TWO PEACE MEN NAMED

JAPAN FOLLOWS THIS MOVE

Rioting in Warsaw and Poland - A Bread Famine in Warsaw - Attack the Police.

Washington, June 26.—Russia has given reassurance of its intentions in the peace negotiations by placing the selection of her plenipotentiaries, as follows: M. Nelidoff, Russian Ambassador at Paris, and Baron Rosen, the newly appointed Russian Ambassador at Washington.

Russia thus having taken the initiative, it is believed Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, during his call at the White House today, informally told the President that Japan's selections, also tentative, were Baron Komura, the Japanese minister for foreign affairs, and Rororo Takahira, the Japanese minister at Washington.

Warsaw, June 27.—Rioting has given place to revolution, not alone in Warsaw, but throughout all Poland. Hundreds of men and women have been shot and the enormous number of soldiers hurried into Poland by the authorities at St. Petersburg are barricaded in their arsenals while mob rule prevails.

Sanguinary encounters between the mobs and the soldiers have taken place today and in many instances the mobs have had the better of the fighting. Only the absence of competent leaders has prevented the people seizing the government seals, and many well-known structures in the cities have been put to the torch.

Here in Warsaw the conditions are most serious. Every manufacturing establishment is closed because of the failure of the workers to put in an appearance, the majority of them having obeyed the general strike order promulgated by the social democrats yesterday.

Such of the working classes as tried to go to work today were shot down in the entrances to factories by their fellow workers who are determined that all industry must cease until such time as the manufacturers secure concessions from the government which will benefit the condition of the people.

This city faces a bread famine as the result of general observance of the strike order. The bakers have joined the workmen in the streets. This is bound to result in much suffering and incidentally will add to the fury of the mob demonstrations.

Kovno, Russia, June 26.—A mob of 1000 persons surrounded and attacked the police station and the governor general's Palace today. All the windows were broken before the rioters were overpowered by the police. Five policemen were wounded. A detachment of Dragoons finally arrived and dispersed the rioters.

Starista, Russia, June 26.—Revolutionists from Tver, Central Russia, are scattering proclamations broadcast among the peasantry calling on them to rise. The proclamations are signed with the name of Father Gopon, but his name is believed to have been forged.

St. Petersburg, June 26.—The army reserves of the two capitals, St. Petersburg and Moscow, will according to a late report, be mobilized, the former, June 28 and the latter June 29.

June Pacific Monthly.

The June number of The Pacific Monthly, in keeping with the well-known publishers, has taken another big step forward. The most striking feature of this issue is perhaps the new department devoted to short stories. The editors, realizing the great value of short stories in an up-to-date magazine, have adopted a new department, the aim of which is to publish more short stories than any other ten-cent magazine, with preference given to Western stories and sentiment. There are ten unusually bright stories in this June number, and they treat in the most romantic fashion all parts of the Pacific Coast. There is a story of Japan, a story of mining in Idaho, a story of Alaska, a love story of California, an Indian story and others that make the number of usual interest in this particular.

An Elegant Summer Book.

"Restful Recreation Resorts," the 1905 Summer Book issued by the passenger department of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, contains forty-eight pages and covers. The book is printed on heavy white paper, fifty-eight cuts being used to illustrate the trips up and down the Columbia river, to the mountains, beaches, inland resorts and fountains of healing. The cover is done in three colors, adding materially to the beauty and effectiveness of the publication, which may be had by sending two cents in stamps to A. L. Craig, General Passenger Agent of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, Portland, Ore. It is a good thing to send to your friends in the East who expect to visit the Lewis & Clark exposition.

Crop Report.

The past week has been showery and cool, especially during the afternoons, when the temperature was usually four or five degrees below normal. The rains have been beneficial to spring grain, and the cool days have been favorable for fall wheat and barley, which is now heading and filling nicely. The damp weather has caused the grain aphids to become more numerous in the Willamette valley, where many fields of spring wheat and oats are badly infected with this pest. Oats are turning red in some localities, and the crop generally is not doing so well as expected. Forage crops are generally heavy and pasturage is much better than usual at this time of the year. The first crop of alfalfa has been secured in good condition, and the second crop promises to be above the average in quantity. Haying, which was becoming general, has been delayed by the rains, and some cut hay in the fields has been more or less injured by the wet weather. Potatoes and gardens are making splendid growth. Hops, although uneven, are now making satisfactory progress. Cherries are ripe and plentiful in the market, although the crop is considerably smaller than usual. Apples, peaches, prunes and pears continue to make good advancement, but the fruit crop generally will be lighter than usual, owing to frosts and cold rains at the time of pollination.

McClure's for July.

Miss Tarbell's character sketch of John D. Rockefeller, the first utterance on his personality by the historian of Standard Oil leads McClure's for July. It is a recital of marvellous interests telling for the first time the astonishing story of the things that have gone to make Rockefeller what he is.

Lincoln Steffens has reconnoitered Ohio and tells in "Ohio: A Tale of Two Cities" the insidious story of "the best governed city in the United States." Another article of hopeful tone is the second half of Henry Beach Needham's "College Athlete," which has created so much stir in under-graduate athletics. He makes further disclosures of rottenness in college sport; but there is a remedy, and he points it out.

As always in this magazine the articles take a strong grip on the affairs of the day. The fiction for July is clean, vigorous and entertaining. Sewell Ford and Richard Washburn Child have powerful stories illustrated in tint. There is a blood curdling tale of adventure in Borneo by Henry C. Rowland, a Christian Science story that would bring a smile from an idol, and two charming little bits of the "old, old story, in a new guise; among the picture features are the latest portraits of the President and his family, reproduced full page size in the tint of the photographer's proofs.

A Chicago woman was married one day, eloped the next, was arrested the third, brought back home on the fourth, forgiven by her husband on the fifth and went back to live with him on the sixth. It is not stated, but it is presumed that, like the Creator, she rested on the seventh day.

The Seattle Textbook Commission has discarded the vertical writing for the Seattle schools and went back to the slant. For five years the schools have been tied up by a state contract to the vertical writing, but on the unanimous recommendation of teachers, it was discarded when the new commission chose textbooks.

Your horse needs a drink just as often as you do, a little more so when he is doing the work and you're riding. Just remember this and be a little more humane with him.

An Astoria girl recently sent her photograph to her best fellow wrapped up in a newspaper on which was printed an advertisement of Heilborn's monarch ranges. A portion of the print adhered to the photograph, and the young man was very much startled to see staring him in the face in bold pic type the following words: "See name on leg."

MITCHELL ON THE STAND

LAND FRAUD TRIAL NOW ON

Robertson a Strong Witness for the Government - Henry's Address to the Jury.

The trial of Senator Mitchell has been in progress daily since it was called last week Thursday. The United States court room during the past week has been filled. Harry C. Robertson, former private secretary to Senator Mitchell, made a very strong witness for the government.

He was unshaken in the severe cross-examination conducted by Ex-Senator Thurston, and, unlike that of Judge Tanner, there was no morsel of comfort given the defense. The witness answered all questions in a direct and positive manner, and he passed through the cross-examination without a skip or a break. He stated in positive terms that he had refused to become a tool of his former employers, and in a quiet, but reserved, manner, he repeated conversations he had with Senator Mitchell, of the rage into which the senator fell during these conversations, and of the oath which the defendant used during this stormy interview. The witness said the senator wept upon this occasion and declared that the charges were brought by his political enemies and for the purposes of ruining him.

Robertson told of Senator Mitchell's anxiety and concern regarding his connection with getting the Kribs claims expedited, and of the attempt of the defendant and Judge Tanner to frame up a plot whereby they would evade prosecution. Robertson stated that he had informed Senator Mitchell that such a scheme would fail because to many knew of the firm's connection with the Kribs claims. He told of Senator Mitchell's stubborn determination to fight his accusers, the senator saying that he was innocent.

United States District Attorney Henry cautioned the jury against any attempts of the counsel for the defense, to create sympathy for the defendant, and admonished them to forget that they were trying a Senator, and remember that it was John H. Mitchell. Briefly he called attention to the unpleasant task that was before him, but he said that as an officer of the law, he was forced to prosecute the defendant. He couched his warning against counsel for the defense by saying: "Don't be swayed by the dramatic acts of counsel, by the tears of fullgrown men, whether they come from actual feeling of the heart, or whether they are from unqualified acting."

Judge De Haven in convening court Monday morning stated that he would overrule the demurrers to the indictments in the cases of Williamson, Van Gesner and Marion Biggs, and of Williamson, F. P. Mays et al. Upon the request of the district attorney the case of Williamson Van Gesner and Biggs will be the next one to come to trial, and was set for Monday morning next at 10 o'clock. All of the other land fraud cases now at issue will be set for trial on Saturday morning.

Lewis and Clark Exposition.

During the Lewis and Clark exposition the Southern Pacific Company will sell round trip tickets to Portland, limit thirty days, at one and one third fare for the round trip. For parties of ten or more traveling on one ticket, one fare for the round trip. For organized parties of one hundred or more, individual tickets at one fare for round trip.

Stopover of ten days will be given at Portland on all one way tickets reading through that point during the exposition. Tickets must be deposited with Joint Agent at Portland and a charge of fifty cents will be made for the extension of time.

At the Exposition.

The Portland harbor presents a wartime appearance just now, for three of Uncle Sam's warships are anchored in the river, and the booming of big guns reverberates from the wharves to the grounds of the Lewis and Clark exposition. The ships at anchor in the harbor, which compose part of the United States government's magnificent display at the coast fair, are the protected cruisers Boston and Chicago, and the torpedo destroyer Perry. They remain indefinitely, possibly for the whole exposition period, and certainly for several weeks.

The three vessels are anchored just above the steel bridge, opposite the business center of the city. They may be visited from one to five o'clock every afternoon, and hundreds of people have taken the advantage of the opportunity to go aboard and see how Uncle Sam's jacks live, and to study the methods of naval warfare. The Boston was one of Dewey's vessels in the battle of Manila Bay, and the Chicago has the distinction of being the nucleus of the present great White Squadron. The Chicago has an armament of four eight-inch and four ten-five-inch guns, nine six-pounders, two one-pounders, two Colt's automatic, and one three-inch piece for duty ashore.

During the stay of the warships in the Portland harbor, Admiral Goodrich, who commands the squadron, has given orders that there shall be a number of exhibition drills by marines at the exposition. The drills are held on the plaza at the head of Lakeview Terrace, and on the Government Peninsula and are of great interest.

What promises to be the most realistic sham battle in the annals of mimic warfare is scheduled to take place at the Lewis and Clark exposition July 21, constituting the crowning feature of three days of military maneuvers in which at least 1,500 troops of the Oregon National Guard will take part. The battle will be made realistic by the shooting of cannons and small arms, loaded with blank cartridges. The battle proper will be between two detachments, one wearing the brown khaki uniform and the other the blue. The browns will entrench themselves on the hillside directly west of the exposition grounds and await the approach of the attacking party of blues. The field artillery will supplement the entrenched force, while the cavalry will assist the attacking party, operating from the rear or flank. The details of the attack and the defense will be left to the commanders of the opposing forces, as strategy will count in determining which side is the victor. The attack is scheduled to take place at sundown on July 21, and the engagement is expected to last for about two hours. The hill-side where the browns will be entrenched reaches down to Guild's Lake, the surpassing water feature of the exposition, and the entire maneuvers may be watched from the Bridge of Nations, which spans the lake and connects the mainland with the peninsula on which the United States Government buildings are situated.

HAVE BEGUN CONSTRUCTION

CONTRACTORS ARE ENGAGED

Work Commenced on Stark Street Wednesday - Company have spent $10,000 on survey

Work on the Oregon Traction company's electric line, is now well under way. The contractors that have been engaged to put in the highest trestle, between Portland and the summit, have been engaged the past week, drafting plans and preliminary work, and are also making arrangements for work on the line this side of Portland. The Atlas Contracting and Supply Company, with Edward Records, president of the company and B. E. Hooper, superintendent of construction will have charge of the work, and the construction gang have been engaged, work was commenced Wednesday on Twelfth street below Burnside. Several car loads of rails will arrive tomorrow, and the contractors will have a portion of the road ready for the steel when it is delivered. Agents for the company, have been closing up all contracts for the right of way between Portland and this city the past ten days. The right of way was practically completed months ago; yet there remained a few instances where the contracts had not been signed, nor all details of the surveyed right of way completed. It is estimated that the surveys for the proposed line has already cost the company $10,000.

The permanent exhibit of the Oregon Information Bureau now at the Union depot, in Portland will be consolidated with the permanent exhibit of the Chamber of Commerce Hall, and Portland will have the largest exposition of the natural products of the state ever placed in permanent quarters for the advertisement of the country.

National Good Roads.

No question of internal improvement is commanding more attention at the present time than the subject of improved public roads. No other subject is receiving more active and practical consideration in the states and territories of the United States. National, state and interstate highways are beginning to be recognized as integral parts of the transportation systems of the country. The present movement is designed, and the writer believes is destined, to unite the agricultural, business and commercial interests for establishing a uniform system of permanent highways, commensurate with the needs of the country. Demands of the public for road improvements are increasing as the subject becomes better understood. There is hardly a farming section so remote from the centers of this campaign that maintains the ring of a dominant note from platform and press, that, among its population, men are not found to-day heralding the benefit to be derived by adoption of modern methods of road building and maintenance.—From The Pacific Monthly for June.

Pretty Little Graduate.

Sweetest of all earthly things,
Filled with high imaginings,
Pretty little graduate,
It is good to see you stand
With your essay in your hand,
Telling how our native land
Should be ruled and should be run;
With your sweetness which is great,
You have wisdom by the ton,
Pretty little graduate.
Decked with lace and fluffs and bows
From your proud head to your toes,
Pretty little graduate,
You're a picture of delight
As you stand there, pink and white,
And I'd gladly, if I might,
Toss down at your dainty feet
All the richest blessings Fate
Has for those she favors most,
Pretty little graduate.
There your mother glad and proud,
Sits and listens with the crowd,
Pretty little graduate,
Do you guess or do you know
Why her tear ducts overflow?
Back her lively fancies go
To the time when she herself,
All beribboned and elate,
Was sweet seventeen and a
Pretty little graduate.
Sweetest of all earthly things,
Filled with glad imaginings,
Pretty little graduate,
Hear my wish: That all your days
You may walk in flowery ways,
Hearing only words of praise,
Ever keeping your young heart
Filled with love and free from hate,
Never knowing sorrow's smart,
Pretty little graduate.

One Fare For Round Trip.

The Southern Pacific Company will make a rate of one fare for the round trip from Portland to all points in Oregon, Ashland and north for visitors from the East to the exposition at Portland to enable them to look over Western Oregon with a view of settling or investing. These tickets will be good for fifteen days limit, with stop over at all intermediate points, and will be sold to holders of the exposition round trip tickets from points East of the Rocky Mountains.

This will afford the various counties and communities that will maintain exhibits and advertise in other ways at the exposition, every inducement to have the Eastern people visit their section.
