Mention is made early so that people may know that Hillsboro is going to do herself proud July 4th, and make the eagle yell as never before in this neck of the woods.

"A bright, neat, melodious entertainment entirely free from all suggestive characters, a comedy that commands the attention of sensible people, equipped with appropriate scenery, and a company of unusual excellence. Just what you will enjoy. "The King of Tramps" will be at the Crescent Theatre Monday, March 25th.

Editor Brownhill, of the Beaver State Herald, published at Gresham, was in town Monday and gave this office a fraternal visit. He is about to make a number of improvements in the making up and appearance of his paper, which, by the way, is a mighty good weekly now. But Brownhill believes in giving his readers the best to be had, and he is sparing neither hard work nor money in reaching his ideal in the newspaper field.

At a regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias held in Castle Hall on Monday evening, the committee on building reported the purchase of the Housley property on Second street, on which is now located the Ballard barber shop and Corwin & Heidel meat market. It is reported that the price paid was $2,400. The Knights of Pythias will, it is said, erect a handsome two-story solid brick structure on the lots purchased, though it is probable that this will not be done for a year or more.

Charles B. Frissell, a prominent and popular resident of Oregon City, and some eight years ago station agent for the Southern Pacific railway in this city, died Tuesday afternoon of pleural pneumonia after a week's illness. He was born at Fort Atkinson, Wis., in 1859, and came to this state in 1885. After leaving Hillsboro he went to Oregon City and opened a cigar and tobacco store. He was married in 1885 to a Miss Sawyer at Fort Atkinson, and leaves her and three sisters to mourn his loss. He was a Mason and a Knight of Pythias.

John T. McNamara, better known in this vicinity as "Brictop," was up before Judge McBride Tuesday and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of larceny from a building. McNamara was deputy sheriff of Tillamook county last fall, employed by the prohibition people of Tillamook to round up booze sellers, and it is charged that shortly after his return from Tillamook he entered the Tualatin Hotel in the night time and stole several articles of wearing apparel and a few trinkets from roomers. His trial is set for next Monday.

The International Field Secretary of the American Sunday School Association will visit Washington county next week. Rev. W. C. Merritt, international field secretary, and Rev. Chas. Phipps will attend the following District Conventions: Tualatin Plains Presbyterian church, Tuesday, March 26, at 8 p. m.; Congregational church, Forest Grove, Wednesday March 27, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.; Gaston Union church March 28, 2 and 7:30 p. m. Programs for these conventions will be printed and distributed next Sunday.

In another column will be found a complete record of the transactions of the circuit court now in session. Judge McBride is presiding and it is a source of joy to all good citizens to see his smiling countenance at the court house, for it may not be known to all, but it is a fact, that for three weeks he was hovering between life and death, with the chances very much against him at one time. He caught a severe cold which developed into pneumonia and for three weeks he was a very sick man.

The Southern Pacific waiting room at Fourth street, Portland, is about to take another hike. The new location has been decided on for sure, but it is likely to be one block further north, in a building until recently occupied by a lot of pigstails and Japs. The West Side line is well patronized and it is up to the Southern Pacific people to give patrons of the road something just a little better than a cow shed to spend their money in. For twenty years the "ticket office" has been on the move from one shack to another, and ticket purchasers have been compelled to line up on the sidewalk, rain or shine, while waiting for the train. We do not want it to appear that The Independent is a kicker, but in this case there is a kick coming. West side travel is very heavy, and the people who patronize the road are entitled to a decent waiting room on Fourth street, and in a convenient location.

Chester Sloan, a pioneer of 1861, and proprietor of the Forest Grove Hotel for forty-two years, died in this city last Monday night, after an illness of over two months, aged 79 years. Mr. and Mrs. Sloan opened the first hotel in Forest Grove in 1865, which was known as the Sloan Hotel. Mrs. Sloan died in 1904. Of the three children born to them but one is living, George O., who lives in Forest Grove. The funeral was held on Wednesday.

The R. F. D. inspector was in the city last week investigating the work of the carriers and also the roads. Hillsboro Street Scenes post cards at Mrs. Bath's millinery store. New and pretty. Just the thing to send to your friends in the East. W. T. Fogle, of the Forest Grove Times, was in the city last week and called at this office for a friendly chat. This was Mr. Fogle's first visit to the county seat. One of the best productions ever seen at the Crescent was "The Bonnie Brier Bush," which held the boards last Friday night. It is a clean play from start to finish and appeals to all classes, and the verdict of the big crowd in attendance was "One of the best." The Crescent management, like other people, may get fooled now and then, but they are giving Hillsboro theatre goes the very best attractions on the circuit at the present time.

Councilman Vaughn of Portland is still hammering away at the Southern Pacific railway trying to push the line off of Fourth street. The smell of oil and the noise of traffic is rasping his delicate nervous system, and if he had his way the road would be moved off the earth. Which brings out the suggestion that there are a few other things on Fourth street that should be moved. They make no noise, but are in evidence just the same, and are a disgrace to Fourth street, or any other street. Why overlook them while prodding the S. P. Mrs. W. G. Coles, accompanied by her son Blaine, of Columbus, Wis., arrived in Hillsboro Monday evening for an extended visit with her cousin, Mrs. D. W. Bath. Mrs. Coles' health is not the best and she hopes the delightful summer climate of Oregon and the salt breezes from Old Ocean, as it is wafled over the mountain at eventide, will give her renewed health and a long lease on life; and her hopes will certainly be realized as we glide from the damp and disagreeable weather of spring into the glorious sunshine of summer, when the air is filled with the perfume of thousands of flowers and delicious fruit is hanging from every bush.

One of the best written, best expressed, best presented comedies to visit Hillsboro this season will be "The King of Tramps" which comes to the Crescent Theatre Monday, March 25. The press agent assures us we are not to see the rum soaked husky voiced shambling hobnob invariably seen with attractions of this title. Instead we are to meet a "Sunny Jim" always going out of his way to spread happiness, always singing and carrying a light heart, a character that good sensible people can view from in front with a feeling of interest. A capable company of farriers, singers and dancers surround the principal characters and patrons are assured of a performance well worth seeing.

The body of E. B. Smith, born in this county and well known by many older residents of Hillsboro, was found lying on the Northern Pacific tracks by the crew of a work train near Olequa, Wash., last Saturday afternoon under conditions which plainly pointed to murder, and a man giving his name as Andrew Harvey has been arrested for the crime. It is known that the murdered man, in company with the man Harvey, had been drinking all day in sight of both the railroad section gang and the workmen in a rock quarry near by, when they were noticed to go down the track and out of sight toward Castle Rock. In the evening Harvey returned to Olequa wearing clothes much better than he had previously had on and which are thought to have been worn by Smith. The suspected man was arrested on suspicion and taken to Kalama. Smith was born in this county in 1871, was a grandson of William Meeker, one of the pioneers here, and a nephew of ex-Sheriff Meeker of Columbia county. Mr. Meeker, who recently returned to the East in a prairie schooner drawn by oxen, over the same trail he used in coming to Oregon more than forty years ago, is also a relative of the dead man.

HILLSBORO LEADS. Four Different Rail Lines Will Soon Be Extended Through the City. At this writing, Hillsboro is more favored in the matter of transportation than any other city in the state, except those of many times its size. The Southern Pacific service makes it possible to choose from four trains a day in either direction out of Hillsboro, and the new road of the P. R. & N., now being built toward Tillamook, further increases the convenience and value of this city as a residence center. The United Railway Co. have actually begun work on the new electric line between Portland and Forest Grove via Hillsboro, and now the Willamette Traction Co. is commencing operations on their new electric road, which will make the fourth transportation company to locate in this city. Three of which will connect us with the metropolis of the state, by fast and frequent service. The rail connection outlined is of insatiable value to this locality, and is always the case when cities become closely settled, and the population dense. Portlandians desire to find homes in the country where they may obtain pure air and own sufficient land for garden and orchard, and maybe pasture a head or two of livestock. This condition arises in the history of the development of every lucky suburban town which is best adapted by natural conditions and location to be the chosen home spot for busy city people, is indeed favored above all others, for an immediate increase of property value, followed by continuous growth, is invariably the result. And Hillsboro is undoubtedly the favored community. Corporations as well as individual's are quick to see the progressive spirit of a community and to make their plans in such manner as to centralize their efforts, where not only conditions and locations are of strategic importance, but where it is apparent that co-operation, interest and effort of the entire population will be extended liberally in their behalf. Considerable attention and compliment has been accorded the promoters of the valuable public movement lately inaugurated and forwarded in the interest of the city of Hillsboro and Washington county in general. The gentleman at whose expense this has been done, namely R. L. Cate of Portland, has other interests at stake in the vicinity of Hillsboro which will soon be divulged, and his branch office, now established here, is open at all times, ready to assist his many friends in any possible manner. E. W. Hanley, of Forest Grove, who has been retained by Mr. Cate as local manager of his business, is well known in this vicinity.

A Pleasant Party. On March 17th, a surprise party was given to Edward Wood, of Tigardville, by the members of Butte Grange and others. They met at Butte Grange hall and marched to the residence of Mr. Wood, and invited him and his wife to the Grange hall, where a bountiful spread awaited the company. Before the dinner a short address was made by Thomas Paulson, as follows: "Brothers and sisters, ladies and gentlemen—We have met here today to do honor to and celebrate the 70th birthday of Brother Edward Wood, a charter member of Butte Grange, who for nearly forty years has been a resident of this neighborhood. During all this time he has had and has now the esteem and good will of his neighbors and it can be truly said of him that he was and is still a good neighbor; and only of a good and just man can this be truly said. He has been able to acquire enough to enable him to live comfortably for the remaining years of his life. This has been accomplished by him by industry and good management, without injury to anyone, but on the contrary, to the benefit of his neighbors, for no man can do the work done by our brother in making a home out of what was comparatively a wilderness, without benefiting all who are fortunate enough to be his neighbors. Bro. Wood has also been one of the best members of Butte Grange. In the dark days of the Grange, when it was not popular to be a Granger, he never faltered, but steadily did his share to further the interest of our order. Some years ago he had the misfortune to lose by death his first wife, but a short time ago he was fortunate to gain a second helpmate, and we sincerely hope that many more years of peace and comfort will be enjoyed by him and his wife, who also is a much respected member of Butte Grange." After dinner several hours were spent in social intercourse, music and singing by those present, over 80 persons. Altogether it was a most pleasant event and all returned to their homes, pleased with themselves and everybody else.

Walnut Trees Have Arrived. Petersen & Yates, of Cornelius, have received 11,000 French walnut and filbert trees. They are the best the world can grow, perfectly hardy, great producers, stand the Pacific Northwest climate and are as hardy as apples. We guarantee them. Walnut trees are proof against insects and need no spraying. They do well grown in groves. Walnut culture is the chance for the poor man as well as for the rich. They are money makers, as well as wonderfully increasing the value of land, as high as $1,000 per acre is made. It is now established that the Northwest is well adapted to the culture of the English Walnut. The thousands being set confirms it, and bearing trees in different parts of the valley proves it. These walnuts bear young and are graded stock of the Franquette, Mayette, Parisienne and Prepatarian varieties, the best known stock in the world. You cannot overdo the cultivation of walnuts, as they cannot be grown in every place or every state. They are like hops, and it has been proven that Oregon and our Willamette Valley is the ideal place for both crops. Walnut oil is in great demand and the production of walnuts cannot be overdone like hops, and even wheat. Ten million dollars are paid out annually by the United States for the purchase of walnut, which should not be when they can be grown at home and bring in untold wealth to the producer. They are easily harvested, needing much less labor than any other kind of fruit, although it is well to have all varieties, as markets can always be found for everything raised in Oregon.

Our name has reached the most remote parts of the world and nearly every paper has something about the wonderful Oregon-raised fruit, from far off lands. If we want to make Oregon first, we must lead. She will follow, and be first foremost and always. For small tracts of land I would recommend walnut raising, as an acre or two of filberts and walnuts bring in more than anything known. You do not have to wait any longer than people did in prune raising and small crops can be grown while the trees are growing. Filberts bear in three years and are as valuable as walnuts. Nuts will not spoil on your hands like some other fruit, therefore they will always command a good price. These trees are going fast, so send in your order. A. O. YATES.

Butter! Butter! Butter! You can get good dairy butter at R. H. Greer's for 55c a roll.
