Mossback Journalism.

Monday's Telegram—The election of a president of the Portland Commercial Club will be held in due time. Mr. Hodson may be induced to serve another year.

Monday's Journal—C. W. Hodson was elected president of the Portland Commercial Club at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Two brief little paragraphs, but sufficient to show the contrast between the news service of the two papers. In the same issue of the Telegram in which Mr. Hodson's election was predicted, (after he had already been elected,) a large space on the front page was given to the production of a supposed-to-be-funny cartoon in which the country editor was made the butt of the old cordwood-on-subscription gag. At the very moment the sleepy old sheet was attempting to poke fun at newspapers of the country towns, it was being "scooped" right at home by a wide-awake competitor. One paper was attending to its own business and printing the news; the other was making a cheap attempt to belittle the business of the interior newspapers, and thereby overlooking an interesting item right at its own door. The mossback journalism of Oregon is not to be found in the country towns. It is confined to the office of the Oregonian's vermiform appendix.—Polk Co. Observer.

Eggman—Williams.

On Tuesday evening at seven o'clock, January 21, 1908, at the Methodist Episcopal church, Skamokawa, Wash., Mr. John Isaiah Eggman and Miss Rebecca Williams were united in marriage in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Elder G. A. Landen of Tacoma, Wash., performing the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Ellicott, pastor of the church here. The back of the altar was banked with evergreens, ferns and calla lilies, immediately in front of this was a great white bell undenneath which the couple stood as they were pronounced man and wife.

The bride is from Kentucky and is a daughter of James R. Williams, a descendant of one of the oldest pioneer settlers of the state and she is a popular and highly esteemed young lady of this place.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Eggman. He is well-liked, has high ambitions and is of good habits. He is a successful business man of this vicinity, having been engaged in the timber business for a number of years and is also a graduate of the College of Photography of Palo Alto, California.

The above is taken from the Skamokawa, Wash., Eagle, and refers to a sister of Mrs. T. J. Allen of Beaverton, who with Mr. Allen attended the wedding. The bride was presented with a town lot, a gift from her cousin, Judge Saulsberry of Seattle.

Rank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldredge, of Empira, Ga. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at the Delta Drug Store. 50c and $1; trial bottle free.

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James of Louellen, S. C. "It is called Electric Bitters and comes in 50c bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time, and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lamb back. Sold under guarantee at the Delta drug store.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

Gains of the Year a Most Significant One.

The year 1907 has been a significant one for women and has brought them more of political freedom than most persons realize.

Norway granted full Parliamentary suffrage to women.

Sweden made women eligible to municipal offices.

Denmark gave women the right to vote for members of the Board of Public Charities and made them eligible to serve on such Board

Great Britain made women eligible as town councilors, mayors and aldermen, and at the fall elections three women were elected municipal councilors in England and one in Scotland.

The Cabinet ministers of the Netherlands drafted a revised constitution which was approved by the Council of State and has been placed before Parliament; it provides for the ballot for women and makes them eligible to office.

The Young Liberal Party of Bavaria acted unanimously to invite women to join all its branch societies as soon as the prospective change takes place in the law of the Empire, which forbids women to be members of any political association.

Women voted for the first time in state elections in Queensland, Australia, and for the first time in history a majority of any disfranchised class petitioned for suffrage when the majority of adult women of Iceland asked for the Parliamentary vote.

Parliamentary suffrage was granted to Russian women on the same terms as to men except that the former must vote by proxy.

In the United States, while there have been no such important specific gains, the civil status of women has been elevated in various states, women have been elected to boards of education in large numbers, and given other opportunities for greater service in our municipalities. The constitution of the new state of Oklahoma provides for school suffrage for women and made women eligible to one state office. The woman suffrage movement has been officially endorsed by the American Federation of Labor, the National Grange, the National Letter Carriers Association and by a score of other important bodies.

At their annual meetings held last month, State Granges of New Jersey, Indiana, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Michigan passed woman suffrage resolutions. The Ohio Grange, already on record as favoring full suffrage for women, adopted a resolution endorsing woman suffrage in local option elections. California, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, New York, Oregon and Washington State Granges are others which have declared for equal suffrage, while the National Grange not only endorses it but recommends its discussion in subordinate organizations.

Brand Whitlock, independent mayor of Toledo, Ohio, and famous as an author, is reported by The News, of Detroit, as saying to Mayor Thompson of the latter city: "Detroit, Cleveland and Toledo lead all other American cities in political freedom. But until women can vote it is only one half the freedom it should be. Do I believe in woman suffrage? Most certainly! We can only attain to a limited measure of political freedom when women are allowed to vote. The next step will be economic freedom."
