The families of W. E. Thorne and W. O. Donelson spent the Fourth at Shadybrook. There is no question but the story Mr. Donelson tells about the number of fish caught is strictly true, for Mr. Thorne backs him in all he says.

The big oil tank for the railroad was finished Tuesday morning. Owing to the extreme heat on Monday the tank became so warm that it was impossible to work on it. The workmen worked late Monday evening, and commenced on it again Tuesday morning at four o'clock. It will hold 22,000 gallons.

Counterfeit half-dollars have already attained quite a circulation in Portland. They are dated "1901" and have the "O" mark which the New Orleans mint places on its coinage. Grocers and saloon-keepers have been victimized to a considerable extent, and it behoves people to scrutinize the half-dollars presented to them.

W. G. Gilstrap, who sold his interest in the Eugene Register a year ago, has again assumed Editorial control of the paper. G. W. Briggs, after a year in the harness selling out to the former editor, who takes hold with renewed enthusiasm. It is now an eight page paper, and a credit to the thriving little city of Eugene.

The Glorious Fourth was not celebrated in Hillsboro this year, but there were several near by towns that celebrated, including Forest Grove, Beaverton, Seapooie, Wilsonville, Buxton and Newberg. Business was suspended, and nearly all the people were out of town for the day. The Washington County Veterans' Associations' Encampment, and Celebration, was attended by a good many from this city, while the big celebration at Beaverton got a larger share of the visitors from this city.

Quite a crowd of Hillsboro people spent the Fourth at Forest Grove. Others had been up during the encampment and were glad to spend their Fourth at home or out in the hills away from the dust and heat. Buses ran all night Wednesday and many people walked back. There was but one Hillsboro stand on the grounds, and they say they did a big business. There was an unusually large crowd and everybody was glad when it was over.

The San Francisco fire destroyed all of the pictures and cuts used in the "Sunset Magazine" and a "Road of a Thousand Wonders," two publications issued by the Southern Pacific Co. A recent special train has been sent out by the company bearing a number of photographers and artists to get a new supply of pictures to replace those destroyed, which will be used in pamphlets to be issued soon and in the "Sunset Magazine."

The heat last Monday and Tuesday was simply terrific, the thermometer hitting the gauge to the tune of 104 degrees in the shade. In Portland the mercury went up to 101 and one death is reported, caused by the great heat. The Eastern states have suffered fully as much and many prostrations are reported. It is said that the recent hot wave is a record breaker for the Pacific coast. New York reports six deaths from sunstroke. The weather moderated Sunday and the weather was ideal for the celebration of our nation's independence.

It was an evil hour for Emil Zink when he determined to send the faithful Ivan Ivanovich Schweinoffsky to the happy grunting grounds; but his mind was made up, he would take no one's advice to the contrary and accordingly the edge of his sword, with the bereaved family of poor Ivan rent the air with their wailing grief but the adamant heart of Emil paid no heed to the "empty" lips of orphans and suddenly he pursued the even tenor of his life. But a stern Nemesis, relentless, inexorable and swift overtook him and soon reduced him to a state of lugubrious tearfulness. First of all his favorite dog left him to return never forever and next his beloved Rosi also absconded. "O du lieber Augustin alles ledig" was the burden of his song rendered in a profound basso voice in which lachrymose ebullition he persisted with such untiring energy that his friends driven frantic by the monotonous reiteration of his doleful lull, resolved to hunt for his lost ones. William Waibel finally discovered the lost Rosi, immediately got on and brought her to the morning Emil, who giving her a fervent embrace ceased his lamentations and broke forth in a jubilant "Gottselamus igitur."

Wm. Ross is the first man out with a binder this year, harvesting a fifteen acre crop of rape for seed.

John Piersen pasture lot forming the northeast corner of his farm at Helvetia was badly cut up by a little creek which by its armless meandering thoroughly spoilt it for cultivation. Now his son Alfred sturdy and huge of muscle has gone to work digging a new bed for the obnoxious brook which owing to its tortuous vagaries had wrathfully and appropriately named Kipe creek. This particular lot is now a source of delight to its owner as well as any other admirer of beautiful scenery.

Christian Grand living about a mile north of the West Union church, well and favorably known as the father of six buxom daughters has further distinguished himself by adding to his other achievements afore-mentioned, a son. Finis coronat opus and now rejoicing, proud, elate, he greets the enjoying gods.

Sherwood.

Menials has again made its appearance in this community. A number of Italian children living in the union region have caught the contagion.

Miss Agnes Hallman, of Oswego, has been visiting friends here during the week.

The Parrot Mountain band regaled the citizens here Saturday, with a free concert on their return from a picnic at Scholls.

It is reported that the Sherwood hotel will close its doors to all the hungry multitude on the 15th instant. With a new restaurant and several boarding houses to fall back upon the supply the hiatus, it is strongly suspected that "it never will be missed."

Two daily passenger trains is announced for this division of the Southern Pacific to take effect about the first of the month. There will be no objections on part of the traveling public, but otherwise rejoicing all along the line for the commendable actions of railroad officials in providing more ample transit accommodations.

Two or three Sherwood, "would be" freeholders, are reported to be mixed up in that colonization scheme at Sellwood during the election. The final action of the courts will determine more fully whether the report is well grounded. One registering here and voting in Sellwood is held to be illegal as passed upon by competent authority.

"All that is left" of one of the town's late "beef trusts" will be offered at public vendue one day during the week. The mighty as well as the smaller fry are daily succumbing to the exorbitant prices of a non-appreciating public. Beef barons are at a discount nowadays.

Rev. Fred Warren, late pastor of the Hoodview Congregational church has accepted a call of his denomination to a pastorate at St. Johns, and is now comfortably located with his family in that city. His many friends here congratulate him on his preferment and ideal location.

Claus Borchers, a prominent young onion farmer has secured the services of T. I. Patterson, one of Sherwood's architects and builders and a new and commodious onion house is being erected on his premises.

C. C. Polling, a rural route carrier became a benedict during the week, the bride being a resident of California. They were the recipients of a younger town contingent on their arrival here Thursday evening.

Owing to the failure to secure the home band and other causes the people of Middleton have concluded not to celebrate this year, that is locally, and in consequence an exodus on July 4, will take place for Newberg, Wilsonville, Beaverton and other nearby localities.

Sherwood baseball twisters accompanied by a number of the fair sex left for Oswego Sunday morning where a game was played during the day with the Oswego nine. "The B. B. microbe" appears distinctly at the front from present indications.

Beaverton

Regular Correspondent.

David Purser died at the family home Saturday night, June 30th and was buried in the Patton cemetery at Bal-st July 3rd. Deceased came to Beaverton in an early day and purchased the place on which he has lived ever since.

As two men, who had been looking on the wine when 'twas red, were starting for home last Sunday afternoon their team became frightened and started to run, throwing the man who was driving, out on his head cutting a wide gash in the scalp. After several stitches by the local physician, he was able to be taken home. The companion who at the time the man was thrown out was laying in the rear of the wagon, was aroused enough by the two horses running to get up and put on the brake. This soon wearied the horses and they were easily stopped about one mile south of town.

The new train schedule is very satisfactory to this community. If we now had a morning train early enough for working men we would be still better suited.

More Anon.

Gustave Bronner of Tigardville was a county seat visitor Thursday.

D. and has also had a good many years experience as a pharmacist and comes here with the best of recommendations. Mr. Greear is fortunate in securing the services of so capable an assistant.

Reedville Church Building.

At last Reedville is to have a church building. About ten years ago a Congregational church was started, but services ceased to be held and the organization died out. About six years ago Rev. Robinson, pastor of the Tualatin Plains Presbyterian church was invited to hold service in the Reedville school house and eventually established a regular appointment as in other denominations have continued to the present and a large congregation has been gathered. Special services held which resulted in the early part of June this year, resulted in the reception of a number of members. Since then a subscription list for church building has been circulated which now amounts to $1100.00. It is understood that the Ladd and Reed estate will donate the land and it is expected that large material help will be given this enterprise by the owners of big estates at Reedville.

Wood-Pollard.

Edward Wood and Mrs. Johanna Pollard were married at the home of C. Christensen near Tigardville Sunday, July 1st at 12 o'clock, Rev. Hornschuch officiating. After the ceremony a delicate luncheon was served of which all took part heartily. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods have both been prominent residents of Tigardville for many years and are at home to their friends in their new home at this place.
