OUTLOOK

DOUBTFUL

FOR ARREST IN SNYDER CASE

The Widow Claims She Has Told All She Knows About the Case—Not Enough to Convict.

The Portland Telegram of Monday says of the Snyder case:

That Carey M. Snyder was murdered by some one known to George Perry and that Perry and a crackman using the name of Rodgers, who lives at Kansas City or in that vicinity, were implicated in the robbery of the Forest Grove bank, is so firmly believed by the Washington county authorities that it is said warrants of arrest will be issued immediately and the Kansas City police asked to take the suspects into custody.

Disclosures withheld until she received word from R. M. Snyder, her father-in-law, to talk freely, were made Saturday and yesterday to District Attorney Allen and Deputy District Attorney Tongue, of Hillsboro, by Mrs. Madge Snyder, the widow of the murdered man, and may stir those officials to action. Not only did Mrs. Snyder name Rodgers as the accomplice of Perry in the bank robbery, but she gave what is regarded as the most damaging evidence against Perry in connection with the murder of her husband.

The revelations made by Mrs. Snyder were followed by a scene in one of the rooms on the second floor of the Portland Hotel. The pretty widow took umbrage at what she regarded as a reflection by Mr. Allen on her conduct since she has been in Portland and, her face flushing with anger, darted at him. He held her wrists until she was calmer, explaining that he had meant no offense by the remark.

During the conference, Mrs. Snyder became suspicious and suddenly walked to the door and opened it. Former City Detective Vaughn stood at the door, and directing him to enter the room, she shook her fist menacingly in his face and in a voice that teemed with passion declared:

"Mr. Vaughn, I understand that you have been talking about me and have said a good many things that are not nice. Now, I am only a woman and am out here without the protection of relatives, but if you say anything more about me I shall hunt you up, place a revolver at your head and let it go—do you understand? And I want Mr. Allen and Mr. Tongue to hear it."

Mrs. Snyder has not only informed the officials that Rodgers is the name used by the man she says assisted Perry in the robbery of the Forest Grove bank, but she informed them that if they would look over the records of the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph company they would find where such a person telephoned her husband from Portland on the Monday or Tuesday preceding the bank robbery. They are said to have since discovered this to be the case.

"My husband told me they were trying to get him into the affair," she said, "and that Rodgers was a noted crackman, who lived in Kansas City or near there, and was well known to Perry. Rodgers once telephoned my husband from Portland. What they talked about I do not know."

Mrs. Snyder, relative to the murder of her husband, made the statement that some time before his disappearance he loaned his revolver to Perry. It was a Smith & Wesson .38-caliber special revolver. This revolver was found beside Carey Snyder's remains, and a bullet from one of its chambers had been sent through his head. The weapon is a powerful one, otherwise the bullet might have been imbedded in the skull and recovered by the officials.

"Perry has said that he did not meet my husband when the latter went to Portland to meet him," said the widow. "Well, he did meet him. This revolver was loaned to Perry by my husband some time before the bank robbery and Perry had it December 4, when my husband went to Portland to meet him. He must have seen Perry or the revolver would not have been beside the remains. There was no one else he could have procured the weapon from."

Mrs. Snyder has also given the authorities other damaging evidence against Perry. She says that Perry pawned his gold watch at Marx & Bloch's establishment in Portland for $33, and that the pawn certificate was given Carey Snyder by Perry for safe keeping.

"The day my husband left home to go to Portland and meet Perry," said Mrs. Snyder, "he took this pawn ticket with him. It had been kept in the upper drawer of a bureau, and my husband took it out, saying: 'I might as well take this ticket to Portland and give it to George. I guess he has plenty of money since that Forest Grove robbery was pulled off, and will want to take his watch out of pawn.'"

Investigation has disclosed the fact that Perry took his watch out of pawn at Marx & Bloch's place on December 4, the day Mrs. Snyder says that her husband carried the ticket to him in this city.

The delay in issuing warrants for Perry and Rodgers, it is said, is due to a belief on the part of the officials that Carey Snyder was implicated in the plot to rob the Forest Grove bank, though he may not have actually taken part in the commission of the crime. Mrs. Snyder steadily denies the truth of this theory, and when asked why she had withheld such valuable information until she heard from her father-in-law, said:

"I have told you all along that if you would take some action, I would do all I could to help you. But you have kept hanging back and done nothing until I grew disgusted."

"How do I know that you will arrest this man? You will let him flee and then my own life will be in danger. I may be killed in order to get me out of the way at any time. My father-in-law said to tell you all I know, and I have done so."

For a while Mrs. Snyder was so angry that she announced her intention of going home, subpoena or no subpoena. District Attorney Allen told her that if she would make no trouble and remain in the city until next Saturday, there would probably be developments that would cause her to be willing to stay here and see the affair through. She took this to mean that warrants will be issued and the authorities at Kansas City wired to arrest Perry and to try to locate Rodgers. Thereupon she said she would remain in the city and not try to return to Kansas City.

The Oregonian of Tuesday morning contains the following: District Attorney Harrison Allen, of Washington county, has issued an official statement, in which he declares that he is baffled in his attempt to bring to justice the murderers of Carey M. Snyder and the robbers of the Forest Grove bank, because the widow of the slain man refuses to impart information so urgently sought for by the prosecution.

Numerous sessions have been held here and in Hillsboro for the purpose of persuading Mrs. Snyder to break her long silence and give the information that would lead to arrest and prosecution of the guilty. District Attorney Allen, Deputy District Attorney Tongue and Detective Vaughn have used all comfortable means to persuade Mrs. Snyder to tell all she knows of the robbery and murder, but they have not resorted to "sweatbox" methods, they declare.

While the case appears to be ended, District Attorney Allen says he will not quit, but that he will make further efforts to secure information from Mrs. Snyder. Mr. Allen blames her and R. M. Snyder, a Kansas City (Mo.) millionaire, father of the murdered man, for the present unsatisfactory situation.

CRUSHED UNDER THE WHEELS

J. H. DONALDSON KILLED.

Attempted to Cross in Front of a P. & N. Train and is Horribly Mangled.

On Saturday evening last at 6:10, a work train on the Pacific Railway & Navigation Co.'s line ran over and killed James H. Donaldson, at Billings crossing, just north of the city. Donaldson was going home, pushing a wheelbarrow on which were two sacks of potatoes. When he reached the track he evidently saw the train approaching, for he rushed ahead and attempted to cross the track, but was struck and mangled in a horrible manner, one leg being cut off, both arms broken, his chest ripped open and intestines, heart and lungs exposed.

Dr. A. B. Bailey and Coroner Brown were summoned and the body taken to Patterson's undertaking establishment where a coroner's jury examined the remains. The coroner summoned a jury and the evidence of Charles F. Follett, engineer; Harry L. McLaughlin, fireman; Edward Rolling and Clarence C. Jackson, laborers for the company, riding in on the train at the time, and August Tews, who saw the accident from the street, was all to the effect that the accident was unavoidable and caused by the deceased trying to cross the tracks when the train was too near him. They swore that the bell was ringing from the time the train had left the wood-yard, and that the engineer blew the whistle as soon as he saw Donaldson, but as the old gentleman was very deaf, he probably did not hear it. After hearing the evidence and statement by Dr. Bailey, the jury brought in a verdict that the accident was unavoidable and acquitted the engineer from any blame.

Mr. Donaldson was just 58 years of age, his birthday being on the day of his death. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and when a young man went to Iowa Twenty-three years ago he came to Oregon, and for the past twelve or fourteen years has been a resident of Hillsboro. He leaves a wife and two children, the youngest of whom lives at home. The other is Mrs. John Beauchamp, of Lyle, Wash. Another daughter, Miss Carrie, died last April of consumption. The funeral was held from the Christian church in this city on Monday, Elder Sias preaching the sermon. The remains were interred in Odd Fellows cemetery. This is the first fatal accident that has occurred on the new railroad, and no one regrets it more than the crew who were in charge of the train last Saturday evening. The widow is in poor circumstances, it is said, and this untimely taking away of the bread-winner of the family is very unfortunate as well as a sad calamity, and the sympathy of the community go out to the wife and daughters in their time of bereavement.

To the Poor House.
A Portland daily of recent date has the following:
While Alfred B. Wilcox was wending his way to the County Hospital, Mrs. Wilcox was hunting up a lawyer in order to bring a suit for a divorce. And thereby hangs a tale of a father-in-law's devotion to the woman in the case. Wilcox was served with a copy of the complaint yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Kelly.

Married 18 years ago at Davis, Ill., the Wilcoxes are said to have lived happily together until a short time ago. The husband and defendant in the case is suffering from a peculiar affliction, having no control of the muscles of his face and head when he attempts to speak, but he declares that he had no disease at the time of his marriage. A short time ago Wilcox's father died at Cornelius, Or. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wilcox, had been taking care of him for months, and after the old man had passed away, it was discovered that he had willed nearly everything to her.

Wilcox now declares that his wife simply wants to be rid of him so she can do as she likes with her newly acquired wealth. He has employed Attorney Jay Upton to see if he does not have some rights in the matter, and the divorce proceedings will be contested. The Wilcoxes have three children, aged 12, 14 and 16 years. The husband is said to have sent word to his wife yesterday, before he knew that he had been sued for a divorce, that he would like to see her, but she is said to have informed him that he "needn't come around."

This is how The Dalles Optimist advocates the resurrection of a lost art: "A lot of smart doctors are now saying that they can take the cussedness out of a boy by an operation on his head. Our forebears used to perform various operations on their sons for the same purpose, the instrument being a stove or slipper or, in refined circles, a hair brush. These operations were not performed on the head! Far from it! But they were usually pretty effective! If they were repeated oftener now there would be less cigarette smoking, less boy criminals and less use for reform schools."

TWO TO EIGHT FEET OF SNOW

IN COLORADO AND TEXAS.

Oregon Enjoying Balm Autumn—Minnesota and Wisconsin Banked with Snow.

Oregon is a most favorable country, for while other states are suffering with the severe cold and many are snow-bound, the weather here is as warm as May. Not a flake of snow has fallen thus far this year and we have had but three frosts, none of which has done any damage. The snow storm east of the mountains which began last Friday lasted for several days and was severe throughout Eastern Colorado, Southern Wyoming, Northern New Mexico, Western Texas and Western Kansas and Nebraska. It is said to be the heaviest October snowstorm of which there is any record. The total snowfall in Denver was 27 inches. The temperature hovered around the freezing mark, though comparatively little damage has been done. According to stockmen who are in Denver, the cattle on the ranges will not suffer greatly as a result of the storm. They are said to be in excellent condition and well able to withstand a hard storm. Trains on both the mountain and prairie roads were greatly delayed and some city streets were rendered almost impassable.

At Deluth, Minn., it is reported that from 6 to 8 feet of snow fell and railroad travel was delayed for many hours. The actual fall of snow in Denver last Friday night was 27 inches, but in some portions of the state it was four feet or more. Four feet of snow is reported on the track at Lincoln, Colo., a high gale blowing, drifting the snow badly.

A dispatch from Cheyenne dated October 23 says Wyoming is in the grasp of the worst blizzard in the history of the state. Old timers concede they have never seen anything to equal the present storm, which has raged for four days. All railroad lines out of Cheyenne were blocked today.

Eleven hundred Rock Island passengers are snow bound at Limon, Colby and Genoa, Colo. No freights are moving and snowplows are working day and night. All passenger trains on the Union Pacific have been tied up for two days at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Sidney, Neb. In Colorado and Wyoming snow covers the ground at depths ranging from 20 inches to 6 feet. All railroad lines in the state are blocked.

Do not forget that you can get school supplies at McCormick's music store. Everything in school supplies except school books.

And now they are going to "do up" Jonathan Bourne for the United States senator. That's the way it looked from the start.

Fire destroyed the Chamber of Commerce building at Kansas City, Kan., Wednesday morning. Several lives were lost and fifty people injured. Loss on the building is placed at $60,000.

W. H. Scott of Scoggins Valley was in town Friday inquiring if anybody wanted any bear. He has killed or helped killed ten this summer and wants a couple more to make an even dozen. Most of them he has killed for sport, but one last week because it was necessary. He was going along a path in the woods when a bear came rushing at him not more than thirty feet away, when he first saw it. He had his gun on his shoulder but no shell in it. By the time he got a shell in and a bead on the beast it was close on him. Fortunately the first shot did the business and bruin dropped so near that he could reach it with his gun. If our bear killing president wants to get some game he ought to come out here to Oregon. Scott says he will guarantee to find him a bear any day.—Forest Grove Times.

The Designer For November.

In The Designer for November is to be found, in addition to the many designs for winter apparel for ladies and young folks, a special article "For Those Who Wear Mourning," another on "Riding Habits" and still a third on "Fashionable Furs"; all beautifully illustrated. "The Outdoor Baby in Winter" will please not only the mothers but the children, and "Leather Treatment for the Library" offers novel suggestions for the use of the pyrographic needle. There are three capital Thanksgiving stories, and some excellent bits of Thanksgiving verse. Lessons in sewing, millinery, lace-work, embroidery and knitting are given, and there are two pages filled with designs for home-made Christmas gifts. "Fashions and Fabrics," "Fashionable Frivolities," "Toilet-Table Chat," "Etiquette Hints" and "Floriculture Talks" are among the many other good things supplied by authentic specialty writers, while the departments edited by The Designer readers—"What Women are Doing," "Helps Along the Way," and "The Mothers Advisory Club" are fairly tingling with lively personal interest.
