DEVELOPMENTS IN SNYDER CASE

MRS. SNYDER IN HILLSBORO.

She Identifies the Remains and is Positive Her Husband Was Murdered—From Kansas City.

The general theme of conversation this week, on the street, in the court house and on the trains, has been the Snyder tragedy. The wife of the dead man was in town last Sunday and identified the effects found on the skeleton and the gold crowned teeth in the jaw. She returned to Portland Sunday evening, promising to return Monday noon, but she failed to do so. On Wednesday she wired District Attorney Allen that she would go to Hillsboro Thursday morning, sure. What she knows, or how much she will tell, remains to be found out, and the "sweating" process already prepared for her benefit, may or may not disclose a great deal. Following are reports of a few of the many stories and telegrams referring directly to Snyder and his murder, gathered from different sources, that has been floating about since our last issue:

George Perry, whose name has been mentioned in recent dispatches from Portland as having had a telephone conversation with Carey Snyder, the night of the Forest Grove bank robbery, is at his home in Independence, Mo. He does not deny the story that he talked to Snyder over the telephone from Hillsboro the night of December 3, 1905. But he explains the circumstances in this manner:

"I went to Portland in 1905 to visit the Fair, and while there wrote to Snyder. He replied begging me to come down to the ranch and spend a week with him. I went and spent the week with him. The men returned to Portland. Then he wrote to me again, asking me to come. I answered, telling him that I was going back to Kansas City and would stop off and see him and for him to meet me.

"When I got to Hillsboro, Carey was not there and I decided to stay all night. Then I called Carey over the telephone and asked why he did not meet me. He was 'sore' for some reason or other. I supposed he had had some trouble with his wife. I asked him when he was coming to town and he said he didn't know, maybe never.

"That made me 'sore' and I said 'All right, this is good bye for me.' He said, 'all right,' and rang off and I went back to Portland. So far as my having anything to do with the murder of Carey Snyder, that it is all a put up job on the part of the Pinkertons to implicate me in the bank robbery of Forest Grove I was in Hillsboro the night it was pulled off but I know nothing about it. The first knowledge I had of it was through the newspapers.

"Carey is largely responsible for my name being connected with this affair. It was his idea of a hero, because he and I were confined together at the county jail here. He was crazy over dime novels and whenever he talked of pulling off some big hold-up or train robbery he invariably connected my name with it."

BELIEVE SNYDER IS ALIVE

A dispatch from Kansas City dated October 6th, says: Although Coroner Bagley and the coroner's jury have identified the body found near there as that of Carey M. Snyder, the authorities here are investigating reports that Snyder is still alive and in hiding and that the skeleton found near Hillsboro was placed there either by Snyder, or friends, to deceive the detectives who had been on his trail for years.

Snyder has been a fugitive so long and has led the Kansas City police department such an elusive chase that the authorities here believe the identification of the body should be made complete in every detail before being accepted as final. The authorities are their suspicions that Snyder is still alive on facts which they decline at this time to make public.

A subpoena was served Monday night in Portland upon J. Mrs. Madge Snyder, citing her to appear in Hillsboro and testify before Harrison Allen, the district attorney, concerning her knowledge of the circumstances surrounding the mysterious death of her husband, Carey M. Snyder. It is hoped the story of the young widow will lead to the apprehension of the bon vivant and son of the Kansas City millionaire.

The district attorney's summons, signed by his deputy, Bert Tongue, of Hillsboro, was served upon Mrs. Snyder at 10:30 o'clock in front of the Hotel Portland, where she is registered, by A. G. Vaughn, of Portland, representing Sheriff Connell, of Washington county. Sheriff Connell came to Portland upon this mission earlier in the day, but was unable to find Mrs. Snyder, and returned home, leaving the matter in charge of Detective Vaughn.

Mrs. Snyder made no objection to returning to Hillsboro and telling what she knows concerning the tragedy, although she had failed to go after promising the authorities Sunday that she would do so. There is a general impression that she could reveal more than she has yet seen fit to lay before the officers, and it is hoped that whatever additional facts she possesses will be brought out in her testimony. To friends she has said that she will tell everything that she knows, at the same time maintaining that her previous statements had been correct in every detail.

"I will not say a word. Too much has already been published in the papers," was the only statement that Mrs. Snyder would make when seen by a reporter. She was greatly agitated when asked to talk for publication, and her beautiful face showed the marks of the severe strain which has been upon her and the awful errand which has called her to Oregon from her Eastern home.

Now that the identification of the remains of Carey Snyder has been made positive by the testimony of his wife, it is said that R. M. Snyder, father of the murdered man, will come immediately to Portland. He wrote to a friend that he would come as soon as the identity of the corpse should be established, and is expected at any time that he is on the way. It is said that he is determined to go to the bottom of the case and, if possible, convict the perpetrators of the cowardly crime.

The Telegram of Tuesday evening has the following:

Mrs. Madge Snyder, wife of the murdered man, over the telephone from Washington county authorities in serving a subpoena upon her in this city last night requiring her to go to Hillsboro tomorrow and tell all she knows about the mysterious death of her husband. She is annoyed by the actions of all the officers since the bank robbery, and the disappearance of Mr. Snyder. She thinks she is being unnecessarily hounded and she is very angry at the insinuations that she knows more about the case than she has told.

She was located at the Portland Hotel last night by Detective Andy Vaughn, who received a subpoena from Sheriff Connell, of Washington county in the afternoon, ordering the woman to appear before District Attorney Harrison Allen tomorrow morning. She was served by Vaughn as she walked out of the hotel toward the postoffice. She declined to talk, except to express the hope that the mystery would be ferreted out and that she would be left alone pretty soon.

To a friend she complained most bitterly of the manner in which the detectives have dogged her. "I have told everything I know about the case time and again," she said to the friend, "but they insinuate that I know more and refuse to talk. Goodness knows, if I knew anything more I would tell it; I have nothing whatever to conceal, and it is decidedly annoying to have the insinuation constantly thrown at me that I am concealing something. The detectives dogged me after my husband disappeared and made life miserable after I had told them everything I knew. Now they are repeating the performance. It is bad enough to be in my position without being hounded to death for information that one doesn't possess."

Mrs. Snyder maintains strict silence towards every one but one or two close friends, and this morning refused to be seen at all by any one.

A. M. Beckard, of the Northwest Gun Store, in explaining his interest in the case and his assistance to Mr. Snyder, said: "I wish to say that I have no personal interest in the matter whatever. I became connected with Snyder through the fact that he was a steady customer of mine and his father wrote me a personal letter asking me to let the boy have anything he wanted, and to look out for and aid his wife in any way I could. What I have done was done for these reasons. I know nothing more about the case than is known by every one else, and I do not care to know more."

"When Mrs. Snyder arrived Saturday night she brought me a personal letter from R. M. Snyder requesting me to go to Hillsboro with her and assist in identifying the remains of the boy, and if I were satisfied there was no mistake, to have the body prepared for shipment and to assist Mrs. Snyder in any way I

UNDERWAY IN 30 DAYS

CONTEST AT TILLAMOOK.

Trying to Get Terminal Grounds to Two Miles, Making Contest Very Warm.

Portland, Oct. 11.—Preparations for beginning construction on various railroad projects at Tillamook are being made, and within the next thirty days at least three new sections will be under way. The Pacific Railway & Navigation company is said to be assembling equipment to start construction at from Tillamook to Nehalem.

A contest between railroad promoters is being at Tillamook, where the people have undertaken to furnish the E. E. Lytle and W. J. Wilsey same water frontage and terminal grounds. It is said Mr. Wilsey was first on the scene, and nearly a year ago secured the promise of Tillamook citizens that the Oregon coast & Eastern railroad should have the terminals. Some months ago this promise was made good by agreement with a committee of citizens appointed at a public meeting. Subsequently the Pacific Railway Navigation company came upon the scene. Promising the quickest action in construction of a railroad, it was successful in winning over some of the influential men in the community, and they are now working not only to furnish the desired terminals and water front but to raise money to buy rights of way for the railroad through twenty miles of timber.

The source of financial power and influence back of both of these railroads is still a matter of much speculation. For carrying on the preliminary work of the Oregon Coast Railroad, through the Wilsey company, it is said, the funds are believed to be acting for the Gould system. The Pacific Railway & Navigation company's line, which is practically an extension of the Southern Pacific from Hillsboro to Nehalem and Tillamook counties, was financed through the Union Trust company, at San Francisco, which concern is supposed to be dominated by Harriman interests. Should both projects be carried forward, the Tillamook coast would be given genuine railroad competition that would prove to be immensely effective in developing the country.

There is a fish commonly known as "devil fish." It secretes a dark fluid in its body and can at will throw out this fluid into the water, whereupon all the surrounding water becomes almost inky black. Other fish turn away from this black water, as it is much more undesirable than the clear water. There are people who much resemble these fish. They secrete in their hearts and brains more of envy, malice, discontent, and evil report than anything else. Upon occasion they spew out slanders, backbitings, false reports, envious and malicious remarks, and growlings of discontent. They turn the air blue all about them. They make everyone within hearing distance uncomfortable. No wonder people get away from such persons and keep away from them. There is purer and sweeter air elsewhere; there are more pleasant and more congenial surroundings in other quarters.—Loyal American.

Who Will Be Benefited.

Ramsay Park Grange, located at Dufur, Wasco County, Oregon, has adopted a resolution calling upon the Legislature to provide for the employment of convicts at making grain sacks, and asking that these sacks be sold to the farmers at cost. At present the convicts are leased to the firm of Goldsmith & Loewenberg who employ them in their penitentiary stove factory, paying the State about 35 cents per day, which is about one sixth of what free labor can be had for. These convict-made stoves compete with those made by free labor and prevent the establishment of a stove factory in this State.

Their employment in the manufacture of grain sacks would be of benefit to a large number of persons, but still it is not clear that the wheat growers of Eastern Oregon and the Willamette Valley are entitled to have their grain sacks furnished them at cost by the State or that this is the best way to employ the convicts. Why not put them to work upon the roads, letting each county, if it so desires, have as many of them as may be deemed best, under such regulations as will secure their human treatment and prevent their escape. The men who would be the most benefited by grain sacks at cost are the very ones who least need any assistance from the State—the owners of the vast wheat ranches of Eastern Oregon.—Oregon Mist.

Mrs. John Blanton, of Eugene, died at a hop yard near there last week.

Hazing is the latest amusement at the Portland Academy, and five seniors are said to be slated for dismissal or suspension, if the charges are substantiated. It is said that these same five caught one lone junior, and, stripping him of his clothes, ducked him in the cold waters of the Willamette. Other misdemeanors are reported, such as locking professors in their rooms, etc.

A Badly Burned Girl or boy, man or woman, is quickly out of pain if Bucklen's Arnica Salve is applied promptly. G. J. Welch, of Tekonsha, Mich., says: "I use it in my family for cuts, sores and all skin injuries, and find it perfect." Quickest Pile cure known. 25c at all druggists.

The men who founded the fraternal societies have not become rich. The men who have managed the great insurance companies have become wealthy and the investigations show that it has been at the expense of the policyholders.

GEN. FUNSTON COMING HOME

THE CUBANS DENOUNCE HIM.

Gen. Bell Now in Charge of the Army in Cuba—Trouble Stopped for the Present.

Havana, Oct. 10.—General Frederick Funston will not continue in command of the American forces in Cuba. Governor Taft announced tonight that he and General Funston will leave Havana for the United States on Saturday on the battleship Louisiana. With them will go Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, and the affairs of Cuba will be left in the hands of Governor Magowan and General J. F. Bell. Explaining the change of plans, Mr. Taft said:

"General Funston was summoned on a hurry call from the Pacific Coast because he was well acquainted with many of the insurgent chiefs here, and it was thought he could aid us, as he did greatly, in bringing the men in arms to an agreement. General Funston was put temporarily in command of the troops in Cuba merely as a convenience until General Bell should arrive. General Funston, Mr. Bacon and myself, with Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Bacon and our secretaries, are returning to our permanent duties."

A Question of Measuring.

Two farmers once called upon Daniel Drew, the old Wall street magnate, when he was visiting friends in the country, and asked him to decide a dispute. One of them had sold the other five bushels of wheat and proposed to measure it in a half-bushel basket and sweep off the top with a board. The other objected, but was willing to abide by "Uncle Daniel's" decision as to whether the measure could be swept off.

"I think it can," he declared. "With what?" "Well, I should probably use the half-head of a flour barrel." "Which edge of it?" "Uncle Daniel" smiled. "If I were selling to a widow or a minister," he answered. "I would sweep the measure with the straight edge. But if I were selling to a man who pastured his cows in the road and his pigs in his neighbors' corn I'm afraid I would use the round edge and scoop a little to boot."

The Southern Pacific will sell tickets to Hood River and return for one and one third fare, good for continuous passage in both directions, final return limit October 15, on account of the fair to be held there October 11, 12 and 13.

Pioneer History.

Mr. George H. Himes, assistant secretary and curator of the Oregon Historical Society, called at this office last Tuesday morning, on his way back to Portland from a two weeks trip in connection with his important work. He left Portland on the 20th ult. for Albany. The next day he went to Newport and attended the annual meeting of the Oregon Press Association on the 21st and 23rd of September—perhaps the best meeting this Association has ever held—best in the sense that it was a strictly business affair and devoted to discussions and a free interchange of opinions regarding the best methods of conducting newspapers in order to insure good financial results, and at the same time to be of vital assistance in benefiting the country at large. On the return trip Mr. Himes made calls at Corvallis, Independence, Monmouth, Dallas and McMinnville, gathering much important historical data in each place from old pioneers. Among others he found one woman who was at Vancouver when Rev. Jason Lee arrived there in September, 1834, who remembers his preaching on the 28th of that month that year—the first sermon preached in Oregon. He found a number of others who came to Oregon in 1845, with families, all settling finally in Polk and Benton counties, some of whom secured their first flour at the Joseph Goff Gale Mill, a few miles from Forest Grove, which was built late in 1843 or early in 1844. A number of additions were secured to the membership roll of the society, and renewals secured from all the old members. Interest in the work of the society is increasing, and it is coming to be regarded as a very important adjunct to the educational forces of Oregon. Not only that, but its influence is extending into many eastern states through its valuable publications, which are being permanently filed in many of the principal educational centers and libraries, beginning with Maine and Massachusetts.—Forest Grove Times.
