Time to begin fancy work for holiday presents! Look at the new dollies and corset cover patterns to be done in eyelet embroidery, shown in Mrs. Pillsbury's windows. She also carries the D. M. C. Cotton.

It is said that fully fifty people went from Hillsboro to Portland last Monday to attend the circus. In some cases it took father, mother and the grown children to see that the baby took in all the sights and got home safe.

The Misses Jennie Reasoner and Grace Ballard have been spending the week camping with the Emmott family at Willamette slough. Mr. Ballard went out to the camp Wednesday and will return with the girls next Sunday.

The threshing machine belonging to Mr. Stream had a narrow escape from fire while at work on the McElowny farm, one day last week. Fire caught in the straw stack, but the quick work of the engineer in pulling the separator away from the burning stack saved the machine.

On Wednesday F. M. Heidel sold to Mr. Stream seventy-eight acres of the Warren farm, the consideration being $115 per acre. Several other large sales were made by the same party, but we are requested not to make them public at present.

Mrs. Ipha Gorin of Quincy, Ill., has been visiting with Mrs. S. J. Waters and the family of J. B. Wilkes in this city. Mrs. Gorin is a niece of Mrs. Waters, but had not seen her in forty years. She likes Oregon very much and says she would like to live here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammer, who came to Hillsboro a few months ago from Pennsylvania, left for Tacoma last Saturday where they will visit for a short time and then continue their journey East. It was a clear case of homesickness on the part of Mrs. Hammer.

Mr. Lafferty, of Gales Creek, a brother of the late Mrs. Steeples who formerly lived at the Rock Creek bridge, is very sick of heart disease, and little hopes are entertained of his recovery, owing to his great age, and the serious nature of the disease, which is complicated with dropsy.

President J. P. Tamesia, of the Hillsboro Board of Trade, has named the following gentlemen as delegates to the Willamette Valley Development League meeting which will be held at Forest Grove September 7th and 8th: W. O. Donelson, L. W. House, H. T. Bagley, Thos. H. Tongue, A. C. Shute and the officers of the Board of Trade.

The Union Logging and Lumber Co. of Cedar Mills has made a written proposition to the county court to build a good road from their mills to Beaverton, at a cost of $8,000, provided the county will bear $3,000 of this expense. This is a public highway and much of it has a good deal of travel. The matter will come up at the September meeting of the court.

Forest fires have been burning in the timber west and north of this city and at night and early morning the air is heavy with smoke. Persons north of town were burning some slashing last week when the fire got away from them for a time, but was soon under control and the damage is slight. Most of the heavy smoke back in the mountains comes from fires set to burn slashing. One hundred and thirty-nine permits were issued up to last night.

J. A. Naugle of California has been appointed operator at the depot and is now at his post of duty. Mr. Naugle is an operator of experience, a pleasant gentleman to meet, and during the short time he has been here has formed a good opinion of Hillsboro and its people, an opinion that will be more and more fixed the longer he stays here.

On Saturday last J. C. Kuratli sold to Ulrich Haas, of West Union, the Zamboni residence property in North Hillsboro, the price paid being $630. Mr. Haas will move in about September 1. He sold his farm of 24 1/2 acres, 5 1/2 miles northeast of Hillsboro, to Mrs. Germaine Hill, of McCoy, Ore., for $2,450.

The Climax Milling Co. is receiving new wheat at the rate of 500 bushels per day. Up to the present time the mill has brought between 5,000 and 6,000 bushels, and Mr. J. C. Greer says the quality is much better than a year ago. "White French," a hard wheat is the kind mostly purchased, as it makes splendid flour and is the best for milling purposes.

Morton & Son, the greenhouse proprietors on upper Second street, will have for sale, in season, all kinds of nursery stock, ornamental trees and shrubbery, roses of all kinds, vines, berry bushes and every thing known to a well-kept nursery. The goods are right here on exhibition and parties can call and select what they want. The Hillsboro Greenhouse is here to stay, and Hillsboro people ought to patronize Morton & Son, rather than to send their money out of town.

One-third off on all shirt waists at Hoyt's. These prices cannot be duplicated at any Portland department store special price sale.

Washington Ice Cream, made of pure cream at the Delta.

Washington Ice Cream made of pure cream at the Delta.

Large assortment of black sateen undershirts at Portland prices, or better, at Hoyt's.

A week ago last Sunday a 12-years-old son of Mr. Brown, who lives at Scholls, stumbled over a log and in the fall broke his arm. Dr. Linklater was called and gave the lad proper treatment, and he is now doing fine.

Herman Liebenow, whose home is in South Tualatin, while working around a threshing machine a week ago, had the flesh torn from his forefinger, making a painful, though not serious wound. Dr. Linklater attended the injured man.

A young man named Northrop, shot a black bear at Shady Brook last Monday and sold it to Emmott Bros., the main street butchers. The animal weighed 117 pounds and was sold out to lovers of bear meat at from 10 to 12 cents a pound.

What this town needs and does badly at this writing is ten or a dozen new houses for rent. There is not an empty house in the city and the inquiry for suitable residences to live in is an everyday occurrence at this office. There are now ten new houses going up, but none of them will be for rent. Some of the men in this neck of the woods who have their money tied up in a stocking, could double it by putting up a few good houses to rent.

A case of insanity was on Monday filed against Mary Kessler, a little girl of 9 years of age, whose parents reside at Tigardville. The child has never been bright, and at times is dangerous to have running at large. She was brought before the Examining board, and Dr. Wood pronounced her suffering from "congenital imbecility." She was ordered committed to the hospital for the insane at Salem.

Fred Hurford of Newberg, who was arrested last Friday on the charge of breaking down the toll gate on the Wilson river road in this county, had his preliminary hearing before Justice Bagley Wednesday. The defense offered no evidence, but stood on the illegality of the lease of the road. The state's evidence showed that Mr. Hurford offered to pay all that was demanded for toll, but insisted on having a receipt, which was refused. The court took the matter under advisement. Attorney M. B. Bump appeared for the defendant and Attorney T. H. Tongue for the plaintiff.

Because he wanted some one to cook his meals and make his bed, L. M. Gooney, an Oregon pioneer, aged 78, married Mrs. Katherine Gibson, age 72, Wednesday. Mrs. Gibson was a lone widow and had no home. In spite of his age, Mr. Gooney is breaking timber land into a fine little ranch near Baker City. "I've a home big enough for both, and I'll marry you and take care of you if you'll get my meals," he told Mrs. Gibson, and she was willing. Mr. Gooney was a resident of Hillsboro some twelve or fourteen years ago.

To the cards issued some three months ago by the Hillsboro Board of Trade can be attributed the coming to this city of thirteen individuals who will make their homes here. They are all of the better class of citizen—the kind that are always welcomed—and will make a desirable addition to our fast-growing population. The secretary of the Board receives almost daily requests for information about the city and county and every letter is promptly answered. What is greatly needed is an illustrated write-up of Hillsboro. It would save much writing, and be money well invested.

On Monday evening last the Archbold home on Third street was the scene of a very happy gathering the event being the 41st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Archbold, and the 72nd birthday of B. K. Haines. A splendid repast was served and the guests report a very enjoyable time. The following persons were present: Mr. and Mrs. Archbold, B. K. Haines, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Haines, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Crandall, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Norton, Mrs. Farnham, Mrs. R. Waggoner, Mrs. Brogdon, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Finney, Miss and Mrs. Slattery, Mrs. E. D. Thorn, Miss Bess Archbold and Con Archbold.

Nathaniel P. Nye, of Forest Grove, was up before the board of insanity Wednesday, and after an examination was committed to the asylum at Salem. The old gentleman was born in Massachusetts, is a farmer by occupation, and 71 years of age. Some years ago a tree fell on him, and this is attributed to his present condition. He is very stubborn, often talks of committing suicide. He gets into terrible fits of anger, makes all kinds of dire threats, occasionally forgets his wife's name and wants to go away from home. He is suffering from cancer on the face, and physically is in a very serious condition, as well as mentally. Dr. Linklater pronounced him a subject for the insane asylum and he was taken to Salem by an attendant Wednesday noon.

The new station agent for the Southern Pacific depot in this city has not arrived as yet, though he was appointed some time ago. The gentleman's name is Mr. Gillette and he has been for some time assistant in the depot at Eugene. As soon as the business men of that city learned that Mr. Gillette was to be transferred, a petition was passed asking the company to retain him, for the reason that they were so well satisfied with his services, and his family were so desirable that they wished to have him remain at Eugene. Just what the company has decided to do has not been learned. But wishing Eugene no harm, we hope Mr. Gillette will come to Hillsboro, for he and his family are just the kind of people this town wants, and we can't get too many of them.

Mrs. Pillsbury announces a recent arrival of elegant gold and silver belts. Beautiful things they are at the unprecedented price of 35 cents each.

One day last week while a 12-year-old son of Mr. Sprout, who lives between Reedville and Beaverton, was riding horseback, a dog ran barking after him, frightening the animal, which ran into a barbed-wire fence, sawing the life ankle on the bars and cutting the horse's forelegs in a terrible manner. The ankle was so badly cut that the foot hung only by a few cords. Dr. Linklater was called and dressed the injured limb and had the boy sent to the Good Samaritan Hospital at Portland, where proper care can be given him, as it will need skillful treatment to save the foot. A broken bone is not a circumstance to an injury of this description and the doctor felt that the proper place for the boy was where he could receive the attention of a skilled nurse and the appliances to be found at the hospital. The horse was badly cut, and it is thought his injuries will cripple him for life.

Fred Olsen is papering the inside of the building on Main street until recently known as the "Bazaar" but now occupied by Mrs. Eva Pillsbury as a Ladies' Furnishing Goods store. The east side of the building will be used by Mrs. Pillsbury for her stock of ladies' furnishings, and the west hall by Mrs. I. Bath as a millinery store. When repairs, remodeling and renovating is complete, these ladies will have a very cozy and pretty store, and they propose to carry as good a line of goods as the Portland market can supply. Though not in partnership, both will assist each other in all possible ways, and carry a line of goods which will meet the demands of this city and vicinity for articles in their particular lines. Ladies are cordially invited to call and inspect both departments. The date for the millinery opening will be announced next week.

From Banks to Carston's mill, a distance of about two miles, the new P. R. & N. railway crosses the road no less than five times and in many places runs parallel with the thoroughfare, which in some places is but a narrow elevation. Trouble is brewing for that particular stretch of road unless the county commissioners take the matter in hand at once and do something to do away with the danger that threatens both drivers and teams. Drivers of skittish horses will be in serious danger, not only from having their rigs overturned, but in the winter times when the water is high, in drowning in the numerous accidents that are predicted for that locality by persons who have driven over the road. It is said that when the new road gets in operation, the noise of the train and locomotive will frighten any team, as the place is very much cramped for room. The increase of wagon and buggy travel over this road makes it an absolute necessity that the road be broadened and warning signs placed at short intervals, for the benefit of strangers who are unacquainted with that locality.

E. J. Johnson, of Nebraska, has rented the Heidel building, corner Main and Third streets, and proposes to carry in it a stock of bee supplies. His business is locating bee farms and he will establish one here, one at Tillamook and another in some Washington town. He has 700 colonies of bees in Nebraska and will ship most of them to Oregon. Mr. Johnson has had fifteen years experience in the bee-raising business, and is bringing with him to Oregon the very best of recommendations, his locating here adds another to the desirable class of people who are coming in large numbers to make Hillsboro their homes. This city and one town in Washington, were the only points he had in view when he left Nebraska, but at the suggestion of one of our citizens that Tillamook was a model bee country, and upon the assurance that Hillsboro and Tillamook would very soon be connected by railroad, he at once recognized the importance of the suggestion, and decided to at immediately put in an apiary there as well as here. Thus it will be seen that the new railroad is already bringing results which will prove of great benefit to this section.

The body of William Tigard, who was drowned July 13th in Alberta, B.C., has not as yet been found.

While threshing on the farm of J. Kamma last Friday afternoon the separator belonging to Herman and Ed. Boge was burned. A spark set fire to the straw stack and on account of the propelling power of the engine being temporarily out of order, they could not get the machine out. Horses were frightened by the fire and became unmanageable. A wagon loaded with grain was also consumed. Another machine was purchased and the Boge Bros. will continue to fill their contracts.

Something new and good to chew—Date Caramel—at the Den of Sweets.
