The Oregon Condensed Milk Company of which Dr. J. P. Tameis is president, is desirous of enlarging their plant for they already have more orders than they can fill. The doctor would like to put in a $75,000 plant but this he cannot do unless he has the co-operation of the farmers. He proposes to have the farmers take stock and pay for it either by cash, but more preferably by furnishing cows, this will guarantee the milk which will be required to run the plant. A plant of this kind should have from 150,000 to 200,000 pounds of milk a day and the stock to furnish this in a radius of five miles would enrich Hillsboro a great deal. It is suggested by some that Hillsboro should furnish a suitable piece of ground for the plant, but Dr. Tameis says if his ideas are carried into effect the stock-holders can have the plant at the place they may decide but of course it would be more preferable on the rail-road. Dr. Tameis has an agreement with the company of which he bought his machinery that he can put in a larger plant within a year and a half and turn in his old machinery for larger without loss. It seems to the INDEPENDENT that the farmers and people here should awake and not let this opportunity pass for its business. If the plant is enlarged it will make its own cans, thus employing a large force of men. Just stop and think what it would mean to Hillsboro to have a pay roll of 150 or 200 men, and the farmers for five miles radius receiving $400 and more every month. Our population would increase doubtless in two years. Of course this plant will increase to this proposed capacity in ten years but we see an opportunity now; the company can't fill its orders; it manufactures a product that does not spoil. A large plant could furnish cream to Alaska, Honolulu, and countries on the other side of the Pacific. A guarantee of 10 per cent on money invested will be given. Dr. Tameis will not make anymore by increasing the plant for he will be on an equal footing with every farmer drawing his dividends in proportion to the number of cows he keeps. Now farmers put your shoulder to the wheel and enjoy a little prosperity.
The West Side & Suburban Railway Company advanced a step in its path to the long sought for city franchise. By an ordinance introduced by Zimmerman the company is granted the right of way on First street from Jefferson to Couch, to Twelfth, to Marshall, to Twenty-fifth, to Lovejoy, thence west to the Cornell road, to Twenty-ninth, to Quimby, to Thirty-first across Fall from Quimby to Pettygrove, to the Cornell road, thence west of St. Vincent's Hospital, along Melinda, Adelaide, Edward, Jeffrey and Shattuck avenues and Linden, Filbert, Cross, Cedar, Ariel, Sutter, Alexander and Juniper streets, King's Heights, along the mountain slope and the highway which is an extension of Irving avenue to Wood's Addition and across Irving and Gilson avenues to the city boundary. A petition from property-owners in the First Ward was presented asking that if a franchise were granted it be along Marshall street from the city boundary to Twelfth, to Couch, to First and thence to Madison. Ex-City Attorney Long, who appeared for the company, said that the object of the petition was to keep the railway off Lovejoy street. The protests of the property-owners was unwarrented, as the company would occupy only a small part of the street and that only in order to reduce the grade in making the ascent of the hills. The ordinance was referred to the street committee.
The Portland Congregational Ministerial Association held its monthly meeting at Pacific University last Monday. The members of the association, which consists of the Congregational pastors of Portland and Oregon City and surrounding towns, went to Forest Grove and spent the entire day at Pacific University. B. G. Ray, of Sylva; Rev. J. J. Starn, of the Sunnyside Church, Portland, and Rev. E. S. Bollinger, of Oregon City. Most all of these ministers are old friends of Pacific University some having attended school there, and nearly all spoke of their connection with the University in the past. The closing address was made by Rev. E. L. House, of the First Church, Portland, who spoke of the importance which Congregational schools have had among the educational institutions of the country, citing Harvard and Yale, which were founded as Congregational colleges. At 1 o'clock the association held its meeting in the school Christian Association rooms, and the remainder of the day was spent visiting the various classes during their recitations.
