UNITED ARTISANS.

An Assembly of United Artisans will be organized at North Yamhill within the next week or ten days. Mr. Bruce Wilkes with his Artisan Orchestra and several officers of Ruby Assembly No 29 will go from Hillsboro to assist in the beautiful initiation and installation ceremonies. Forest Grove Assembly will also assist in this work with their exemplifiers.

Quite a large assembly is being instituted at that place and the citizens are beginning to realize the real worth of the Artisans, whose growth is steady all over the state and conservative.

The United Artisans rates of insurance are the lowest of all insurance orders. Its doors are open to membership of boys and girls from 16 to 18 as social members and gentlemen and ladies alike. Its members are selected from among the best citizens of each community. Its assembly rooms are as refined in their atmosphere as the best of home society and the saloon and its people are not at home among us. Its social features alone are doing wonders in the refinement and culture of its young members. The second week of each month is set aside for members and their whole families and invited friends.

Its care in sickness and distress to its members social as well as benefits is to be commended all over the country. Its accident policy places the cripples in circumstances sufficient to support themselves without begging. Its life insurance takes care of its beneficiaries in case death overtakes its members unexpectedly, which it always does, and its old age pension to its members makes it possible for an aged member to maintain an independent livelihood even if all his relatives are gone. Its expectancy table and graded assessment table places every man equal in risks and liabilities. The early deaths among its members helps to pay the policies of its other members and the rates of the member who lives to a good old age stands more of a chance of being reduced than of being raised and each member receives the same per cent on his investments. Instead of the early deaths taxing the living members with increased rates and double assessments as he grows older and less able to provide for himself they simply return the money to them in interest.

In less than twenty years from the death of any benefit member the amount of money left in the reserve fund by him has returned in interest to our contingent fund and benefit fund. All the money drawn from those funds by the deceased member is still in the reserve fund drawing interest for its members and always will be there. Think of this and then remember that the United Artisans are less than ten years old and are today the wealthiest order per capita in America. Wealth and economy in money matters is what counts in any order.

Mrs. J. A. Simmons of North Yamhill, formerly of Hillsboro, is assisting Mrs. Galbreath in making up a membership list, and they are meeting with good success. No one who wishes to carry a policy will miss the opportunity laid before them at this time.

All the above benefits are included in the one policy. No change in your rate of assessments after you have joined. A contract signed in writing stands as law with the Artisans the same as any other contract. Compare this to the liability as given in the constitution of any and all orders and you may be surprised. It rustles you now to meet one assessment, what can you do in your order ten or fifteen years hence, when your death rates run heavy. The United Artisans' reserve fund interest (its contingent fund) meets all this and more, and makes us the soundest and safest order in the world. Our books at headquarters are open to inspection of any one as to the condition of things and a financial statement is printed and a copy mailed free to every member once each month, giving an itemized list of all collections, disbursements and balances on hand. We are working for a state law compelling the books at headquarters of all insurance orders to be inspected by the different states at least once a year and as often as the state thinks necessary for the protection of the policy holder, and not a single other order joins us in this effort and why? Think of this before you are barred by age or infirmities and join an order whose money is managed in an open manner and who considers it your right as well as duty to know where every cent of your money goes. A dollar is worth as much to you as to any one, and you are entitled at least to know what is done with it.

We are loaning money all over the state on first class mortgages which are examined and approved by our board of trustees. All our officers handling our funds are under heavy bonds. We do not change our secretaries, unless for a good reason, for the books in his hands represents a very large amount of money. In most of the towns outside of Portland the Oregon Assemblies carry an amount representing the funds of equal and sometimes double that of the bank and great care over this office should be exercised. One little unpretentious assembly's books were counted over not long since and found to represent $96,000 was eight years old and only two policy holders gone delinquent and one of them since has become a member again and the other is over age. This is a fair sample of the growth and percent of loss in membership in an assembly of United Artisans. Remember that the United Artisans have more money behind each thousand dollars of its policies than any other order in America and money is what counts in fraternal insurance! Don't be lumbugged in this respect! It's money that makes the concern safe! Our drawing card is money not monkey shows. All our meetings and proceedings and entertainments are suitable for the presence and participation of our mothers, sisters, wives, and daughters, and our ballot box debars the applicant who is not welcome in our homes among our family.

Maintain the dignity in your lodge room that becomes well bred lady or gentleman and make the world better thereby. Don't forget your sacred obligations and the protection of the home and all that are dear to you. Join the United Artisans, conservative, slow, safe and sound.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Boque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by Delta Drug Store.

Perpetual motion has driven more than one good fellow to desperation who for a moment thought he had the solution within his grasp. Probably the suggestion here offered that the chronic trade union fault finder is as near the ideal of perpetual motion as the student of mechanics can uncover for a model to work on. The only real fault with such a model that is apparent is the necessity of installing a costly X-ray apparatus in order to observe the inner working of the chronic fault finder. Some might assert that even an X-ray could not establish a record for modeling purposes owing to the thickness of the cuticle.

SOUL.

By NAOMI Mc DONALD PHELPS.
At one forsaken mid the desert wild
Where but the wild beasts roam,
Weary, afflicted, just a lonely child
Afar from love and home,
And there where many a deep-gashed
knap ran down,
Toward the plains scant herbage, bare
and brown;
I and my tired soul sat down,
And barked to his moon.
Soul, why are thou so sad?
And answerest thou with tears?
"Ah me, ah yes, for once I had,
In the best morn of years,
One who was true and true to me;
And children played about my knee
With pretty speech and childish glee,
Unchecked by cares or pains.
Where is thy lover true?
Whose breast was thine alone?
Alack, alas the midnight dew,
Falls on the cold grey stone;
That marks the place where grasses
creep
About the lonely spot,
And though while there I call and weep;
My dead love, answerest not.
I know, I know, he held me dear
And once, upon his listening ear
My lightest call, fell soft and clear,
Into thy keeping, give me not,
Alone, forsaken, and forgot,
Oh, let the body lie and rot
And soul return to God.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Colusa, Calif., writes "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by All Druggists.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

Last week one negro, accused of an assault on the wife of a prominent Louisiana planter, was moved from the grasp of a determined mob chiefly by the efforts of Senator Foster, of that state. When told that the negro was in the jail of St. Mary's parish, in which the senator lived, he went there, and awaited the inevitable mob. With him were the Sheriff and two Judges. A dispatch says: "It was just midnight when the mob reached the jail. Senator Foster addressed its members. He told them that the negro would be tried at once, and pleaded with them not to soil the history of the state by a lynching which was not to be excused. Sheriff Sanders assured the mob that he would protect the prisoner, and other addresses were made. It was Senator Foster, however, who won the fight for law and order." Either the mob was not as unreasonably furious as is generally the case in such instances, or else the officials were more determined or persuasive, and so, for the time at least, the crime alleged against the negro was not avenged by his murder. It is to be hoped that this incident will be a precedent that will be followed generally. These officials proved themselves not only good officers but good citizens. They are prominent men, not spoliators for assaults upon women, nor pleaders for delay in bringing out justice to the accused; but anxious and courageously insistent that the law should be respected, and that the crime of mob-murder should not be committed, for which they deserve honor at the hands of all law-abiding citizens.—Telegram

IMPROVEMENTS AT FAIR GROUNDS.

The State Board of Agriculture are making a number of needed improvements at the state fair grounds this year. A new water system costing $5000 is being put in which will add much comfort to the exhibitors and campers. More new stalls are being built to better accommodate the large number of exhibitors that are preparing to come to the fair. A large amphitheater is being built, where visitors can be seated and witness the live stock judging under cover. Many minor improvements are being made on the grounds, and everything is being done to make a visit to the fair a pleasant event and a joy forever.

DAYBREAK IN MANCHURIA.

Again the United States and the world learns that the Manchurian question has been disposed of satisfactorily, and again there will be rejoicing. China is to open two or three additional ports to the trade of the United States and the rest of the countries, and St. Petersburg has assured Washington that she will not in any way oppose such action. This, of course, means that the ports referred to must be in Manchuria, for that is all the Chinese territory that Russia has any decisive voice in. There is an intimation that one of the ports to be opened is Moukden and another is Ta Tung Kao. The former is the most important inland port in Manchuria and the latter is at the mouth of the Yul river. It is easy to believe the report which comes from Washington that "the state department is highly gratified at this outcome, feeling that it has secured, not only for American commerce, but for the commerce of the world at large, a very substantial gain."

Many persons will be skeptical about the present settlement. They remember that one or two adjustments were made which did not stay adjusted. The open door was promised permanently by Russia and all other countries which have territorial interests or ambitions in China, but these promises were always followed by threats or menaces that the door, either in Russia sphere of influence or in that of some of the rest of the world would be barred in the near future. It was Russia from whom the trouble was, in most instances, to come. All these stories as regards Russia were accompanied by disclaimers of that country's part of any intention to depart from the letter or the spirit of such pledges as had been made. Japan and England had been suspicious of Russia for a long time, and some of this distrust began to be shared by the United States recently, for reasons which see need good to the government at Washington. The change in the situation which is now announced will, for many reasons, be very pleasing to the American people. If the settlement which has just been reported stays settled, the American government will have scored a brilliant triumph in European and Asiatic politics. The thing which has been accomplished now, or which is said to have been accomplished, was attempted long ago by England and Japan, and each failed. The maintenance of the equality in commercial privileges in China has been an object with those two countries for many years, yet no assurances were obtained from Russia, France and Germany which were satisfactory. When the United States went to work to obtain these pledges it met with success, or what seemed to be success, from the start. There was praise for American diplomacy from London, Paris, St. Petersburg and the rest of the great capitals, but somehow every few months something would occur which would make Americans and others skeptical about the permanency or reality of the promises. This time there is a circumstantiality about the assurances which will give them weight, not only in the United States, but in England and the rest of the world. If the present adjustment sticks, a very notable triumph will be gained by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay. It is a triumph which is rendered all the more creditable and conspicuous by the fact that the concessions which America has obtained for itself it has obtained also for the entire world.

PUBLIC LAND AREA.

The annual report of the United States land offices has been completed. Fourteen counties are embraced in the Oregon City district and the gives a considerable amount of statistics for each county. The report gives the following statistics as to area in acres unappropriated and unsurveyed: surveyed, 455,048; unsurveyed, 141,690; total, 596,738, as against 337,286 surveyed; 161,190 unsurveyed; 495,476 total, as shown in the report a year ago. The 14 counties constituting the Oregon City land district are: Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Columbia, Crook, Lincoln, Linn, Marion, Multnomah, Polk, Tillamook, Wasco, Yamhill, and Washington. The area in acres appropriated last year was 5,975,115 while the acreage under the same classification this year amounts to 5,629,846.

Cholera Infantum.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by Delta Drug Store.

The Breeders' Combination auction sale of live stock to be held at the Oregon state fair this fall will be one of the greatest sales ever held on the Pacific coast. Three travelers were arrested at Junction Lane county last Saturday evening on a warrant issued from Justice Clark's Court, the charges in each instance being petit larceny. John Lawrence was the complaining witness and he claimed to have been the owner of a pair of chickens, on which these "knights of the road" were making merry when "pinched." The men claimed to have purchased the fowls in Coburg, having traded a ring for them, and having received 50 cents to boot, while Lawrence and his wife swore to their property. The three travelers were found guilty and sentenced by Justice Clark to serve 25 days each in the county jail. They were taken to Eugene on the midnight train by Deputies Robinson and Nichols.—Eugene Register.

One Lane sloop Rock and his pal Smith were sentenced to serve a 10 years each in the penitentiary last week at Astoria by Judge McBride. Lane is the fellow who was in the habit of suing cities for damages for injuries sustained when he fell through an open trap door or through a defective sidewalk. Astoria refused to be held up and brought a criminal action against these two worthies alleging perjury. The charge was proven as the trial of one and the other plead guilty. Judge McBride had the rest. The defendants have been taken to Salem. The Astoria Herald commenting remarks: They were addicted to the habit of lying and for this reason the newspapers roasted them. If there is any lying to be done, the press can do it without the assistance of Bark or Smith or consent of any foreign nation on earth.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The amount of building now going on, together with that in view here, gives plenty of evidence that Newberg is a thriving, growing town, with a bright future in view. We are going to the front. —Newberg Graphic.

Thieves on night of July 25 entered the beautiful church of St. Mary's at Mt. Angel Marion Co. by prying open the doors. They stole the chalice in which the sacrament is kept and the golden lunula. Some of the hosts were also taken and others were scattered over the altar and floor.

While working in the hay field on R. L. Bowley's place near town Wednesday Joe Steward killed a large rattlesnake with his pitchfork. On its tail were eight rattles and a button. This is the first rattlesnake killed around here for some time, though they used to be numerous on the hill north of town. —Sheridan Sun.

The Southern Pacific Company has built a large and commodious station at the Fair Grounds, which will be appreciated by the traveling public. The new station is very neat and attractive, and fills a long-felt want. The management of the state fair feels particularly pleased over the new station, and they say that it is a good attraction for the fair.

F. L. Roberts, charged with attempting to set fire to W. A. Howe's warehouse in Carlton, was arraigned before Justice Rogers Wednesday, and was bound over under $1,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury, and in default of bail was sent to jail. It is also thought he is responsible for the Geo. Odham's livery stable fire. —McMinnville Reporter.

A man in Clackamas county had a fight in Texas with his wife 25 years ago in which her nose was broken. Last week she sued for a divorce pleading this incident as the cruel and inhuman treatment. There was a case tried in the Jackson county circuit court some 20 or more years ago where this element of time after the injury was in question, in which the court held that subsequent cohabitation was to be construed as forgiving the original injury and that an act that at first might have been a ground for divorce could not be plead except at the time or after a reasonable delay.
