

SKIN DISEASES HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

When the blood is pure, fresh and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth and free from blemishes, but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation its presence is manifested by a skin eruption or disease. These humors get into the blood, generally because of an inactive or sluggish condition of the members of the body whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse matter of the system. This unhealthy matter is left to sour and ferment and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin, producing Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum and skin eruptions of various kinds. Eczema appears usually with a slight redness of the skin followed by pustules from which there flows a sticky fluid that dries and forms a crust, and the itching is intense. It is generally on the back, breast, face, arms and legs, though other parts of the body may be affected. In Tetter the skin dries, cracks and bleeds; the acid in the blood dries up the natural oils of the skin, which are intended to keep it soft and pliant, causing a dry, feverish condition and giving it a hard, leathery appearance. Acne makes its appearance on the face in the form of pimples and black heads, while Psoriasis comes in scaly patches on different parts of the body. One of the worst forms of skin trouble is Salt Rheum; its favorite point of attack is the scalp, sometimes causing baldness. Poison Oak and Ivy are also disagreeable types of skin disease. The humor producing the trouble lies dormant in the blood through the winter to break out and torment the sufferer with the return of Spring. The best treatment for all skin diseases is S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and removes the humors so that the skin instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a supply of fresh, healthy blood. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., while they soothe the itching caused by skin affections, can never cure the trouble because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of foreign matter and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby permanently curing every form of skin affection. Book that tells all about Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

An Oversight. "I want to pay this bill," he said at the hotel bar, "but I think you have made a slight error here in my favor. I've been reading over the extras, and I cannot find that you have charged anything for telling me you thought it might rain."

He Dodged. "So Burroughs owes you money. Well, I think he'll pay you back some day, but you can't make him hurry."

"Don't you believe it. The mere sight of me walking along the street has made him hurry several times lately."—Philadelphia Press.

Most Direct Route. "How did your husband get out of the building after he had located the gas leak?" asked the reporter.

"As nearly as he could remember it afterward," said the woman, "he went out through the roof."

Recognized His Fattening. Woman of the House—A big, strong fellow like you ought to be willing to work and earn his own living.

Languid Launcelet—That's what ails me, ma'am. My muscles is all right, but my will power is all gone.

Name Had Escaped Her. "Professor," said Mrs. Gaskell to the distinguished musician who had been engaged at a high price to entertain her guests, "what was that lovely selection you played just now?"

"That, madam," he answered, glancing at her, "was an improvisation."

"Ah, yes, I remember now. I knew it was an old favorite, but I couldn't think of the name of it, to save me."

Short-Sighted. "Why don't you farmers do something to improve your roads?"

"What for?" asked the old settler.

"It would improve the value of your farms."

"Yes; and the more value we get up, the more taxes we might have to pay."—Washington Star.

A Rare Complaint. "Isn't it strange," asks the first man, "that so many men, after years of ruthless commercial practices, practices one might almost say, after they have climbed to the very pinnacle of success, should have softening of the brain?"

"It would be stranger yet, infinitely stranger," replied the man with the corrugated brow, "if any of them ever had softening of the heart."—Puck.

Soliloquy. "Cyrie," hastily exclaimed Mrs. Jones, "you ought to be careful how you let Fido eat out of your hand."

"Why, there isn't a bit of harm," said Mr. Jones. "He wouldn't damage a fly."

"O, I know there's no danger to you," impatiently rejoined his wife. "I was thinking of Fido."

Envelopes were first used in 1829. Before that time one simply folded one's letter together and fixed it with sealing wax.

His Fattening. "What an exasperating old cuss Hewlens is in the matter of borrowing money!"

"Why, I thought he was well fixed. I didn't suppose he ever had occasion to borrow any."

"Great Scott! He doesn't. What I mean is that it's exasperating to get turned down every time you try to borrow from him."

Wayside Communion. Warehouse Long—Vot started the hard times, anyway?

Tufford Knut—We did, ye ole fool. We was sufferin' with 'em long 'fore anybody else caught 'em.

An inland graduate came to New York to seek employment. Through a friend he received an offer of a place as shipping clerk to a certain firm. In reply he wrote as follows: "I regret that I cannot accept your kind offer of a position shipping clerk, but the fact is that I am always sick when on the water."—Success Magazine.

FIRST EVENTS IN DIXIE

The first newspaper in Maryland, the Gazette, was issued in 1727 at Annapolis, by William Parks.

The first newspaper in North Carolina was started at Newbern by James Davis in 1740.

The first patent for tin roof on houses was issued Sept. 10, 1829, to R. S. Tilden, of Lynchburg, Va.

The first patent for a garment-cutting machine was issued June 10, 1821, to Allen Ward, of Huntsville, Ala.

The first patent for an odometer, a device to measure distances, was issued Nov. 20, 1818, to James Clark, of Powhatan County, Va.

The first successfully exploited mowing machine was that of Cyrus H. McCormick, of Rockbridge County, Va., issued June 21, 1834.

Mississippi was the first State in the Union to agitate abolishing imprisonment for debt and led the movement in the great reform. Imprisonment for debt was abolished in that State Jan. 23, 1824.

The Savannah, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic, was owned in and started from Savannah, Ga. It was 100 feet long and 380 tons burden. This was twenty-five days in the month of May, 1819, in reaching Liverpool.

The first railroad built in Kentucky and the first completed west of the Alleghenies was the Lexington & Ohio. It was begun in October, 1831, at the Lexington end, and completed to Frankfort in December, 1835. It was laid that distance with flat rails fastened to stone sleepers.

In 1611 the Jamestown settlement had thirty acres of corn under cultivation. Ten years later the Massachusetts colony had twenty acres. This was the beginning of the field cultivation of corn in this country. Now it is our most universal crop, one which in 1895 reached the enormous figures of 2,700,000,000 bushels, valued at $1,100,000,000.

CONDENSED KNOWLEDGE.

The Thames freezes over on an average of three times in a century.

All the blood in the body passes through the heart in thirty-two days.

The traffic of the waterways of this country is about one-half that of the railroads.

Foreign exports and imports equal only 5 per cent of the interstate trade of this country.

The dew falling in England in the course of a year is said to be equal to 5 inches of rain.

The United States exports annually 21,000,000 tons of merchandise, valued approximately at $1,700,000,000.

The possibility of one person's finger tip being identical with that of another is one chance in 64,000,000,000.

Europe has four active volcanoes, Asia fifteen, America fifty-six and the Asiatic Islands no fewer than 110.

Following the course of the Danube from source to mouth, one would encounter no less than fifty-two languages.

Haulage by teams over roads costs 25 cents per ton per mile; by railroad, 7 1/2; by canal, 2 1/10, and by lakes less than a mill.

The traffic tonnage of the Detroit river is greater than that at any other point in the world. All the freight of the great lakes passes through this stream.

It is estimated that with proper canal facilities connecting navigable inland streams this country could save two-thirds of the money now spent for transportation.

The three turbines of the Lusitania contain nearly 3,000,000 blades. These blades are secured by the rotor, and the power is generated by the jets of steam striking them.

PROVERBS AND PHRASES.

Dead men do not bite.—Pitarch.

Force can never destroy right.—Berger.

Eat the present and break the dish.—Arabian.

It is wrong to sorrow without ceasing.—Homer.

Poor without debt is better than a Prince.—Turkish.

The pot boils best on your own hearth.—Danish.

"I'll sweet to play the fool in time and place.—Homer.

He is the most successful who borrows himself.—Seneca.

Do not make unjust gains; they are equal to a loss.—Hesiod.

The worse the passage the more welcome the port.—French.

It is proper to leave modesty rather than gold to children.—Plato.

A man's folly is his worst foe and his discretion his best friend.—Latin.

Great Men's Recreations.

Very many are the burdens of some of the high officers in Great Britain and leaders have been driven to curious methods to prevent breakdown. When Robert Lovelace was chancellor of the exchequer he laid down thirty feet of whopier and got himself a pair of roller skates. That was his method of mastering a liver and the fatigues of office. Earl Spencer, when in Ireland, during the darkest days of his office, found riding fast and far the one thing to relieve his spirits of gloom. Gladstone cut down the trees and translated the classics; Lord Randolph Churchill went racing.

The Boy Guessed Right.

They were getting a kindergarten lesson. The teacher taught them very simple subjects. She touched a table.

"What is this?"

"Wood."

"What is this?" she asked as she touched the fender.

"Iron."

"What is this?" indicating a bottle.

"Glass."

"What is this?" and she touched her watch chain.

"Brass," said one small boy, and she changed the subject.—Spokesman-Review.

The Jar of Coughing

Hammer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and tears the throat and lungs until the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the coughing, and heals the torn membranes.

"I always keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my house. It gives perfect relief whenever any of us have trouble of the throat. I have used it for a great many years and know all about it."—Mrs. Mary O'Brien, Vassar, N. Y.

Made by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufactured by SASSAPILLA, PILLS, BAR 1900.

Biliousness, constipation retard recovery. Cure these with Ayer's Pills.

Its Lasting Effect.

"Rising, did you ever convert anybody to your way of thinking by your street corner oratory?"

"I know of one, anyhow, and it made a changed man of him."

"What is he doing now?"

"He's in the insane asylum, Ruggles; in the insane asylum. A glimpse of the truth was too much for his modernized intellect."

Rocky.

Tenderfoot—I bear you have started up a new quartz mill. How are you doing with it?

Mine Owner—Gladly, thank you.

Opinion of a Connoisseur.

"Mr. Spoonham, don't you think a kiss 235 seconds in duration is a great deal too long to be agreeable?"

"Well, that depends entirely on the desirability of the kiss."

PILLS CURD IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

Trains.

"Why, Nettie," said her mother, "what in the world are you pounding your doll with your father's slipper for?"

"Because she refuses to obey me, mamma," replied the little miss. "I'm not going to have the neighbors saying that I spoiled the slipper and spoiled my child."

Those Dear Friends.

Nan—I could wear as small a shoe as you do if I wanted to.

Fan—Yes, dear—if you wanted to take chloroform.

Probable Outcome.

Chronic Kicker—What do you suppose would happen to your boasted feet if it should get into a red hot battle?

Phlegmatic Cities—O, I suppose we'd get kicked—same as we've always been.

Sprains.

"Any sudden twist or twist which may throw a member out of its normal position is likely to cause a sprain, which is really a sudden and more or less serious wrench or twist of a ligament or of the muscles controlling the ligaments. Use hot water for bathing the sprain; dry the surface and apply St. Jacobs Oil as for soreness and stiffness."

THE JAM OF NAWANAGAR

THE JAM OF NAWANAGAR.

Oriental Potentate Who Stopped from a Wicket to a Throne. To see gorgeous display and ceremonial rite at their best one must visit the Orient, where showiness makes particular appeal to the western temperament. There traditions are held in an esteem scarcely portance attached to them. To depart in any particular this epochal attention to minutest details and traditions was seen in the recent installation of the new Jam, ruler of Nawanagar, Prince Ranjitsinhji. The Jam is not a very powerful monarch when the resources of his miniature kingdom are considered, but he is rich in golden thrones and the other rich appendages of royalty.

Prior to the installation the Jam, according to ancient custom, participated in a religious rite. Dressed in a red robe, which was burned immediately afterward, he held a cocoanut in his hand during the reading of the shastras, or sacred book of the Hindoos. What would happen if the red robe were not burned, or if he held an orange instead of a cocoanut in his hands, the western mind cannot fathom, but very likely the gods would be offended and disasters would come to him and his people. The Jam drove in a silver carriage, surrounded by a bright retinue, from his palace to the palace of installation, passing under a unique arch, fashioned after two elephants with trunks extended upward and joined. The throne upon which he sat should have made him proud of his hereditary privilege as a ruler. It was of solid gold, with a canopy of gold embroidery and with gold embroidered carpet covering a generous expanse of floor. Here with his courtiers around him, the Jam was officially invested with the right to use or abuse his people at will, after which he returned in state to his palace.

The new Jam is a young man of liberal education, which he acquired at Trinity College, England. While in England he became an expert cricketer and for four years was the champion batsman of the country. Much of his time is still devoted to the game which he has introduced into his kingdom.

WOMEN AS FARMERS.

Success of Some Who Have Taken Claims in the Northwest. In the great Canadian northwest, where the earliest wilderness was withering with golden grain and a few women are springing up overnight, not a few women have gone to seek their fortunes abroad, says the New York Tribune. A homestead grant of 160 acres is free and any "head of a family," man or woman, may secure it upon application to the Canadian government. Usually, of course, the applicant is a man, but occasionally a woman essays to make her fortune on the prairie without masculine aid.

Miss Marie Gilroy of Saskatchewan is one of the most famous women settlers of the West. She put her last shilling into a prairie farm and spent seven years in a hand-to-hand tussle with fortune, sitting on her own binder, cutting her own grain, handling the plow in the furrow and doing stable duty. In 1906 her holding excited the admiration of a young Englishman and Miss Gilroy was induced to hand over lock, stock and barrel to him for the round sum of $15,000. To-day Miss Gilroy is touring Europe on the proceeds of her original $2,000.

Mrs. McGilvray, who came to the Canadian West twenty years ago with six small children, is another prominent woman farmer of Saskatchewan. Beginning almost penniless, her 190 acres of homestead have now grown to an 800-acre estate, and her children are settled around her in comfort and affluence.

Salome Wortman came with her husband and little family from Russia and soon she, too, was a widow. She still kept on "trying to earn bread," as she says, and sixteen years after her absolutely penniless start she stands as one of the successful land owners of Saskatchewan.

Mrs. Ferris is known as the "woman farmer" of the Portage plains. Left with a family of young children, she has managed her farm most successfully since the death of her husband. She comes from Belfast, Ireland, and when she arrived in Western Canada with her husband thirty-two years ago they had no capital at all. She now has an estate of 700 acres and her two sons are settled near at hand, each the owner of a section and a half of land—about 500 acres.

Mrs. Grant has a beautiful farm on the banks of the Canadian Killarney, in Southern Manitoba. Three years ago she went there from Scotland with her son, a young man just out of college, and her daughter. A year ago, just as they were preparing for spring seeding, the son was stricken down with appendicitis, and in twenty-four hours was dead. Filled with hatred for the place, she decided to leave it, but the morning after her daughter called to her, "Mother, come here quick!" She looked and saw that men, teams and plows quietly and without a word of explanation were beginning work on the farm. The neighbors had decided to put in the season's crop for the two bereaved women. They actually plowed, harrowed, seeded and reaped the entire crop. After that Mrs. Grant talked no more of going "home." Her farm by the shores of the Canadian Killarney was home to her.

Many women teachers, too, are found on the Canadian prairies, but they never remain long in the schools, though they do not leave the prairies.

A Man of Mystery.

There is an unforgettable story of a gallant deed in a recent volume, "Sir Thomas Lawrence's Letter Bag." There was a supreme moment during the Battle of Waterloo when the Duke of Wellington was left absolutely alone, every aide-de-camp having gone his way, each with his message. At this moment a stranger rode up to the duke. "Can I be of any use, sir?" he asked. The duke looked at him an instant, then unhesitatingly answered: "Yes, take this pencil note to the commanding officer," pointing to a regiment in the thick of the battle.

The stranger took the note and galloped away with it. He delivered it, but what happened to him no man knows.

The duke always declared that to be one of the most gallant deeds that had ever come under his notice. It was done without prospect of acknowledgment or reward, and neither attended its accomplishment.

Old Time Floggings.

An act of the line of Queen Elizabeth ordained that vagrants were to be "stripped from the middle upward and whipped till the body is bloody." Four-pence each was the recognized charge made by the "whipman" for every male and female vagrant who passed through his hands, but on special occasions this sum was exceeded. Says the constable's account of Great Staughton, Huntingdonshire: "May, 1601.—Paid in charges taking up a distracted woman, watching her and whipping her next day, 8 shillings 6 pence." After whipping people according to the statute the authorities sometimes gave them a letter recommending constables and others "to be as charitable as the law permits."

The Mind's Eye.

It will probably be news to most people to hear that rudimentary traces of a third eye exist among all vertebrates, including man. In the human race the third eye forms part of the pineal gland, a small mass about the size of a pea in almost the very center of the brain. Possibly, therefore, there was more actual truth in the well-known expression, "the mind's eye," than its originator dreamed of.

SECRETS OF SAVAGES.

Some Things That Bunk the Ingenuity of Civilized Man.

The head was no bigger than an orange, the black, bearded head, perfectly preserved, of a man of forty or so.

"The Dyaks alone," said the ethnologist, "have the secret of taking an adult human head and reducing it to this, to less than half its size. Their houses are ornamented profusely with these reduced heads of enemies slain in battle. No one knows how the reduction is accomplished. It is a marvelous secret that the Dyaks refuse to give up."

"Savages, degraded as they are beside us, possess a number of marvelous and unfathomable secrets. One is the making of fire by the rubbing of dry twigs. Only a savage can do that."

"Another is the construction of fishskin suits. The natives of the Siberian coast make suits of fishskin that are softer, finer and far more waterproof than any fabric known to us. What could be so waterproof as fishskin?"

"A third is the secret of arrested life. There are aborigines in India who can die temporarily, can be buried a week or more and on being dug up come to life again."

"The best blankets, the best baskets, the best knives and the best dyes are all made by savages."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Hunt Dr. Douglas.

Dr. Douglas, of Keokuk, who was made an honorary member of the Aberdeen Society in 1795, had a reputation for bluntness. A talkative woman went to him one day and said to him: "Doctor, what is the matter with my tongue?" "Just needs a rest," he replied, shortly. On another day a patient went to him and complained: "I have a deal to suffer with my eyes, doctor," whereupon he answered: "Better suffer with them than without."

Jaundice. "I had a severe case of jaundice and Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me. A friend advised taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and when I had taken three bottles was up and on my feet."—JOSEPH LEWIS, 15 Alpin Street, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold everywhere. In the usual liquid, or in tablet form called Sarsaparilla, 100 Doses One Dollar. Prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

Masculine Brutality.

Mrs. Jenner Lee Oudon had been compelled to abandon a contemplated trip up the Nile, in consequence of the financial stringency, and was weeping softly.

"Crocodile tears," commented her unfeeling husband.

The French government has adopted a method of treating marmoset roads with hot coal tar thinned with about 10 per cent of oil. The cost is said to work out at about eight-tenths of a cent a square yard.

Korea is probably more responsive to missionary effort than any oriental country. A Methodist missionary writes: "It is my honest conviction that had we the proper missionary force Korea would be a Christian nation in five or ten years."

Red seems to be the most popular of national colors, if flags may be used as criterion. Of the twenty-five leading national flags nineteen have red in them. No other color is so much used.

Experiments made by German scientists show that butter keeps best when preserved with from 3 to 5 per cent of salt. If the proportion of salt is higher than that the results are less satisfactory.

What It Is For.

Wife—Must you go to the club tonight, dear?

Husband—If isn't absolutely necessary, but I need the rest.—Life.

Necessity for Action.

Nan—I was astonished to learn that Eli Billwink had gone and married that Spriggins boy. Why, she's a good ten years older than he is.

Fan—I know it, but it had narrowed down to a choice between him and his father, and she had to decide quick.
