ROPE NECKTIES FOR ALL OF THEM

DYNAMITERS MUST HANG.

Outrages in Colorado at an End. Says Detective McParland--More Arrests to Follow.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 19.—Heywood, Moyer and Pettibone will never see Colorado again," says James McParland, head of the detective agency employed by the State of Idaho to run down the murderers of ex-Governor Steunenberg. "Their days are numbered. We have absolute evidence that will convict them of complicity in the foul assassination of ex-Governor Steunenberg and evidence that will convict a great many others too, of the same offense.

They cannot escape in any possible way, and the legal knowledge of all their attorneys cannot keep them from the gallows. You can say for me that the day of dynamite outrages in the West is at an end. Heywood, Moyer and others know that they are guilty, and they know that their time has come. The Steunenberg assassination was the final straw that broke the camel's back and was their undoing.

"But it is no worse than the Independence outrage, the murder of Collins in Telluride, the blowing up of the Smuggler-Union mine, the Vindicator killing, the Stewart assault or the many other crimes for which they were responsible," continued McParland this morning in the denunciation of the three men. "The anarchists at the head of the Western Federation of Miners will never trouble this state again.

"We got Vincent St. John in Burke, Idaho, last night. He has been there under the clumsy disguise of John Vincent ever since he left this state. He will be prosecuted with the others. There will be a great many surprises to the people of this state before this case is ended and all the arrests have been made.

"I cannot state how many more will be taken into custody, or where these arrests will be made, but there will be enough of them before this case ends.

"I was employed by the State of Idaho, not by the mineowners, to run down the Steunenberg case. I went to work January 10, after Orchard had been arrested, and I did not cease my labors until last week. The evidence against all of these men is so strong that they cannot possibly escape punishment this time."

Get $2,000 Each.
The Southern Pacific Company has compromised with the executors of the estates of Conrad Heineman and Henry Martin, who were killed before Carlton last month while returning from work on the "sink" near that place. Heineman and Martin, together with four other section men, were on a hand-car when they collided with an engine, killing both the men. The heirs of each have been paid $2,000 by the company.

To Divide the County.
A big mass meeting was held last Saturday afternoon at Hood River to take action on the proposal to divide Wasco county with a county seat at Hood River. The meeting was unanimously in favor of the county division and indorsed A. A. Jayne for nomination for representation to present the bill, if elected. Two proposals were before the meeting looking to the creation of the new county. One is that the boundary line be out between Mosier and The Dalles, and the other that it be placed this side of The Dalles and extended down to the Big Sandy river in Multnomah county.

Tillamook Means Business.

A meeting of the citizens of Tillamook and surrounding country was held last Saturday. The object of the gathering was to discuss plans looking to the securing a railroad for the town and section of that country. A company was formed having for its object the purchasing of a right of way, to be donated to the first railroad building into Tillamook. Eighty-seven shares of company stock of the value of $500 each were subscribed for that purpose by citizens present at the meeting.

Save Your Rosebushes.

If rose-growers will follow explicitly the directions for spraying embodied in a bulletin just issued by the Oregon State Board of Horticulture, they can eradicate the San Jose scale and other pests from the bushes. In view of the warning that roses will soon cease to bloom unless the San Jose scale is destroyed, growers should follow the following formula for destroying pests on roses.

For mildew, dissolve one ounce of potassium sulphide in two or three gallons of water.

For leaf spot, use three pounds of copper sulphate (blue vitriol), three pounds of lime (unslaked) and 50 gallons of water. Dissolve the copper in hot or cold water, using a wooden or earthen vessel. Slake the lime in a tub, adding water cautiously and only in sufficient amount to insure thorough slaking.

After thoroughly slaking more water can be added and stirred until it has the consistency of thick cream. When both are cold, pour the lime into the diluted copper solution of required strength, straining it through a fine-mesh sieve or gunny cloth and thoroughly mix. It is then ready for use. Care should be taken that the lime is of good quality and well burned, and has not been air slaked.

Chewing and biting insects can be destroyed by a spray composed of four ounces of arsenate of soda and 12 ounces of acetate of lead. Dissolve in water in separate buckets, pour together, and you have sufficient arsenate of lead for 50 gallons of water. Then pour the arsenate into the water and stir well. This is also a splendid spray for the destructive codlin moth.

For scale use a spray consisting of 15 pounds of unslaked lime, 15 pounds of flowers of sulphur and 50 gallons of water. Slake lime in enough water to do it thoroughly and add the sulphur. Boil for half an hour at least, adding water if necessary. Spray warm through a coarse nozzle.

There are black sheep in all callings, including the ministry, and they flourish most where least careful. People should be very keen how they take up with slick-tongued strangers. This town and every other in the state has at some time found out the folly of placing too much confidence in unknown persons. Treat all strangers courteously but don't be hasty in taking up with such as might ure deception.—Ex.

W. A. Cox Resigns.

W. A. Cox, general agent for the Chicago & Northwest, has tendered his resignation, to become effective March 1. He will leave Portland with his family on February 26, for Baltimore, Md., where he has accepted the position of general agent for the Western Maryland.

Mr. Cox has been with the Northwestern for the past eleven years, entering the service of that road at Cincinnati. He came to Portland about one year ago from Philadelphia, where he was general agent for the company. While he has been in Portland Mr. Cox has made many friends, and is one of the most popular men on the railroad now. His new position will be a promotion, and Portland railroad men are congratulating him and wishing him all kinds of good fortune in his work with the new company.—Oregonian.

JUDGE M'BRIDE SUSTAINED

CITY CAN'T GRANT LICENSE.

Forest Grove Can't Grant a License to Sell Liquor, Says the Supreme Court.

Salem, Feb. 20.—The legislature never authorized the city council of Forest Grove to grant a liquor license.

Such is the decision of the supreme court today in the now famous case of the president and trustees of Tualatin Academy and Pacific University against C. N. Johnson, mayor of Forest Grove, et al. The higher court affirms the judgment of Judge T. A. McBride in the circuit court of Washington county, from which the city had appealed, Judge Hailey rendering the opinion.

In this case the college authorities sought to restrain the mayor and city council of Forest Grove from granting a saloon license to Albert G. Watson, on the ground that the city council had no authority to issue the license. The demurrer of the city to the complaint was overruled in the lower court and the appeal was taken from this ruling.

At the thirty eighth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association in session in Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe, president of the Oregon Equal Suffrage Association made a report of the campaign for equal suffrage in this state, of which the following is an abstract:

"By virtue of the initiative and referendum law of Oregon an amendment must be submitted to the constitution when 8 per cent of the voters petition for it. Therefore, in order to secure the submission of a suffrage amendment, it required the signature of 7,489 registered voters. At the close of the National Convention in July about 1,000 of these named had been secured. The total number of names secured was more than 12,000; the number accepted by the secretary of state, was 9,904; giving a margin of 2,415 more than the law required.

The law provides that the association filing a petition may accompany it with an argument in its favor, and that an association or individual opposed, may likewise file a document, and that if both are filed they shall be bound with a copy of the amendment, by the secretary of state, and placed in the hands of each county clerk who shall see that a copy is given to each voter as he registers. The pro-suffrage argument, which is a masterful presentation of logic, fact and philosophic insight, all in 2,000 words, was written by Miss Laughlin and accepted and indorsed by the board of officers of the State Equal Association as their official document. One hundred thousand copies of it has been filed with the secretary of state and will be sent out by him March 1st; 20,000 extra copies of the argument have been printed for general distribution.

On Labor Day a great celebration was held in Portland and three popular speakers, Mrs. Lucia F. Additon, president of the Oregon W. C. T. U., Hon. Avery C. Moore, of Idaho, and Mr. James C. Keller, of Cleveland, Ohio, president of the National Letter Carrier's Convention assembled in Portland and a special invitation was sent to the suffragists, which was gladly accepted. Miss Clay was indorsed a resolution which was indorsed almost unanimously.

Indorsement has also been given of numerous local and county granges, and in not a single instance has it been refused. This organization with its 5,000 members will be a tower of strength in the campaign. The State Federation of Women's Clubs, which hitherto has stood non-committal on the suffrage question, came out this year with a ringing resolution recommending the study of the question to clubs, and pledging the delegates to the earnest support of the movement. The resolution was offered by Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, the pioneer champion of woman suffrage in Oregon, and after a brilliant address by Mrs. Duniway, was passed without a dissenting vote. At the same time the state convention of the W. C. T. U. was in session, the most cordial courtesies were extended to our national auditor, Miss Clay, and an equally strong resolution of indorsement was passed.

The Sacajawea Association also endorsed woman suffrage unanimously. The high schools are taking up the suffrage question for debate, and the calls upon the headquarters for literature are constantly increasing.

The governor of Oregon has recently emphasized his belief in equal rights by appointing Mrs. Clara Waldo, regent of the State Agricultural College. Mrs. Waldo is the state lecturer for the Grange.

The Equal Suffrage Association has tripled its membership within the year and new members are added every week. Others who opposed us in the last campaign are quiet now, saying it is no use to fight suffrage longer for it is the "Woman's hour in Oregon."

We are therefore pressing forward in the firm belief that Oregon will send its delegates to the next convention holding aloft the fifth star upon the suffrage flag."

What Next?

With our modern inventions we are enabled to speak to distant friends and though they have passed the great divide we can hear their familiar voices in the phonograph. We can see the minutest particles of matter and the most distant star, we can weigh an atom of matter and compute the weight of the largest planet. But the latest and greatest in discovery to man is the recent discovery of the nature, properties, function and destiny of the human soul.

Dr. J. Ewert Bartel, an unpretentious physician, is the discoverer, and he has found means to actually demonstrate the presence of the soul. This discovery bids fair to revolutionize some of the religious views of the world, since the real nature and offices of the soul are unknown today. Being unknown, how is it possible to teach regarding it?

Dr. Bartel's views are coincided in by some of the greatest authorities on the science of the soul.

WILL COST $1250 AND IS VOID

THE ANTI-PASS BILL.

The Supreme Court Will Have to Pass on it After the Law Has Been Enacted.

Salem, Feb. 20.—It will cost the state more than $1250 to publish the governor's proclamation for the anti-pass bill, and to print 100,000 copies for distribution. The bill is void on its face for want of an enacting clause, neither the governor nor secretary of state will undertake to decline to do what is necessary to submit the bill to a vote of the people, because the measure comes to them with all the requirements of the constitution and the law complied with. The officials say it is not for them to pass on the legality of the proposed law.

The only authority in the state that can deal with this proposed law is the supreme court, and the court cannot act until after the law has been enacted and the question as to its constitutionality has been raised.

Let us be reasonable about the hop industry. It brings millions to Oregon and distributes most of it among working people and their families. During the hop picking season all are employed and all kinds of business gets the benefit. Let each citizen have his own views about religion, morals and politics, but let us not foolishly strike down industries on which the general prosperity depends, when we would not accomplish the destruction of the liquor business or take away any man's appetite for drink. Let us all be sober and vigilant and right-minded in our religious opinions, and let us not condemn and seek to drive off the face of the earth those who differ from us in habits or opinions or occupations. Surely the Lord in his goodness sends his rain on the just and the unjust, and the Good Book admonishes us to judge no man after the flesh. Hold no man in condemnation. Let us live and let live, and in the end we will have the confidence and good will of our neighbors, whether they are just as good and moral as we are and we will be able to have some influence with them for good in matters that are important.—Salem Capital.

Dr. Osburn Dead.

Sherborn, Or., Feb. 20.—Dr. C. D. Osburn, a well-known physician and druggist of Wilsonville, died last night about 10 o'clock from heart affection and gastritis. He had been subject to periodic spells of faintness and pains in the region of the heart, and did not anticipate anything of a serious nature. Hence medical assistance was delayed until too late, if of any possible avail under such conditions. Dr. Osburn practiced medicine and conducted a drug store in Portland several years ago. He was a graduate of Jefferson Medical College of the class of 1886. A widow survives him.

A fond mother in despair of breaking her little boy of swearing, at last threatened that the next time he used a bad word she would banish him from home. The very next day he exploded a big D.

"I am very sorry, Thomas," said the mother, "but I have never broken my word to you, so now you must leave home."

"The nurse was instructed to pack Thomas' little toy suit-case, and he without a whimper, kissed his mother good-bye and departed. Quite a way off Thomas set his burden on the curb, and in hands, fell into deep thought. The spectacle was too much for the fond mother, who was watching him from a distance.

Very quietly she started down the street and tiptoed up behind Master Thomas. As she was hovering on the point of surprising him with a kiss, a pompous old gentleman appeared.

"Child," he said, "will you—hum—tell me where Mr. Franklin lives?"

Thomas raised his solemn brown eyes and regarding the old gentleman coldly, replied: "You go to—, I have troubles of my own."

No Action Taken.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Solicitor-General Hoyt did not return to Washington today, as expected, hence no action was taken on the Bristol case, which is still before the department of Justice. The urgent deficiency bill carries $5000 for the widow of the late Senator Mitchell.

Roseburg Spokesman: The direct primary law is confusing to the wily politician. He is like a ship at sea without a compass. He cannot find his bearings. His vocation is gone. He is doomed to plod along in the even tenor of his way or else go to work and earn an honest living. He may roar and rant, and scheme and plan, but all to no effect. A higher power has obtained control and he must retire into a state of innocuous desuetude."
