MASS MEETING WINS OUT

CORNELIUS IS RE-ELECTED.

Park Purchase Proposition Carries, as Does the Telephone, Telegraph and R. R. Amendment.

The election for city officials occurred last Monday night with disastrous results to the Citizen's ticket. The day was ideal and the voters turned out as never before at a city election and much interest was manifest in the result. Both tickets run neck and neck and it would not have taken many votes to have changed the result. Every man on the Mass Meeting ticket was elected, which goes to prove that the majority of voters are satisfied with Mayor Cornelius, who is re-elected, and the men named with him to conduct the affairs of this city for another year. Following is the results:

The proposition for the city to buy a city park carried by vote of 188 and 47 against. An act authorizing the city to grant telephone, telegraph and railroad franchises upon the streets of Hillsboro carried by a vote of 221 for and 15 against.

The President's Message.

The President's message is very long. It touches upon many subjects and deals with most of them in a spirit of enlightened wisdom. Of old-fashioned politics it contains no trace. From party feeling it is free. The discussions are based upon the broad principles of justice and the conclusions in the main are such as all right-thinking men have accepted already or are prepared to accept without much debate.

Corporations still hold the chief place in his thoughts. The evils of unrestricted corporate rule in business and politics and how to remedy them he discusses at length. He begins with the recommendation, in which every honest man concurs, that corporations should be forbidden by the law to make campaign contributions. From this he passes to the very important question of allowing appeals to the government in criminal cases such as the one in which Judge Humphreys gave his famous immunity decision. Mr. Roosevelt remarks that similar, if not identical cases, have been decided by other judges quite as contrary to Judge Humphreys, and he laments that all such matters cannot be taken to the supreme court for final settlement. It also disturbs him that a "single district judge against what may be the judgment of the immense majority of his colleagues on the bench," may nullify a law of congress "and then deny to the government the right to have the supreme court definitely decide the question." This is indeed an intolerable state of things. Mr. Roosevelt points out that it not only hinders the government in its efforts to control the corporations, but it also works direct wrong upon workmen who may sue for justice against wealthy corporate wrongdoers.

The President goes on to say that it has become the settled policy of the government to apply the criminal statutes against the predatory corporations. Every effort was first made, he remarks, to control them by civil proceedings, but those efforts failed. The case is much like that of the fruit-grower in Webster's spelling book who first tried tufts of grass upon the bad boy in his apple tree, but finally had to resort to the big club. The criminal law being absolutely the only means of controlling the corporations, one may discern how important it is that no weak or complaint judge should have the power to thwart the department of justice by such a ruling as the one which the President quotes. Rebates are still common. Criminal proceedings have by no means stopped them, and the government must have every proper aid from congress or they will continue in the future as in the past.—Portland Oregonian.

Hopgrowers Heavy Losers.

Oregon City, Or., Dec. 4.—The inability to procure cars is not more injurious to any one industry than it is to the hop business, and even then the grower bears the brunt of the loss that ensues. Notwithstanding the fact that there are stored at Oregon City, Aurora and Butteville more than 4000 bales of choice Valley hops, all branded and awaiting shipment, buyers are unable to fill telegraphic orders from brewers in the East for this crop.

The average grower, in order to harvest and market his crop, is required to borrow money annually, paying from 6 to 8 per cent interest. The producer, under these circumstances, is unable to repay the amount of the loan until he has sold the crop and received his money. Under the ordinary transaction the buyer does not pay the grower until the hops are shipped. As a result, the grower is not only liable for the interest charges on his loan for the additional time, but must also pay warehouse charges, which, considering the inadequacy of storage room, are excessive, but must assume the further danger of loss from the elements.

In this city the grower must contend with the further disadvantage of a lack of warehouse room in which to store his crop pending its sale and delivery. The Southern Pacific Company are without warehouse accommodations for even temporarily storing hops, while the warehouse of the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company can accommodate not to exceed 1000 bales. Both the street railway company and the river steamers have received instructions not to receive a single bale for shipment even to Portland. Present conditions leave the grower entirely at the mercy of the railroad corporations, and are required to await their pleasure in the matter of furnishing cars before they can realize on their crops.

Roosevelt Third Term.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—The Roosevelt Third Term National League has been formed in Chicago and today an application for a charter was made at Springfield, Edward A. Horner, formerly of Leadville, Colo. is the organizer and president of the League. The National headquarters will be in Chicago. Clubs will be organized in every county and city in the United States.

"We aim to get 5,000,000 members," said Mr. Horner. "It is not our purpose to appeal to politicians; in fact we don't want them. It is to be a matter which is to come directly from the people, and for myself I don't care whether President Roosevelt likes it or not. To my mind he has nothing to say about it." "The people have absolute and implicit confidence in him and we're going to see that they elect him to a third term."

CRUSHED UNDER CAR WHEELS

ALBERT BEALAND KILLED.

A Half Filled Whiskey Flask Tells the Whole Story—End of a Thank-giving Spree.

Albert Bealand, aged about 36 years, was killed by the cars at Middleton on Thanksgiving night. Coroner Brown and Dr. W. D. Wood, of this city, went to the scene of the accident and found that Bealand had been run over by the cars, his left foot cut off, chest crushed in and the body otherwise cut and bruised. Pieces of the dead man's sweater were found four miles from where the accident occurred. The man's clothing was cut into shreds, showing that he had been carried along by the cars for some distance.

A strange coincident is the fact that twenty-three years ago, Bealand's father was found hanging to a tree, about sixty rods from where his son was killed Thanksgiving day, and Dr. E. M. Brown, brother of our present Coroner Brown, was acting coroner at that time and conducted an inquest over the remains of elder Bealand. It was intimated then and is still thought by some that the son had something to do with the death of his father, as the feet were dragging on the ground when found, and some thought at that time that he had been strangled and then taken to the tree and tied up, to give an appearance of suicide.

A bottle of whiskey, half full was found on young Bealand's body which tell its own story. The following is from our Sherwood correspondent and tells of the circumstances more fully:

An awful and horrifying result of the overindulgence in strong drink is made painfully apparent in the sad ending of a young man here on Thanksgiving day, who unconsciously lay slumbering on the railroad track, apparently dead to the surrounding world and met sudden death under the carwheels of a passing train. Albert Bealand, aged about 36, raised in this locality and only son of a helpless and destitute widow residing at Middleton depot, came to town on the above named date, fell in with convivial companions and spent the day imbibing freely of "that which stingeth like an adder" and leads down to the valley of the shadow of death, all too quickly, and in this unfortunate case, instantly. He attempted to make his way home about 5 o'clock in the evening when on reaching the warehouse, fell across the track and lay helpless until removed by people passing by. As he was just on the outside of the town limits, and not subject to arrest the town authorities did not molest him, which had it been done would have saved his life. How he managed to cross a high railroad bridge and reach a point perhaps a half a mile from town is a mystery unexplained.

Here it appears he again sought slumber on the track and his mangled and lifeless remains were gathered up and taken to Middleton depot the next morning by the southbound passenger train, having been run over during the night by a passing freight, without being discovered. Bealand was a quiet, industrious young man, when not given to dissipation, and his employers speak highly of him as an efficient man at his work, being principally engaged at sawmill work when employed.

Tax on Fisherman.

It cost the people of Oregon $30,648.95 to protect game in Oregon during 1906. This is shown by the annual report of Game Warden Baker, who recommends that game protection be extended by the creation of a new fund to be raised by requiring all trout fishermen to take out licenses.

Among other recommendations made are two that the law protecting beaver be repealed, that a bounty be offered for cougars, wildcats and timber wolves, that the elk protection period be extended ten years, that the law forbid possession of game birds, either dead or alive, during closed season. Mr. Baker reports that game birds of all kinds are increasing in numbers and most kinds are very plentiful.

A Washington, D. C., special says: The Bristol nomination has been referred to Senator Fulton and by him sent back to the judiciary committee with a note calling attention to his action at the last session. It will now be referred to a subcommittee, consisting of Senators Kittredge and Foraker, who are accused in Collier's article of conspiring with Fulton to prevent Bristol's confirmation. Fulton says he will ask that the nomination be rejected and that the subcommittee stands ready as it did last season, to report adversely. Collier's article only serves to make the subcommittee more anxious than before to reject Bristol, for it is generally looked upon as inspired by Secretary Hitchcock, who last winter used his best efforts to secure Bristol's confirmation.

A St. Paul, Minn., despatch of last night says that a cold wave is headed southward from the Canadian Northwest. In Winnipeg, Manitoba, the thermometer was at zero at 5 o'clock. The coldest place in Canada tonight was Prince Albert, where it was 14 below.

Chester A. Gillette, who last Wednesday night was found guilty of the murder of Grace Brown, received a telegram from his mother, Mrs. S. S. Gillette, of Denver. The mother urged her son to have courage in God, adding that she had wired to his attorneys to appeal the case. She promised that she and his father would be at Chester's side when his next trial took place.

The Pittsburg flyer, on the Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburg railroad was wrecked near Golden, N. Y. About fifteen persons were injured. No one was killed.

Fire at San Francisco destroyed the plants of the Whittier Coburn Oil company and Barber Asphalt Paving company. The loss is estimated at half a million dollars.

Will Scott, a trainman, and John Drumwright, a passenger, were killed and three persons were injured in a rear-end collision on the Illinois Central near Ripley, Tenn.

Helen Lambert, the actress who was injured in an automobile collision in Central Park, New York, in which Tom Cooper lost his life, died in Roosevelt hospital of her injuries.

J. P. Ryan, a railroad employe from Spokane, acted the part of host to a trio of friends whom he steered towards the North End, Portland, at an early hour Thursday morning. He became acquainted with Jessie Cooper colored, and according to the complaint he filed with Patrolmen Brouters and Ellis, she "touched" him for $160 in gold coin. The woman has been mixed in affairs of this kind before.

SHE TRIES TO KILL HERSELF

TAKES CARBOLIC ACID ROUTE

Laura Messenger Tired of Life Tries to Poison Herself, But is Prevented in Time to Save Her Life.

Miss Laura Messenger, about 16 or 17 years of age, daughter of M. F. Messenger, of Laurel, attempted suicide in a drug store in this city at about 9 o'clock last Monday morning, and but for the prompt interference of John W. Bailey she would have succeeded. The girl had secured a bottle of carbolic acid somewhere and going to the Pharmacy asked to have some medicine put up. While Mr. Bailey was writing the directions on the labels, he happened to glance up and saw the girl swallow something from a bottle, and surmising that it was poison, ran to her and dashed the vial from her hand, scattering the fluid over his hands, burning himself quite severely. He forced her to take an antidote and immediately summoned Dr. F. J. Bailey, who arrived promptly and gave the girl an emetic. She was soon revived and taken to the home of Dan Hill where she has been making her home. Her lips, mouth and throat were badly burned, but she will recover, thanks to the prompt work of Mr. Bailey and the doctor.

Miss Messenger has been dependent for some time, and this is her second attempt at self-destruction, it is said. Mrs. Hill, with whom she is living, has noticed that the girl was trying to get away with herself, and notified the drug stores not to sell her any poison, and she has been unable to get anything which would cause her death at either store. Where she procured the acid is only a matter of guess work, but it is thought she secured the bottle out of town. She is now at Mr. Hill's and will recover.

Portland will have a new theatre.
