United States District Heney is conducting the investigation of the jury, and it seems to be certain, from the witnesses who are being called, that the first case to be considered will be the in-dictment of Willard N. The hall leading to the jury room was crowded vesterday with witnesses from different parts of the state, indicating that other cases are to be brought be-fore the attention of the jury. Many Prineville residents are present, leading to the presumption that Williamson, Gesner and Biggs are to be re-indicted for some offense different from the one under which they are now resting in expectation of a third trial.
