BURNED TO DEATH.

A Hobo Fires the Cornelius Jail and Goes Up in the Smoke.

Last Wednesday a man, who had been peddling a soldering preparation around the streets of Cornelius, proceeded to fill up on bug juice, and about 9 o'clock that evening the marshal live him in for drink and disorderly. About 11 o'clock he was heard coming from the lock-up and an investigation showed the building to be on fire and the hobo cooking alive. Every effort was made to get him out of the burning structure, but it was impossible, and he perished in the flames. Coroner Brown was promptly notified and an inquest was held at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, nothing was learned beyond the facts that he was a stranger and that in endeavoring to burn his way to liberty, he lost his life. His body was brought to this city, placed in a plain wooden box and buried at the county expense. Who he was, what his name or where his friends live will probably remain a mystery, unless something may be found among his effects that will lead to identification.

A. R. Tuttle, who for years has been editor of the Elgin Recorder, one of the leading papers in Union county, died at his home in Elgin, Tuesday, after suffering some years with a cancerous growth in his stomach. He was 45 years of age.

He Wants to Get Married.

John Egerer, a Forest Grove youth wants to marry his choice, but his father frowns upon the proposition, hence there is trouble in the camp. A Vancouver, Wash., dispatch of the 4th says: John Egerer has left his happy home and his father, Frank Egerer, is unable to ascertain his whereabouts. Such is the story told this morning by John's father to the county recorder and his deputies when he gave the official a written notice not to issue John licenses to wed should he apply for such permission.

The objection to John's marriage is based on his minority, he being only 19 years of age. The woman that figures in the case is admitted to be old enough in wed to without the consent of her parents. Agnes Toy is the woman he is alleged to be deeply enamored with, and Egerer, the elder states that she is not under thirty years of age.

The boy's father came all the way from Forest Grove, Or., to head his son off in Vancouver, as it was rumored that the boy and his intended bride were headed for this burg for the express purpose of being happily joined in wedlock. The father has undoubtedly succeeded, as far as the parties getting licenses in Clark county is concerned, unless they secured the permit under some other name.

The couple have been two or three days from their home at Forest Grove, and it is feared by the boy's father that they may have went elsewhere and carried out their intentions.

The boys father has sent out warnings to various other towns advising county auditors that he refuses his consent.

How to be Happy.

Many of us miss the joys that might be ours by keeping our eyes fixed on those of other people. No one can enjoy his own opportunities for happiness while he is envious of another's. We lose a great deal of the joy of living by not cheerfully accepting the small pleasures that come to us every day, instead of longing and wishing for what belongs to others. We do not take pleasure in our own modest horse and carriage, or because we long for the automobile or victoria that some one else owns. The edge is taken off the enjoyment of our own little home because we are watching the palatial residence of our neighbors. We can get no satisfaction out of a trolley ride into the country or out on a river steamer, because some one else can enjoy the luxury of his own carriage or yacht. Life has its full measure of happiness for every one of us, if we would only make up our minds to make the most of every opportunity that comes our way, instead of longing for the things that come our neighbors way.—Exchange.

OREGON LAUREL.

I have wandered all over the Southland, Stood speechless admiring its flowers 'Tween vine tangled thickets of tropical bloom.

I have strayed through sweet perfume for hours; I have plucked the ethereal beauties Where the snow of the North scarce was gone, But not one of them all can match I am sure The laurel of Oregon.

If an artist could paint upon canvass A clump that I visit each day, Could picture the ferny slope and the brook

And the flowers in the sunbless play, Ah, priceless would be the picture To me, when I travel on, For soon I will have but the memory of The laurel of Oregon.

MISCELLANEOUS HINTS.

This is the season when most women plan a thorough cleaning of the house, renovating of carpets, curtains and hangings, so a few hints as to the easiest manner in which this repairing and renewing of one's possessions may be accomplished will no doubt be appreciated by the housekeeper on whom either the burden of the work or the management of it will fall.

WALL PAPER.

Wall papers are easily cleaned of dust by tying a soft cloth over a broom and sweeping down the walls carefully.

A little turpentine dissolved in warm water is the best thing with which to wash window glass, mirrors or glass globes. A little alcohol will also do wonders in brightening glass. Turpentine is excellent for washing sinks.

A few drops of ammonia in the water in which you wash your cut glass, or any other, will do the work; if they are deeply cut, a soft brush and soap will help wonderfully.

For cleaning silver, take equal parts of ammonia and alcohol and enough whiting to make quite thick; apply with a cloth or soft brush; if the article is at all rough; set aside to dry, and by the time you have finished your other articles this will be ready to polish, which is done with a piece of woolen cloth.

Mildew is easily removed by rubbing or scraping a little common yellow soap on the article, and then a little salt or starch on that. Rub on well and put in the sunshine; or soap the linen previously wetted and apply salt and lemon juice to both sides; or apply finely powdered pipe-clay, fuller's earth or finely powdered chalk. Expose it for several hours to the atmosphere.

Ink stains on white material may be removed most effectually by first washing in a strong brine, and then wetting the spot with lemon juice. This is harmless as well as sure.

Rub with a little hard soap the inner casing of windows that shove up and down hard; treat bureau drawers in the same way.

Soot Stains.—Rub the spot with dry oatmeal before sending to the wash.

Fruit Stains.—Stretch the fabric containing the stain over a basin and pour boiling water on the stain. If the stain has been fixed by time, soak the article in a weak solution of oxalic acid or hold over the fumes of sulphur.

Pitch, Wheel Grease, Tar Stains.—Soften the stains with lard, then soak in turpentine. Scrape off the tar surface dirt; sponge clean with turpentine, and rub dry.

Vaseline Stains.—Saturate the spot with ether and turn a cup over it to prevent evaporation until the stain is removed. Use the ether with great care.

Grease Spots.—Hot water and soap generally removes these. If fixed by long standing, use ether, chloroform or naphtha. All three of these are useful as they are removed from the fire or artificial light.

Varnish and Paint.—If the stain is on a coarse fabric, dissolve by saturating with turpentine; use alcohol if on a fine fabric. Sponge with chloroform if a darkening is left by the turpentine. Be cautious not to use either the chloroform or turpentine where there is fire or artificial light.

To remove the smell of paint from a room, leave in it over night a pailful of water into which three or four onions have been sliced. Shut the door and in the morning the smell of the paint will have disappeared.

TO Mend a MACKINTOSH.—Prepare a cure by dissolving some shreds of pure India rubber in naphtha to a stiff paste. Apply a little of it to each edge to be joined; lay the mackintosh on something flat, bring the edges together and place a weight on them until the cement is hardened, when it will be neatly mended.

TO CLEANSE AND BRIGHTEN CARPETS.—After carpets have been thoroughly beaten on both sides, the colors may be brightened by the following: Put in a teaspoonful of ammonia into a pailful of warm water and wipe the carpet with a
