THE CELLO PORTAGE.

There is to be a piece of ill advised legislation enacted at this session of the legislature. The first step was taken last Tuesday when the House by a vote of 47 to 8, absent 5, appropriated $165,000.00 to build a state rail-road eight and a half miles long around the Cello falls and the dalles of the Columbia. Notwithstanding the statements of the friends of the measure it is not believed that the road can be built and equipped for any such sum. The portage road, one mile long, built in 1891 at the Cascades cost $63,000. The appropriation 1891 was for $60,000. In 1891 there was a deficiency bill for the remainder. Even this did not secure a satisfactory equipment for $1,000 was appropriated in 1893 and again $2,000 in 1895. The road at Cascades was not more difficult of construction than will be the Cello portage. In 1891 there was a proposition before the legislature to build the same road. Then the estimates were $400,000. There is already a portage road built on the Washington side around the same obstructions which is understood to have cost more than the amount appropriated this week by our legislature. The road is not operated. The promoters claim to have a right of way for the road already secured but examination of the facts lead to a different conclusion. What is counted on is the government right of way for the canal which was given to the United States by the O. R. & N. Co. If the general government allows Oregon to occupy this right of way, an act of congress will be necessary. That has not yet been obtained, at least the promoters do not so say. They seem to take it for granted that Uncle Sam will permit such occupancy. The Cascades portage paid $4,000 for a flat-iron plant of eight acres that was afterwards sold for $500. It is predicted that later on the Cello portage commission will find several tracts that will have to be bought. The $165,000 will melt some before grading is commenced. The road will not do for the people what is claimed. From the Dalles to Portland, 89 miles there is sharp competition between rail and river. Indeed up to this week there has been two competing steamboat lines. Taking effect last Monday the boat lines were merged, but the water and rail competition still exists. The water tariffs are not at hand, but the O. R. & N. tariff can be quoted. From the Dalles to Portland the rate is $1.50 per ton. The water rate may be lower. Between Umatilla, the last river station in Oregon, and the Dalles a distance of 97 miles, the rate is only $1.50. In quoting that figure it is assumed that the car when loaded will go through to Portland since to unload at The Dalles would impose the greater short haul tariff. Yet on that stretch of 97 miles there is no water competition, and it is believed that, since the shorter haul between The Dalles and Portland when there is water competition, the installing of a portage at Cello cannot lower rates below the present tariff of the O. R. & N. The Cascades portage charged 40 cents per ton for one mile, and it is assumed that the State cannot operate the Cello portage for less than 50 cents per ton. If the water rate from The Dalles to Portland is $1.50 that sum must be increased by the 50 cent portage so that the water tariff between Umatilla and The Dalles will be $2.00 per ton which is more than met now by the O. R. & N. The rail rate from Pendleton to Portland a distance of 230 miles with no water competition except from The Dalles is $3.15 per ton. The water from Umatilla, the nearest river point to Pendleton, to Portland as above estimated cannot be less than $3.50 and it is not believed that shippers will pay a short haul of 44 miles, unload and pay $3.50 by water to Portland when the railroad will take the car the whole 230 miles for $3.15. Wherefore the benefits expected of the portage road will not be realized. The only country that can possibly be benefited is a belt on the south side of the Columbia from Umatilla to the Dalles as broad as can be profitably served by wagon and team, say a belt 25 miles broad. The good roads people are fond of stating that carrying dirt roads costs 25 cents per ton per mile, and on improved roads 8 cents, taking the latter figure and to get to the river from the 25 mile limit would impose a burden of $2.00 per ton added to the river tariff makes $5.50 to Portland, but by rail the present rate is only $3.00 by rail and $2.00 by wagon, total $5.00. A loss because of the portage. Therefore no counties in Eastern Oregon can possibly be benefited except Wasco, Sherman and Gilliam with a small part of Umatilla and that the most sterile. The contrary has been shown above, Union will not be benefited nor Wallowa, nor Baker, nor Harney, nor Grant, nor the Prineville country nor no part of Western or Southern Oregon with Klamath and Lake unmentioned. It is a bad job. The vote in the House on the bill was aye: Bailey, Banks, Bityen, Biskley, Both, Burgess, Burleigh, Carnahan, Claypool, Cobb, Danneman, Davey, Eddy, Edwards, Emmitt, Fisher, Galloway, Gill, Ginn, Hahn, Hale, Hansbrough, Hawkins, Hermann, Hines, Hobson, Hudson, Hume, Hutchinson, Johnson, Jones (of Lincoln), Jones (of Multnomah), Judd, Kay, Kramer, La Follett, Malarky, Miles, Murphy, Nottingham, Orton, Phelps, Riddle, Robbins, Shelly, Simmons, and Wheelon.

Noes: Cantrall, Cornett, Gault, Huntly, Otwell, Paulsen, Purdy, and Webster. Absent: Adams, Hayden, Reed, Test and Mr. Speaker.

AT WORK UNDER A DEFECTIVE CONSTITUTION.

The interesting discovery was made this week that we have been administering the state government since 1859 when we had not the original constitution as compiled by the convention, but a copy thereof. The copy is bound in leather and kept in the vault of the secretary of state's office. It only purports to be a copy, and is signed by the delegates to the constitutional convention where it was convenient and where it was not, the signature of the absent delegate has been cut from a letter or some other writing and attached to the document by moulage or other adhesive substance. The original manuscript draft of the constitution was sent to Washington, D. C. where it now is.

But the copy kept at home is not a correct transcript from the original at least in one particular. Section two Article 17 of the state constitution printed in the Oregon statute is an exact copy of the section as it appears in the "Copy of the Constitution of the State of Oregon" now on file with the secretary of state, and reads: If two or more amendments shall be submitted in such manner as the electors shall vote for or against each of such amendments separately, and while an amendment or amendments which shall have been agreed upon by one legislative assembly shall be awaiting the action of a legislative assembly, or of the electors, no additional amendment or amendments shall be proposed."

In a book compiled under the order of the United States Senate by Ben. Perley Poor, entitled Charters and Constitutions of the United States, the section in question is printed in these words: page 1505: Article 17, Section 2. If two or more amendments shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be submitted in such manner that the electors shall vote for or against each of such amendments separately, and while an amendment or amendments, which shall have been agreed upon by one legislative assembly, shall be awaiting the action of a Legislative Assembly, or of the electors, no additional amendment or amendments shall be proposed.

It is reasonably certain that Mr. Poor had the original constitution before him when he prepared the copy for his book. It will be noted that eight words have been omitted from the copy of the constitution filed in the Secretary of State's office, to wit: "at the same time, they shall be submitted." The error is a very common one and easily made. Now whether the omission is material, it raises a question as to other parts of the state document, and this discovery will cause the lawyers to closely scan the provisions of the Constitution where disputes are pending involving money.

As a matter of news it may be stated that the constitutional amendment proposed by the last legislature were indefinitely postponed for the reason they were proposed while an amendment was yet pending—the Referendum. There was an exception in the case of amendment regulating the formation of co-operations. The House seems to think that corporations are of more importance than changing the time of holding the state election. One representative in debate said he supported the resolution because he wanted to get the question before the supreme court.

The Forest Grove Times severely criticizes Hillsboro for thiaigs claimed to have been done on a very stormy day recently when there was a great company of bereaved visitors here. The INDEPENDENT did not go smelling about that day, but did open its office and maintain fires for the comfort of all that chose to enter. This attempt at hospitality was abused by some who warmed at the stoves. The stores may not have been thrown open to the public, but the lodge rooms were. They were warm and comfortable and of easy access. The homes of our citizens were also open, and lunches kept constantly prepared in the dining-rooms. Invitations were extended to every one who could be reached, accepted in some instances, rejected in others. Because of this entertainment our wives and daughters were kept at home, and away from the ceremonies they would liked to have attended. The Times is not loyal to his state or his county. No word of complaint ought to have been made even if the allegations are as charged, which they are not. No man can afford to tear up his own home.

The Forest Grove Times accuses the INDEPENDENT of printing in that it publishes the delinquent tax list. Let's see; in some counties of the state 30 cents per line has been charged for printing the list. The Legislature of 1901, considered this too much wherefore the compensation was reduced to 25 cents. The County Court invited bids for doing the work. The Times had notice for it answered. The INDEPENDENT got the work only because it was the lowest bidder, at 81 cents. The Times' bid was higher, and had it been awarded the contract, it would have been due to a "pull" which the County Court never has recognized.

The Forest Grove Times fiercely attacks Rep. Gault, because he introduces House Bill 183, and intimates that he has or is to receive a money consideration for his services for so doing. Now the INDEPENDENT and Mr. Gault are very closely associated and any defence of that gentleman would be in the nature of gross egotism, but in his absence the INDEPENDENT wants to say to the Times that its thoughts in that direction are drawn from its own knowledge of what it would do. Mr. Gault on Monday last succeeded in having passed the house his bill H. B. 182, which, if passed by the senate, will in the course of the year put several hundred dollars into the general fund of the county. The Times will probably object to this care of the people's interests.

The Forest Grove Times get no chicken pie, hence its great bellyache. The publicity as well keep its eye on this recent arrival. There may be sufficient cause for immigration from Nebraska.

The Forest Grove Times after a residence of only a few months, set itself up to be the mentor of Washington county. Another six months and it will be a boss.

OUR NATIVE TREES

By THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D., Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

V.—The Forests of No America.

Continued from First Page. rich abundance, but there are no clematis growing now on all this side of the world. One nearest representative are the laurels and the samaras. We have already in these chapters referred to the tulip tree, a glorious tree, but the only lone species of the genus now on earth. But in cretaceous times tulip trees flourished all over the northern world, many species in this country and in Europe, ranging south as far as Italy and north as far as Greenland. In fact, everything seems to indicate that for our northern world at least the forests of cretaceous times were richer, more varied, more extended and in every way finer than those we know to-day. These trees were the immediate ancestors of those we know, the same, yet not quite the same. Conditions on the earth have changed since forests were at their prime, the glory of the world. Vegetation entered first upon life's scope and culminated first, culminated in the deciduous forests that cast their leaves through countless generations along the shores of the cretaceous seas. With the close of the cretaceous and of terrestrial animals first appears, competitors of the forest, a new factor in environment, changing from that time on the entire trend of biologic differentiation. These were the mammals, the culmination of earth's fauna in the progress of the ages, until at the last, in these most recent times, the destinies of the forest and of the animal world as well rest in the hands of a single creature, the highest mammal, the god of this lower world. His name is man!

THOS. H. & E. R. TONGUE, Attorneys for plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Washington County. Mattie A. Arnold as guardian ad-litem and next of kin, for La Ronda Mott Pierce, minor plaintiff vs Mary McCoy, Martin L.
