Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Heckerman celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary at Clinton, Ia., this week.

Chicago leads all other cities, employing 700,000 men in manufacturing industries, according to a report of a real estate board committee.

The Youth's companion published in Boston is authority for the statement that "Oregon apples are selling in the fruit stores of Boston at a higher price than oranges."

A Berlin man killed a 400 pound hog last week. That's the kind of hog to raise.—Fox Lake (Wisc.) Representative.

That's nothing. We know a hog that will weight close to those figures and he's not much of a hog either.

The greatest man in this world is the plain, plug man who pays his debts and supports his family. These remarkable men, who are thorough-breds for a time, then rob their friends are to be avoided.—Exchange.

Polygamist postmasters have been discovered in Idaho holding office under the very law they are violating. The Mormon's belief is not one which requires the sacrifice of their material prosperity for the sake of principle.—Baltimore American.

Death will not be made the penalty for trainrobbers in Oregon, the state senate having gone on record against such a measure by a vote of 26 to 3. The penalty for holding up trains and stages is imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than forty years.

After a prolonged controversy it has been decided to keep the Lewis and Clark exposition open on Sundays from noon until about 11 o'clock at night, or whatever time of closing the gates shall be. With the exception of the trail features, every building will be open and the machinery and exhibits will be in operation.

Senator Malarkey has introduced a bill which provides that no action or suit for the recovery of land sold for taxes except where the tax was paid before sale or the land redeemed after sale, shall be commenced or maintained unless commenced within six months after the passage of this act or within three years after the purchaser at the tax sale became entitled to a deed.

Forest Grove is the latest to join the Oregon Development League. A letter to Tom Richardson, notified him that at a meeting of the Board of Trade it was unanimously decided to apply for membership, and the entrance fee of $5 was inclosed. Tom Richardson was notified that he had been elected to honorary membership in the Forest Grove Board of Trade and was asked to attend the annual banquet on February 22, which he promises to do.

Salaries of several Washington county officials have been raised as follows: The sheriff in addition to his salary of $1800, is to receive compensation for traveling expenses and his deputy is to be raised from $50 to $75 a month. The deputy county clerk is to be raised from $50 to $75; deputy recorder from $40 to $50, and assessor from $3 a day to $1200 a year. Just why the treasurer's salary should not have been increased is not given. He receives the astonishing salary of $50 per month and his responsibilities are certainly fully as great as that of any other official. While the father of that bill, was doing a good thing, he ought to have pushed it all along the line.

The editor of this paper received the other morning the first installment of his annual reward for fighting, bleeding and dying that some one may have a job at Washington at a fat salary. This first installment consisted of a package containing some turnip, muskmelon, tomato, radish and lettuce seed. The remaining installments will probably drift along as our good benefactor happens to think that we may be needed as a cog in a wheel of the machinery he will need back of him to secure a renewal of his hold on his job. We are already under lasting obligations to the mighty power back of these munificent rewards, and with the reception of another gift will be ready to fight, bleed and die.—Hoxie (Ia.) Sentinel.

A man one day stopped Horace Greeley on a street of New York and said: "Mr. Greeley, I have stopped your paper." "Have you?" said Horace, "Well, that's too bad," and the old white hat went on its way. The next morning Greeley met his subscriber and said, "I thought you had stopped the Tribune." The gentleman replied, "So I did." "Then there must be some mistake," said Horace, "for I just came from the office and the presses were running and the clerks were as busy as ever, and the compositors were hard at work, and the business was going on the same as yesterday and the day before." "Oh," replied the subscriber, "I didn't mean that I had stopped the paper; I stopped only my copy of it, because I didn't like your editorials." "Pshaw man," said Greeley, "it was not worth my time to tell me such a thing as that; if you expect to control the editorials of the Tribune by the purchase of one subscription a year or if you think to find a newspaper worth reading that will express convictions that will agree with your own you are doomed to disappointment." The paper is still running and Horace Greeley has been dead for many years.

In his "Simple Life" Rev. Charles Wagner thus defines the best religion: "Your religion is good if it is vital and alive, if it nourishes in you confidence, hope, love and a sentiment of infinite value of existence; if it is allied with what is best in you against what is worst, and holds forever the necessity in becoming a new man; if it makes you understand that pain is a deliverer; if it increases your respect for the conscience of others; if it renders forgiveness more easy, fortune less arrogant, duty more dear, the beyond less visionary. If it does these things it is good, little matter its name; however rudimentary it may be, when it fills this office it comes from the source, it binds you to man and to God."

A Very Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve racked with pain, writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life."
