Mr. Groner is up and around again.

Mrs. Rowell is visiting friends in Forest Grove.

Mrs. James Miller was up on the mountain one day last week.

Rollie Brooks and his mother was in Hillsboro Saturday.

Mrs. Knapp was quite badly hurt the other day. She and Mrs. Mable Skeels were coming home from Preston Skeels, when the horses became frightened at some sacks of potatoes left by the roadside. The horses ran the back up a bank, throwing Mrs. Knapp out. She was considerably bruised and has been in bed since, but fortunately no bones were broken. If people were more careful about leaving things that are apt to scare horses by the roadside it would be better. A road scraper is often left out. Somehow it is sure to frighten a horse that is at all nervous.

Now that election is over and the Equal Suffrage movement is settled for another two years we will begin to have three square meals a day again.

The Woodmen's picnic last Saturday was a rousing success. There must have been nearly 800 people present and it is reported that the total receipts amounted to $175. The boys from Farmington won the baseball game from the home team by a score of 10 to 6. They were also quite successful in the other sports until it came to the horse races and then Beaverton had some say again.

The prohibition campaign closed last Sunday night with an address in the hall by John Nangle.

W. H. Boyd, carrier on R. F. D. No. 2 and A. M. Kennedy, carrier No. 1 attended the state convention of rural carriers in Portland last Saturday. Mr. Boyd was honored by being elected vice president of the state association for the coming year.

William, eldest son of Stewart Vaughan, of Middleton, and family have been visiting at the home of his parents during the week. He has been a resident of North Bend, Coos Bay for the past six years and has held the position of book-keeper and paymaster for the North Bend Lumber Co., during his residence in Coos county.

William Oberst, a farmer living near town met with a painful accident Monday which nearly cost him the loss of a finger. While grinding a brush knife the instrument slipped and came in contact with his finger severing the tendons and ligaments at the first joint.

What promises to be "picking" for attorneys has arisen here over the title to property sold by the county for delinquent taxes. The old brick yard site and several acres of ground in connection and a house and two lots in town is the bones of contention, or ground for litigation between interested parties. Notice of vacation has been given and refused, hence a legal battle must follow in order to settle the rights of property definitely.

Saturday last was Children's Day at the regular meeting of the Grangers in this place. The attendance was large and the programme, consisting of songs, recitations, etc., were up to the standard with the "young grangers" participating in the exercises.

Mrs. Robert Graham, living at Graham's Ferry on the Willamette river, died Friday afternoon after about one month's illness. She was taken to a Portland hospital for treatment recently, but afterwards returned to her home, a fatal termination resulting as above stated.

Miles Haynes has become interested in chicken culture, having invested liberally in incubators, brooders, houses and fences necessary for the purpose. Now, if he can successfully checkmate the inroads of cats, rats and other pests, that have a particular relish for the output there is no doubt but a handsome profit can be realized in the venture.

Sherwood saloon keepers, having "promised to be good" and obey strictly all town ordinances relating to the traffic hereafter were granted licenses Saturday evening at a special meeting of the council, consequently the town will be "wide open" until further notice of the honorable body.

Chas. Hall, one of the honorable councilmen resigned his seat in the municipal board at the last meeting of the council and R. C. Rollich was elected to fill the unexpired term for the fiscal year.

Jas. Miltenberger of "The Den of Sweets," Hillsboro, was visiting with his parents here a few days' last week.

Arthur Miltenberger attended the political speech of Geo. E. Chamberlain at the Hillsboro court house last Friday. He reports that some people thought it Purdy good, while others could hardly barrett. It showed that Georgie was 'nt Bourne yesterday. Some went as far as to Steel Cake during the address, but most of the people thought that should have been Dunaway with, while others Hawley paid no attention to it. It put me in mind of the Mulkey way when the Gates were opened and the crowds drifted out by Tooze and threes and went to their homes, where Withy-cumbe they straightened out their upper apartments and voted for Georgie.

A voter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McFarland on election day.

Ora Risling, of The Dalles, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. B. Miltenberger at this place last week.

W. E. Jarvis and Chas. Metzger will have to shake off the tie for constable.

An increase is reported at the home of Wm. Miltenberger, on Bull Mountain.

The track team (?) will leave for Salem on Saturday morning to attend the big four-cornered meet. Only three or four men will be taken along as the Athletic committee think they are all that can give a good account of themselves and in accordance with their policy of not caring whether the school won anything or not. Those who will go will probably be Fletcher, Pridoux, and Lawrence, besides Manager Bump. Peterson has quit Athletics in disgust because of the way things are run.

Last Saturday was held a handicap track meet in which the Athletes in school were allowed to compete. A curious fact was that out of the total number of points, three baseball players took nearly half. Oliver Huston scored the highest number of points, his total being 24 and Lawrence came second with 20.

There was a very small attendance at chapel on Wednesday afternoon—why—the circus parade of course.

Alfred Gilbert, formerly of Pacific, but now of Yale, broke the world's record for the polevault on Decoration Day, going 12 feet, 3 inches, and the former record being 12 feet, 1.92 inches. Sorry to say his title of champion of the world didn't last long for on June 2nd, Leroy Sams, of Indiana University cleared 12 feet, 4.78 inches and himself took the title and the olive wreath.

On Tuesday evening the Kappa Delta Literary Society gave a banquet to celebrate the success of their minstrel show and to give their friends a good time. It was held at the home of Miss Reba Hoffman and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The young men were agreeably surprised that young ladies of a literary turn of mind could still be practical. Numerous games and a mock marriage were indulged in after which the party broke up, everyone calling it a decided success.

Russ Smith, formerly of Bishop Scott Academy but now of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., was out on Monday and Tuesday visiting with some of his old acquaintances.

On Saturday evening the Alpha Zeta Literary Society gave a picnic down on the Tualatin. A very pleasant evening was spent around the campfire and the gathering only broke up because the chaperone became sleepy. Some of the

And This is "Independence."

From The Oregonian.

The Oregonian believes that the republican party, during fifty years, has been—as compared with the democratic party—the better instrument and agency for promotion and preservation of the welfare of the country. Therefore the Oregonian has given, in general, such support as it could in the republican party, though recognizing many of the features of its course of policy.

The contest between the two parties grows out of the differences existing in the constitution of human nature. Divergence of the policies they pursue is the necessary result.

It is the habit of the Oregonian to look chiefly to eliminate. It notes the distinction between the constitution of parties, their tendencies and ultimate; and on these considerations it acts. It observes that Governor Chamberlain is a man of agreeable or pleasing personality. This affects its judgment not at all. It knows that in the long run Governor Chamberlain will stand with his party, go with his party, or do whatever his party may require. Since the Oregonian does not approve the general tendency and ultimate objects of his party, it does not give it its support, in politics, to Governor Chamberlain. He is what they call a "good mixer," and he has an affability and general demeanor that induce many to vote for him. But the Oregonian does not care for his "sweetness," for his studied efforts to please, for the traile that drips from his tongue—which is thin enough, after all. It looks beyond all this to the purposes of his party, which it does not improve, but which it knows in every emergency will absolutely control him. Therefore it conceives that no man can approve or should approve Governor Chamberlain as a politician who does not approve the necessary tendencies, purposes and ultimate of his party, with desire to further and promote them. This, again, throws one back on consideration of the course of his party, during the history and experience of many years. What young fellows call the "charm" or "good fellowship" of Governor Chamberlain, which make what they also call his popularity, can have no place in the consideration of men who have regard for the actual and serious concerns of political action.

But no end of persons who call themselves republicans, yet of course do not know why, vote for men for the highest offices, simply because they "like" them. It is the shallowest and the rottenest of all politics. It makes a joke or farce of the most serious, weighty and important concerns, on which even the gravest problems of political and national life, and even the issues of peace and war, depend.

The election of 1906 is over, but still another word remains to be spoken. It relates not to the levity of one class of men, but to the malignity of another. The republican party has elected much the greater portion of its candidates. It has lost a leading office, and saved another only by a slight margin—the places of greatest importance in state and national affairs—through the desire of various groups to "get even," or obtain revenge. This malignity struck chiefly at the heads of the ticket. The bosses whom the primary law had de-throned; the deposed masters of the old machine, and all their henchmen throughout the state; the remnants who lamented Mitchell; the friends of Hermand here, of Williamson there and Mooly yonder; the gangs who have been prosecuted for land frauds and all who had interest, relationship and friendly feeling with them, wanted to show their own importance and "get even." So at every point within their reach they drove the knife in. The effort was directed chiefly at the men who stood in the first place on the ticket—for such effort must be concentrated if it is to have effect. The remainder of the candidates were elected by about the usual republican majorities.

It is not a pleasing theme, so we need not pursue it; yet it should be understood, because it is one of the leading causes—let us say, the leading cause—that worried the republican party during the recent contest and promises mischief for it in the future. Sometime, probably, these animosities will be burned out. Yet men who are sincerely desirous of the success of their party, but only for the public welfare, get tired of being thwarted by those who would use party only for their selfish aggrandizement, and, being prevented, seek solace through revenge. It is not pleasant contemplation; so let it pass. Yet it is just as well to analyze briefly, as The Oregonian has done herein, the main qualities of that vaunted "political independence" that has appeared in the contest which we have just passed through. But as it is all behind us, let us go, remembering, as a great writer has said, that "the censures God who quarrels with the imperfections of man."

Albany, N. Y., June 6.—The Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the cost and judgment of $2262 in favor of Anna T. Fago, of Wyoming county, against the Supreme Tent of the Knights of Macedonia of the World, a fraternal organization. The case is of interest in view of the fact that plaintiff's husband, who held a policy in the organization, committed suicide, and despite the fact that the by-laws state that no benefits shall be paid to the beneficiaries of a member who commits suicide, the lower courts awarded the plaintiff a verdict and the highest court in the state has affirmed the judgment.

One of the sins charged against former Austrian Ambassador Storor, recently deposed, is that he failed to set a spread of pumpkin pie before the American colony in Vienna last Thanksgiving day. Now, if we remember rightly, the pumpkin crop fell down in Austria last year, and anyhow a man ought not to lose his job for a little thing like that, especially after he and all the young Storors whooped it up to beat the band every Fourth of July "just as regular."

That James Whitcomb Riley resort for literary fellows at Bear Wallow will stand some chance of being a go if the habitues can be taught to walk in everything but their pet "ism."

The trouble at Brook Farm was too many souls "with but a single thought." Where everybody is clever and knows it the atmosphere is likely to prove unassimilable.

For a wonder the Joe Jefferson statue committee didn't go to sleep over the project, but promptly dug up $50,000 and fixed upon a sculptor for the job. Now unless the sculptor turns out to be a very deliberative genius Rip's famous snooting fest will not be symbolized in the undertaking unless it should be figuratively in the design.

Now that Germany has given orders for six more big warships England will have to have at least six more $7,500,000 monsters of the Dreadnought type, a proposition to make the British taxpayers stand for disarmament.
