He has also been looking at some residence property and the prospects now are that Mr. Farrell will move his business and family to Hillsboro. He is spoken of as an energetic and enterprising man and it is hoped he will meet with every encouragement here and that he will conclude to locate, for Hillsboro is in need of manufactures and pushing business men.

It is estimated that between 300 and 500 carloads of manure and refuse of the streets of Portland are shipped to Beaverton each year and there used on beaverdam land. Some of the residents of the latter place are objecting to the unloading of this refuse matter in the limits of Beaverton and are asking the county board of health to interfere. The matter is being considered by the health officer and steps will be taken to ascertain if there is anything detrimental to the public health in this traffic in fertilizer from Portland.

Miss Nana B. Easton, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was visited Mrs. J. W. Sewell for a few hours last Saturday. She had been visiting the Lewis and Clark exposition and left Sunday for California where she will make a tour of the Yosemite Valley, and then continue her journey to Alaska, returning to her Ohio home in about a month. We had the pleasure of meeting Miss Easton on the cars between Chicago and St. Paul, and learning that she might visit Oregon, gave her our opinion of this garden spot of the state, little thinking she would soon test our story by a personal visit. She stated while giving our office a call that our description of the country was not overdrawn in the least.

One of the clergymen who attended the Baptist convention in this city last week, stated in an address delivered at McMinnville a few days ago, that the entertainment provided by the Hillsboro people was the best he had ever enjoyed, and he had attended a hundred or more during his work in the ministry.

The cases of Geo. Billings and P. B. Southworth, charged with fighting with Justice Bagley last week Thursday, were dismissed because of a technicality of the ordinance under which they were arrested. A new case was brought against them this week and Southworth was fined $15 for standing trial. Billings entered a plea of guilty and was assessed $5.

At the council meeting Wednesday evening it was decided to purchase the Anderson system of hose coupling and hydrant caps for the fire department, and two new nozzles, at a cost of $28; P. B. Southworth was denied a renewal of his liquor license, which expires July 9, and the proposition of E. W. Haines of Forest Grove to furnish this city with light and water was referred to the light and water committee. To a man up a tree it would appear as if this city had paid out money enough on its own plan to be able to furnish its power without the assistance of Forest Grove, or any other town.

The new county health law went into effect on the 1st of July and hereafter all births, deaths, and contagious diseases must be reported to the county health officer on blanks furnished by the county board of health. In the case of births, physicians, householders and midwives will be held responsible, and for reporting deaths, physicians, householders and undertakers. Under the present law the County Judge and Commissioners compose the board of health and Dr. F. J. Bailey the county health officer.

Both of the Hillsboro bands played at the encampment in Cornelius. The Hillsboro band opened the stands of Fred Olsen and Claude Greer, on Saturday evening, and formed an excellent band for the veterans at the grand stand. The G. A. R. showed their appreciation by giving three rousing cheers for that band. On Monday the Hillsboro Ladies' band furnished the music for the day.

The music was first class and highly appreciated. Neither of these bands had the chance of filling an engagement during the encampment. Both bands being hired by Hillsboro people. A cheap band was hired and cheaper music was furnished by a Forest Grove band.

Harry McDonald, aged about 35 years, committed suicide at the farm of H. D. Jennings, near Gaston, last Monday by shooting himself. He had been employed on the Jennings ranch, coming to Oregon with the family some years ago, but left last February, returning again Sunday. He went to the house and meeting a hired man drew a revolver and snapped it at him twice, and compelled Mrs. Jennings to go out upon the highway with him, where he begged her to shoot him. The neighbor, who was soon aroused, and a posse gathered at about 5 o'clock Monday morning, when McDonald barricaded himself in a room and commenced a promiscuous shooting and Harry Russell of the crowd came near losing his life, a shot from the gun in the hands of the crazy man grazing his face. Sheriff Connell was notified and went at once to the scene, where he sent two or three shots into the room where the man was barricaded. McDonald, seeing that escape was cut off, turned the gun on himself and shot into his mouth, killing himself instantly. Coroner Brown took charge of the remains, which were brought to this city and buried in the potter's field. The man is said to have been insane.

Home Again.

The editor of the Independent, accompanied by his daughter Grace, reached home last Friday from an Eastern trip of four weeks, which extended into fourteen states. The trip was a most enjoyable one from start to finish, and in the way of rest and health was very beneficial, and we return well satisfied with our journey and again take up our work with pleasure and a feeling that the vacation was well spent.

In miles our trip lengthened out to something over 6,000, and we wish to say right here that in all of that distance we know of no place that can compare with the Willamette Valley in productiveness, climate and everything that goes toward making life worth living. In Wisconsin and Minnesota fierce electric storms and high winds have been the order of both day and night for four weeks. Rain has fallen in such quantities as to swell the rivers far above their banks and railroading has been difficult and dangerous. In the two states named lightning has done much damage to property and many lives have been destroyed by the deadly fluid. In Iowa the storm conditions have been very similar, while cold weather has prevailed in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North and South Dakota. In these states the crops are looking good and only need sunshine and dry weather to make the hearts of farmers glad, though many fear that if it changes suddenly to hot weather, rust will destroy much of the grain that now looks so promising.

There are many beautiful and awe-inspiring sights along the journey from Portland to St. Paul via the Southern route, and from St. Paul to Portland over the Northern Pacific railway, but to us the most beautiful and grandest is that seen from an observation car attached to the splendid trains run by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad as it winds in and out and up and down the Royal Gorge and Grand Canyon in Colorado. The glorious sights to be seen here are alone worth all it costs to make the trip. The railway officials do everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the hundreds of thousands of travelers who take this trip annually, and the conductors and trainmen take pleasure in pointing out the most attractive scenes to patrons of the road. This makes it a pleasure to journey over the Denver & Rio Grande, a fact people are fast finding out.

It would be a pleasure for us to give an account of our month's outing and the many places visited along the way, but space forbids, and while the things seen were of great interest to us, might not prove the same to our readers.

But we do want to say a good word for the O. R. & N., the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Chicago & Northwestern and the Northern Pacific railways. The scenery along the O. R. & N., as it follows the course of the Columbia river is grand, the Multnomah and Bridal Veil falls being especially attractive and beautiful, and the stopping of trains long enough to give passengers an opportunity to view the falls, is one of the pleasing features of a trip over this line, and when coupled with the courtesy and uniform kindness of the road's employes, makes traveling a source of great pleasure.

From St. Paul to the Rocky Mountains the traveler over the Northern Pacific finds the scenery of particular interest. The fertile fields of Minnesota and part of North Dakota passed, the trains crosses the bad lands none too soon, for the scene grows monotonous and tiresome, and the wonder is of what use is all this region. But when the mountains are reached the weary traveler is rewarded by some of the grandest scenery on earth. Pen cannot describe it and give the subject justice. To appreciate the beauties of the Rocky and Cascade mountains thoroughly, take a trip either East or West over the Northern Pacific railway and your fondest hopes will be realized.

While we enjoyed every minute of our trip, met old friends, viewed familiar and loved scenes of our boyhood, and shook hands with dear ones whom we shall never greet again on earth, we are glad to get home in Oregon, "where the mercury seldom strikes zero and as seldom reaches the 100 mark"—a country abounding in fruit, flowers and great possibilities. Here we are content to remain.

Card of Thanks.

We, the members of the first Baptist church of Hillsboro wish to thank our friends for their kind assistance in entertaining the delegates of the Willamette Baptist Association, June 27 to 29. Done by order of church.
