CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS

COURT OPENED MONDAY.

Large Number of Cases Disposed of Court Adjourns to Monday for Thanksgiving.

The Circuit Court for Washington county convened last Monday morning, Judge Thomas A. McBride presiding. The following cases were disposed of up to Wednesday evening, when court adjourned to next Monday morning to give everybody an opportunity to eat Thanksgiving turkey and plenty of time to recuperate after the feast. The following jurors were excused for the term:

E. A. Eddy,
W. K. Newell,
Alois Behnrobr,
Francis Gustin,
Charles R. Adams,
R. M. Kyle,
W. J. Wismer,
J. Hartweiger,

T. A. & P. U. vs. Wagner, set for December 7.

O. & C. E. R. Co. vs. L. J. Schaeffer et al., order to amend complaint; default and decree.

State vs. Chas. Larsen, returns not a true bill; defendant dismissed.

Estate of Wm. Porter, order to sell real estate.

Bledsoe vs. Bledsoe, default and referred to Runyon.

State vs. Chas. Briggs, information filed charging assault with a dangerous weapon, waives time and pleads guilty. Sentenced to four years in the penitentiary, but sentence is suspended upon the express promise that defendant abstains from the use of liquor.

Hibernia Savings Bank vs. James O'Reilly, dismissed.

Lincoln vs. Lincoln, default.

Every hearty laugh tends to prolong life, as it makes the blood flow more rapidly and gives a new and different stimulus to all the organs of the body from what is in force at the other times. The saying, "Laugh and grow fat," has therefore, a foundation in fact.

Capt. William H. McKittrick, son-in-law of the late Gen. William R. Shafter, has filed a petition in the superior court for letters testamentary in the estate of the deceased general. The petition states that no will of Gen. Shafter has been found and property at $15,000 is named.

Mrs. W. E. Hotchkiss, a probation officer in Chicago, says that the wealthy do not go about helping the poor children in the right way. The boys, she said, need clubs and playgrounds to break up the 'gangs' into which they form themselves. Such clubs as the Y. M. C. A. have they can not afford to attend, but they need them more than do the young men who can afford it.

BOYS AND GIRLS REMEMBERED

LITTLE FOLKS MADE HAPPY.

Hillsboro People Send Good Things to the Boys and Girls Aid Society in Portland.

The children of the Boys and Girls Aid Society at Portland were remembered this Thanksgiving in a very substantial way, and our citizens who sent their gifts will be pleased to know that the management of the home are very grateful for the kindly offerings, as are the little people for whose benefit they were sent. All these good things were packed by the teachers and pupils of the public schools and by them sent into Portland, the Southern Pacific making no charge for transportation. Following is a list of the articles sent from here last Saturday:

One dozen glasses of jelly.
One hundred quarts canned fruit.
Four sacks of potatoes.
Fifty pounds dried prunes.
Eighteen cans vegetables.
Eight large pumpkins.
One dozen cabbage.
One sack popcorn.
One sack carrots and beets.
One sack onions.
Ten pounds beans.
One barrel apples.
One box apples.
Crackers, sugar, oatmeal, honey, soap.
Child's coat.
Eighty cents in money.

CITY TICKET NOMINATED

ELECTION NEXT MONDAY.

No Change in the Head of the Ticket

--Carlie and Schulerich New Names for City Honors.

A large crowd filled city hall last Tuesday evening, pursuant to a call for the nomination of city officers to be voted for next Monday.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Cornelius, who was nominated for chairman, and L. A. Long named as secretary. Wm. Nelson moved that all nominations be by ballot and that it takes a majority to elect. Dr. F. J. Bailey and H. T. Bagley were appointed tellers. L. A. Long nominated B. P. Cornelius to succeed himself as mayor and his nomination was made unanimous. H. T. Bagley nominated F. C. Ballard for the council; Joe Downs named A. M. Carlie; L. A. Long nominated Ed. Schulerich, and Mr. Schulerich put the name of L. A. Rood in nomination, all for the council. Mr. Rood declined. H. T. Bagley moved that the nominations be made unanimous. Carlie, H. T. Bagley was nominated for city recorder by acclamation.

For city treasurer A. C. Shute and E. C. Brown were put in nomination. The vote resulted as follows: Shute, 44; Brown, 14.

L. A. Long and D. W. Bath were appointed to have tickets printed, and L. A. Long, D. W. Bath and Dr. F. J. Bailey were named as a committee to fill any vacancy that might occur, and to select candidates to fill such vacancy. No further business the meeting adjourned.

WHEN THE WIFE IS PARIN PUNKIN

WITH APOLOGIES TO EVERY BODY IN GEN. R. & L. AND J. W. RILEY IN PARTICULAR

WHEN the wife is parin' punkin' on the gobble's on the block,
An' it's ten Thanksgivin' mornin' by the old an' faithful clock,
Why, it's then the time a feller sort o' gits himself in tune,
With his appetite a-risin' like the mercury in June.
When the finge o' the pie pans an' the tingle in the air,
Then the finge o' the pie pans an' the tingle in the air,
Fills him with anticipashuns an' with thankfulness to spare.
Gill he gits as full o' ginger as a fightin' crowin' cock,
When the wife is parin' punkin' an' the gobble's on the block.

HOW his majesty the turkey struts aroun' in royal state,
For he harbors no suspitions o' the swift an' mournful fate,
As he's offered on the altar o' the thankfulness o' man!
But I'm sure he would be satisfied an' wouldn't want to spare,
If he knew the thank o' gladness that his dyin' is to give,
Of the tubich prospective happiness I'm duly takin' stock,
When the wife is parin' punkin' an' the gobble's on the block.

AN' the yellow, frosty punkin' class beside the shock o' corn,
Hasn't any sort o' notion o' the joy that will be born,
In the breast o' this o' man as he, with longin' in his eye,
Sees it restin' thick an' juicy, broton an' luscious, in a pie:
Ner the nuts ain't no idear o' the glory they'll bestow,
But that glory's large dimensions I in promise fully know,
Also that o' them red cranberries that shimmer in the crock,
When the wife is parin' punkin' an' the gobble's on the block.

SOON will come our scattered children, Jane an' Lucy, Tom an' Bill,
For Thanksgivin' is reunitin' time. We'll gather roun' the hill,
An', with hearts all overflowin', offer praises to the Lord,
That so long he has preserved us in his mercy. I can see
In my mind's eye all their faces an' can hear their shouts o' glee,
As they crowd aroun' their gray haired ma an' dad, a happy flock,
When the wife is parin' punkin' an' the gobble's on the block.

Hereafter the "opened by mistake" excuse will be a mistake that will cost $200. The postoffice department has ruled that mail must be looked over before leaving the office, and that any letter put in your box by mistake must be returned before leaving the postoffice under a penalty of $200 for failure to do so.

The free seed distribution by the government costs $242,000 a year, besides the cost of handling in the mails, which costs about as much more, or half a million dollars a year, total. This sum of money wisely used would teach farmers the correct plan to market and build the machine for marketing, which will complete a profitable price for every farm crop grown anywhere in the country. The machine once built will not cost the farmers anything directly to run it, but will pay great dividends every year.—Up-to-Date Farming.

The readers of a newspaper should make it a point to patronize its advertisers, for if it were not for their patronage the subscription price would have to be doubled in order to afford the publishers any profit. Moreover, those who are not afraid to advertise their wares liberally must have faith in their value, and the buyer can be reasonably certain of getting a good article. The rule of shrewd advertisers is first, to be sure you have a good article, then advertise liberally.—Ex.

Since to be without turkey on Thanks giving is to fail to pay proper respect to the great American festival, it behooves the good housewife to be well up in turkey lore; for there are turkeys and turkeys, some as juicy and tender as a spring chicken, while others also remain warriors of the barnyard to the bitter end and are as tough and stringy and wild high as hard to swallow as India rubber. To have the turkey tender and delicious on Thanksgiving day, "first catch your hare" in other words, first select a good bird at the market, and then see that it is cooked and basted properly. It is the best plan to shop for the feast at least two days beforehand, for if one waits until the day before all the best birds will be picked out and only the tougher lows will be left. A young turkey should have smooth, black legs and a white skin, and should weigh at least 12 pounds to be juicy and of good flavor. Very scaly, rough legs indicate age, as do also legs that are hard, for a young fowl's feet and legs should be pliable. Another good way to pick out a young turkey is to examine the spurs, or, rather, the place where the spurs grow. A year-old turkey has no spurs, but on a flat knob at that place. A turkey has a spur between a quarter and half an inch long is a last year's fowl, and one with a fully developed spur is over 2 years old. To prepare the bird, first singe it thoroughly over a saucerful of burning alcohol, then hold it under the faucet and wipe dry. Then make a gash down the turkey's neck, cutting to the bone; fold the skin back over the breast and lift out the crop carefully. Then turn the turkey on its back and make a cut at the end of the breastbone
