Monday, October 9, has been set aside as "Music Day" at the Lewis and Clark fair.

Wednesday, October 11, will be Pythian Day at the Lewis and Clark fair, and the day will be fittingly celebrated.

More than 1,000 chickens, and about 250 pigeons are entered in the poultry show at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The dates for the exhibition are October 5 to 12 inclusive.

The evening of the last day of the exposition has been designated as "Good Night," in honor of H. W. Gooch, president of the exposition.

The Lewis and Clark exposition closes at half past eleven o'clock Saturday night, October 14. It was originally intended that October 15 should be the closing day, but as this date fell on Sunday, the change was made. The fair has been a tremendous success.

The livestock show at the Lewis and Clark exposition, which closed September 29, was the crowning feature of the fair. It was much better attended than was the livestock show at St. Louis and in some ways superior. The showing of shorthorns was the best ever made in America.

With a fare and one-tenth rate in effect from towns in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia to Portland and return, and a cut of twenty per cent in the former special round-trip rate from California points, there is every prospect that the closing weeks of the Lewis and Clark exposition will be the most largely attended of any during the fair period. There has been no complaint so far on account of extortionate hotel and restaurant charges, and late visitors at the fair need have no fear of being unable to find excellent accommodations at reasonable rates.

The L. M. Hoyt Co. has a large stock of school tablets and all school stationery.

Along the Route.

Abel Holcomb and family have returned from their pleasure trip to the Tillamook coast, where they hunted and fished at Netarts, Garibaldi and other famous resorts. The outing has done them a world of good and the robust appearance of the pater familias in particular testifies to the invigorating qualities of the salt-laden ocean breezes and a diet consisting chiefly of fish and game.

Strenuous times were experienced by John Reilly, the orchardist, when his family were taken down with typhoid fever a month or so ago. For a week or two he put in on an average twenty-four hours of hard work every day, acting in the fourfold capacity of stable-boy, cook, housekeeper and nurse. This finally proved too large a contract even for an indefatigable hustler like Reilly, and the services of a trained nurse from the Catholic Home at Beaverton was secured, and at last accounts the family was on the high road to recovery.

While taking a choice lot of Swiss cheese to Portland the other day, John Losli of Helvetia had the misfortune to upset with his rig, and rolled down a steep embankment, at the bottom of which John and his outfit were found, a tangled-up confused mass of struggling, kicking horse, demolished rig, outraged and ruined cheese, all rolled up in one grand grotesque chaotic conglomerate. At this stage of the proceedings the police, unappreciative and austere, appeared on the scene and in accents cold and unfeeling, uttered the ominous dictum, "Thirty dollars, please." And they permitted him not to depart from thence until he had paid the last farthing.

Wm. Malbel and Jos. Friedel are working for John Reilly, assisting in harvesting his enormous crop of winter apples.

Jgo. Pieren is very thankful that hop-picking is over. His whole family, inclusive of his frau, were engaged in picking and Mr. Pieren was by force of circumstances obliged to batch. Anyone desirous of precipitating a riot is at liberty to inquire of John how he enjoyed his batching experience.

While strolling across his outfield on Wednesday afternoon, Robert Imbrie of Plain View Farm, accompanied by his trusty fowling piece, encountered a flock of wild geese. A brief but decisive engagement immediately followed and the joyful existence of said geese came to a sudden and painful termination. With the aid of the hired man the booty was successfully transferred to the kitchen.

Chas. J. Gibson is visiting with his son-in-law T. W. Brown, east of the Sewell hopyard. A day or two prior to the opening of the hop-picking season, a newly-ground ax hung up in a tree, about ten feet from the ground, fell and struck his right hand, inflicting an ugly wound, effectually barring him from participating in the exhilarating and remunerative labor of picking.

Announces Himself.

Charles A. Johns, of Baker, City, is a candidate for governor on the republican ticket and will ask the people to nominate him for that office at the primary election next spring. In a communication to The Independent Mr. Johns says:

"Subject to the terms and conditions of the primary law, I am and will be a candidate for governor on the republican ticket."

It is not a question of salary. There are many things far more valuable than gold, and to my mind the office of governor of the state of Oregon is one of them.

Am going to make an honorable effort to secure that position and want all my friends throughout the state to assist me, and I appeal to them for support. Any promise or pledge will be made direct to the people; no other promise or pledge will be made.

Am not and will not be or become a candidate of any faction, any man, or combination of men. Will either be nominated or defeated on my merits, and will not in the least compromise my official integrity. Will stand for this, though it should cost me the nomination. My nomination would not mean the success or defeat of any element of the republican party. I want to see the party harmonized and united and the whole ticket elected, and if nominated and elected will endeavor to accomplish that end and give the state a clean, honest, economical, business, republican administration.

No matter what may be the result, I pledge my hearty support to the ticket. C. A. JOHNS.
