deals with the birth of the new navy. It is illustrated by Mr. Reuterdahl, who is perhaps the most successful of all American illustrators who deal with the sea and with ships. In addition to Mr. Reuterdahl's original drawings, the series of articles will be illustrated by portraits and in other ways. The story as Ex-Secretary Long tells it in these articles is one to cause a patriotic American to feel a thrill of pride in the achievements of our navy in recent years, and in the foresight and skill with which preparation has been made for any possible future demands.

BRIBE GIVING AND BRIBE TAKING

In printing a fine full-page portrait of Mr. W. J. Folk, the St. Louis Circuit Attorney, who has brought about the exposure of bribery in St. Louis and the conviction of bribe-givers and bride-takers, The Outlook remarks: "For nearly a year he has been the central figure in the most remarkable prosecution of political knavery since that of the Tweed Ring in the early seventies. This prosecution has resulted in the conviction, not only of bribe-takers, but of bribe-givers, and has brought home to the rich and influential classes of St. Louis the extent to which the responsibility for civic corruption rests upon them. Mr. Folk was nominated for his present office against his protest, but having been elected, has discharged its duties against still stronger protects from party leaders who put him in nomination. Democratic corruptionists, as well as Republican, have been prosecuted without fear or favor."

The fall elections in a majority of the states occurs next Tuesday and the campaigns in those states is waxing hot. In the state nearest us, Washington republican success is conceded. The issues there can hardly be said to be national. Rather they are local and have to do with the railroad problem. Gov. McBride stands for a railroad commission that the corporations may be controlled, while the transportation lines oppose. This is not just what the question meant in this state a few years ago when there was a popular demand for the repeal of the law providing a commission. It was asserted then that a railroad commission was in the interest of the roads, though the INDEPENDENT was not convinced that the claim was fact. In Washington the democrats seem to be joining the corporations which is a little to be wondered at, seeing the wording of some of their platform resolutions touching the trust problems.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $11,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases.

They commenced [illegible] investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 5, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address JOHN J.
