The kind of a cow that dairymen ought to keep, says the Corvallis Times, is illustrated in the doings of a Holstein at the college. A record of her milk yield for a year has been kept, and it ended the evening of December 31st. It Salve: "It does the business; I showed an aggregate milk yield of have used it for piles and it cured 13,744 pounds, carrying 446.55 them; used it for chapped hands pounds of butter fat. The equival and it cured them; applied it on an leat in butter is 520.97 pounds of old sore and it healed it without butter, and at the current prices of leaving a scar behind." 25c at the the year aggregated $170. The Delta drug store. cost of the feed for the year was $40, showing a net profit of $130 for the year. She was not pushed in the feeding, but was only given such rations as any dairyman would provide in the businesslike conduct of his establishment.
