his tent at the county seat; he is a gentleman who believes in the West and in a "greater commonwealth" and dignified journalistic enterprises. We therefore accord him a high place here.

Dr. P. C. CAMPBELL.—There are corn doctors, called chiropractors, and horse doctors, called veterinary surgeons, and men doctors called physicians and surgeons, and doctors of every name to represent every ache and pain of the animal kingdom, but we think is much more of a utilitarian, for he really does doctor your machine as to send you on your way rejoicing. Mr. Campbell has operated here one year and has built up an excellent business; he is a young man of business ability and is an expert artist in his business. We accord him generous mention in these columns.

THE BICYCLE DOCTOR

NELSON HARDWARE CO.—A progressive and representative business house of this city which has attained prominence in the commercial life of the county seat is the above named firm, which operates the leading hardware and agricultural department supply house of this section and he has succeeded by utilizing the most honorable and up to date business methods and by giving the very best value money could buy anywhere; have increased here one year and have established an excellent business. Mr. Nelson, the general manager, is of the enterprising type and is alive to the power and usefulness of printer's ink. We take pleasure in awarding him a high place in these columns.

ATTORNEY BENTON BOWMAN.—An attorney who makes a client's cause his own and who possesses the qualities that characterize the legal mind is the subject of this sketch. He has been here for twelve years and the calendar of the courts go to show that he has won his share of the victories and honors; his high rank and standing are the results of close attention to his profession coupled with rare capacity, native and acquired. Attorney Bowman has officiated as city recorder six years and city attorney two; has served as chairman of the republican county central committee two years; he is a graduate of the Northern Indiana Normal at Valparaiso, and it is with pleasure we award him a high place in these columns.

W. E. WHEELER.—This is a new and important industry added to the manufacturing interests of this city. Mr. Wheeler has just recently installed the machinery for a pump factory and planing mill which will add materially to the wealth of the city; he is a gentleman of the get up and dust type, full of vim and push and we are glad to bespeak a word on behalf of this enterprise. Mr. Wheeler is fitting up for doing all kinds of planing mill work; he operated for some time in the same line at Forest Grove prior to pitching his tent here. We extend him a hearty welcome and award him a high place in these columns.

CLIMAX MILLING CO.—The milling interests of this section are very important and this flourishing firm must, therefore, receive due honor in these columns. Mr. J. M. Greear, the expert miller and proprietor of the Climax Milling Co. mill, has operated for thirteen years; his leading brands, "Moss Rose" and "Great Reiser," command a very large patronage throughout the state; he attends strictly to business and pays the highest spot cash price for wheat, and does a large shipping business; he has served the interests of his home city as alderman two terms and takes an interest in the political, social and educational problems aiming at the well being of the community.

E. J. KURATLI.—There is no conjunction of faculties more likely to bring success in undertakings than to grasp at the right moment those opportunities which come sooner or later to all men. This perception and readiness is found in the above named gentleman. He is an official that is energetic, resourceful, and integrity has been the guiding star of his life. It is said "reading" makes a "full" man, "speaking" a "ready" man and "writing" a correct man, and as a recorder his record during the past term of office has insured his reelection and we are very glad to enroll his name in biography among the celebrities of our city.

J. B. WILKES, Abstract.—In this publication will be found memoirs of many who have figured prominently in business, public and social life each contributing in his sphere of action to the well being of the commonwealth and the advancement of its normal and legitimate growth. Such men merit definite tribute of respect in an edition of this nature and in connection with the records of those who have contributed in a marked degree to the material prosperity of Hillsboro. Mr. Wilkes is known and honored as a sterling citizen. He is a native Oregonian, and operated in the above capacity for fourteen years. He believes in dignified journalistic enterprise and never lays behind in playing his part for the well being of our city.

CITY BAKERY.—"Bread is the staff of life" and Messrs. Specht & Mostert of the City Bakery furnish this in great abundance and to perfection. The popularity of this bakery is due to the excellence of their goods as their bread, cakes, pies etc., more nearly approach what our mother used to make than we thought possible. Their place is neatness itself and they are well adapted for this business in every way. They have been established here three years and have built up an excellent run of custom. They are both practical expert bakers and have followed the business for a number of years. Their establishment is headquarters for banquet supplies and wedding cakes and their prices are always right.

HON. W. D. HARE.—With a genius for public affairs, as well as professional pursuits, which has enabled him to give attention to them with very gratifying success, Attorney W. G. Hare has found on the Pacific Coast of Northwestern Oregon opportunity for the full play of his productive faculties. He has practiced law here for 30 years and represented the interests of Washington county as their popular and efficient state senator and member of the legislature. He is a gentleman of sterling worth and of the "royal blood" type who believes in "printer's ink" and in dignified journalistic enterprise aiming at the well being of the community.

W. O. DONELSON.—Undertaking is a business that requires delicacy, sympathetic tact and sound judgement and Mr. Donelson understands this line thoroughly. He takes full charge of funerals from crepe to flowers and he attends the obsequies in the most up-to-date method. He performs interments in any style desired and he can be relied on most implicitly. As an embalmer he is not excelled and he has a thorough scientific knowledge of the art. He also carries furniture of all kinds and energy, enterprise, and by well directed business efforts he has built up a reputation of which any business man might be proud. He has been here nearly four years.

DELTA DRUG STORE.—Our drug stores must certainly come in for prominent mention in this write-up edition and none by better right than the Delta Drug Store. The prescription are compounded from absolutely pure drugs and here one receives just exactly what he pays for, and as a consequence business is always brisk at this establishment. A full line of drugs, chemicals, perfumes, proprietary medicines, notions, stationery etc., are kept in stock and the entire establishment is run on correct up-to-date commercial principles. Mr. Wm. Tucker, manager has operated in this capacity for two years and is one of the most promising young business men in Hillsboro, of rare ability and of the progressive type.

GEO. A. MORGAN.—Our town and county "dads" are receiving prominent mention in Hillsboro in biography and we take pleasure in presenting a brief pen picture of our efficient county clerk to our many readers. He has officiated in this capacity for the past four years and we do not think the chair was ever filled by a better man. He is a keenly intelligent gentleman to meet, liberal in his views and is a firm believer in dignified journalistic enterprise and has been closely identified with the growth of Hillsboro and community.

J. A. IMBRIE.—The subject of this sketch has officiated as deputy register clerk for the past three terms and was the county clerk two terms. He is one of the most efficient representatives of the pen in this department in the county and his records speak for itself and needs no encomiums at the hands of the press. Mr. Imbrie is well acquainted throughout the county with its people and the resources. He takes an active interest in worthy movements aiming at a greater city, county or commonwealth.

W. M. JACKSON.—The treasurer of the county, is the most responsible of all the offices and we do not think the chair could be filled by an abler man in the entire county. His re-election to his second term bespeaks for the entire satisfaction he has given the people whom he represents and as the poet has well said; "Be noble and the nobleness of others that lies sleeping will rise in majesty to meet thine own"—which, indeed, expresses the mutual sentiment of candidate and voters. Mr. Jackson has been in the county for eleven years and has operated in the mercantile and real estate lines. He is a gentleman of merit and of the "royal blood" type, who commands honorable mention in these pages.

G. W. PATTERSON & SON.—This house has been operating in this section for fifteen years and are still at the "old" stand supplying their many patrons and friends. They are expert furniture and undertaking representatives and licensed embalmers. Senator Patterson represented the county as senator two terms and has officiated as city treasurer. G. A. Patterson is a graduate of the Pacific University and Portland Business College. The long established reputation of this house for fair dealing and prices that are "right" needs no encomiums at the hands of the press. And we therefore take pleasure in assigning them a place of honor among the enrolled celebrities of Hillsboro.

HILLSBORO HOTEL.—This is a neat, commodious and comfortable hotel and is well deserving special mention in this biographical edition. The table is excellent and the guests are well taken care of and Mr. C. H. Jeremiah, proprietor, leaves nothing undone for their comfort. The rooms are well lighted and furnished and the festive board once tried insures this hotel a constant patronage. Mr. Jeremiah has been the popular host for fifteen months; he was born in New York, the great empire state of the Union, operated for some time in agricultural pursuits in Missouri and took Greeley's advice and came west to Oregon and made his money. We award him generous mention here.

ELLIS' GALLERY.—The desire to preserve the pictured semblance of loved ones is as natural as life itself, and we take pleasure in presenting to our readers a brief sketch of Mr. Crandall, manager of the Ellis' Gallery on Seventh St. Mr. Crandall has followed the business for fourteen years and operates the leading gallery in Cheboygan, Michigan; he is a member of the Photographers association of America, and is a home product of this city and a native Oregonian. A call at his gallery would amply attest his abilities as an artist; he is up-to-date in the Eastern methods and processes in the "art" and we bespeak for him a very gratifying patronage.

THOMAS H. TONGUE, Jr.—The legal lights of our city come in for distinction in this review issue. Attorney Tongue takes high rank at the bar, in character and legal attainment and is one of the leaders. He is the esteemed city attorney; has been well trained for his profession, being an honor graduate of the Pacific University and law department of the Columbian University. He is son of Congressman Tongue, Sr., who represented the First congressional district and fell on the battlefield of politics while actively engaged for his constituents in congress at Washington. We take pleasure in awarding City Attorney Tongue a place of honor in this edition.

ATTY W. N. BARRETT.—An attorney of the highest social, political and professional standing, and attainment of Hillsboro that has always been characterized as of the progressive type and of the strictest honor and veracity, is the subject of this sketch. History is but the essence of biography and the career of a gentleman of Attorney Barrett's type is a source of inspiration to a community and the profession to which he belongs. He is a graduate of Tufts Academy and the State University. He has served the interests of the city for seven consecutive years as recorder, mayor three terms, state representative to the legislature on the republican ticket two terms, and attorney of the Fifth Judicial district. He enjoys the highest esteem of the entire community and the fraternity of his profession, and merits honorable mention amongst the gilt-edged celebrities of this edition.

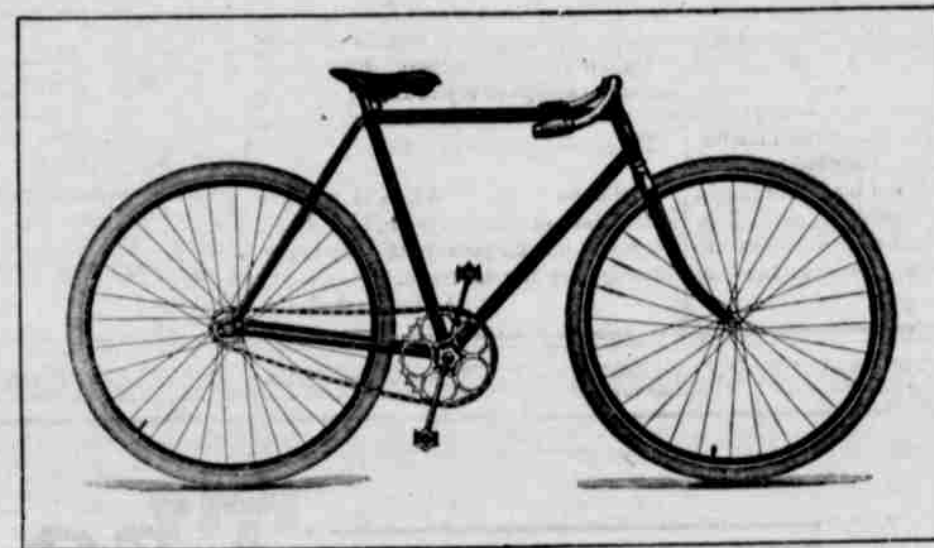

BATES & HEIDEL.—"Cash for Produce." This is an enterprise just opened and has the right metallic ring about it for the farmer. They operate a commission house for all kinds of farm produce and pay the highest spot cash prices the market affords. They keep in close touch with the best buyers and houses in Portland and farmers will find here a ready market for everything at approximately Portland prices. They are gentlemen of the go-ahead type and we bespeak a very large patronage for them. In this edition we award them worthy mention.

J. W. SEWELL.—In reviewing our county officials this gentleman commands a place of distinction. He has held the reins of power as one of our county "dads" during the past four years and as such has acquitted himself as an able executive official and progressive resident of our city. He is a home product; born and brought up in Washington County and is well and favorably known throughout this section of the state. He has been identified, principally, with the agricultural interests of the county and is an authority in that department. On his merits alone he commands worthy mention in these columns.

E. B. TONGUE.—Our county attorney merits a place of honor in this biographical edition. He has practiced at the bar since '98 and is present incumbent as county attorney, and deputy district attorney. He received his education at the Pacific and State University and moreover is a native Oregonian and son of the late Congressman Tongue. He is a young attorney of scholarship and natural talent that marks him as a born advocate. He is of legal mind and judicial temperament and we give him generous mention here.

GEO. R. BAGLEY.—Genuine success is not likely to be attained unless labored for and sought with consecutive effort. The subject of this sketch has conserved and applied his energies to this field and read law under the late Congressman Tongue of this city. He is a young man of talent, energy and indomitable perseverance that has won for him at the bar high rank as a student of the profession and a reputation as a safe and conservative counsellor among his clientele. He has practiced here since '95 and on his merits is entitled to generous mention in this biographical issue.

DR. J. E. ADKINS.—In chronicling in this biographical edition representative business and professional men of our city, here is a gentleman who comes in for shining
