Warship Completed in 1895 Looked Upon as a "Hoodoo."

The battle ship Texas, the "hoodoo boat" of the American navy, has been placed on the retired list, says the Augusta Herald. She has been sent to the navy yard at Charleston, S. C., to serve there as a station ship, and uness war should break out, which would necessitate the bringing into service of every available vessel, her active days are past.

The Texas is not old. She was com pleted in 1895, but was never a good steamer, though she consumed tremendous quantities of coal, and ill luck so persistently attended her that she came to be regarded as "boodooed."

Once in her career the fatal spell de parted from her, during the battle off Santiago de Cuba. Her noble behaivor during that struggle under command of Capt. Jack Philip is fresh in memory. But the hopes to which that momen tary reinvigoration gave rise were shortly after shattered and she resum Queen Bess, and Sylph, and Spangled ed her wonted course of awry action. When she was out for her first trial. one of her propeller blades cut into a passing schooner and sunk it. Placed on a dry dock for the first time, she could not bear the strain of her own weight, and had to be overhauled at great expense. Later, she ran ashore in Norfolk harbor. In 1896, while she was lying in the Brooklyn navy yard. one of her seacocks became unfastened and she sank. In February, of 1897. she went ashore at the Tortugas, and in December of the same year in the Walabout channel. In November of 1902, while she was at target practice, her big guns broke the recoils and wrecked the surroundings works. That was her last accident, but there is no telling what more would have happened to her If she had been required for somewhat active service.

It is altogether likely that her how doo days as well as her active days are over. She will remain quictly at her dock until at some time in the future she will join other forgotten vessels in the naval graveyard.

MODEL SHOVEL SALESMAN.

Story Told of the Duke of Wellington and a Big Contract.

A millionaire shovelmaker, as he sat in the smoking room of an Atlantic liner, said to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat writer:

"I have been over to England trying to sell shovels to the British government. I failed. I couldn't sell a shovel. A dead man named Jones was the cause of my failure.

"Jones was alive, very much alive, during the battle of Waterloo. He sat on horseback near Wellington's tent. Wellington, seeing him there in civillan's dress, said angrily :

"Who are you?" "'I am a shovel salesman,' said Jones, 'and I came here from Brussels
