McKinley Northrop, the 12-year-old son of John N. Northrop, who lives between Banks and Mountindale, died last Tuesday night of spinal meningitis.

W. H. Jenkins, the genial traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific and allied lines in Oregon, was in Hillsboro Tuesday looking to the interests of his company and was a pleasant caller at this office.

Lost—About a week ago, between Main and Washington streets, on First, a lady's silk umbrella with the name Stillwell painted on the inside. Anyone leaving it at the M. E. parsonage will confer a favor.

Subject for discussion at the Christian church Sunday evening is "Pardon, How Obtained," followed by baptism. Sunday school at 10 o'clock, communion service at 11.

W. S. Turner, a well-known engineer of New York, is now in Portland, having been sent there to take charge of the construction of the Hillsboro branch of the Oregon Electric Railway. It is said work will begin on that line at once and be pushed to Hillsboro as rapidly as possible.

Mrs. Imogene Bath is today moving her stock of Millinery and Ladies' Furnishing goods into the Dr. Linklater building, across from the court house. She hopes to be in readiness to exhibit goods by Saturday. Watch for her Millinery opening, which will occur soon.

J. W. Bailey throws his castor in the ring this week for the nomination of county clerk. This will make a three-cornered fight between E. J. Godman, W. D. Smith and J. W. Bailey. "To wear the spurs you must win them," so we say, "go to it," gentlemen.

Ladies wishing up-to-date millinery should remember that Mrs. Bath has moved into the Linklater building, directly east of the court house. Her stock will be larger and better than ever before. See these columns for her announcement next week.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell and daughter of Moose Jaw, Canada, who have been visiting I. J. Campbell and family, left Wednesday for Seattle, where they will visit on their way home. They left Canada November 24, and have spent the time in Colorado and Oregon.

Jesse O. Crandall and Miss Ruth E. Bradley were married at the home of the bride's parents near Newton last Monday. Rev. L. F. Belknap officiating. The groom is a son of Judge Crandall and both he and his bride are well known here and have many friends. They left on the evening train for Billings, Mont., where they will make their home.

Neither dissatisfaction nor disappointment are to be seen on the faces of the audiences which greet "No Mother to Guide Her," that truly delightful play by Lillian Mortimer. The cast is headed by Jeanette Carew, a comedienne of pronounced ability and beauty, and her delineation of "Bunco" is said to give unusual satisfaction everywhere. The local management announces this charming play for the Crescent on Monday evening and advises every lady to attend this performance as they will be more than pleased with it.

"An altogether delightful play" is the universal sentiment of the immense audiences which have witnessed the international success "No Mother to Guide Her," which will be seen at the Crescent on Monday evening, March 16. The play has been an instant hit this season and the press of the surrounding towns is unanimous in its praise. It has been given a metropolitan production in every respect and no weak point is to be found either in cast, scenery or costumes. The latter has become a feature of the attraction and the gowns worn by the ladies, five in number, are said to be most beautiful. The piece is brim full of comedy and specialties.

Sarah A. Donelson, wife of A. W. Donelson of this city, died at the family home on Wednesday, after a brief illness, aged 69 years. The deceased was born in Ohio November 25, 1839 and was married to A. W. Donelson June 10, 1858. They moved to Iowa during the civil war, and resided for four years, then moved to Nebraska where they made their home for thirty-three years. Six years ago they came to Oregon and took up a residence near Newton station on a farm, and last October came to Hillsboro. To them were born six sons, all of whom are living. They, J. C. and H. E. Donelson of Nebraska, and W. O. O. O. and A. E. Donelson of Hillsboro, with the exception of H. E. Donelson, all were at the bedside of their mother when she died. The funeral was held from the M. E. church yesterday afternoon. Rev. L. F. Belknap preaching the sermon, and the burial was in Odd Fellows cemetery.

Notice.

All accounts delinquent six months or over, will be placed with Bagley & Hare, attorneys, after March 15, 1908.

Dr. J. P. Tamiesie.

Sudden Death.

Jep. Shipley, aged 74 years, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Hopkins, near Banks, died at the Commercial Hotel in this city very suddenly on Wednesday. He was at the dinner table eating when the landlord noticed that something was the matter with him, he having the appearance of choking. He went to his assistance, and with the help of Mr. Shipley's son, who was at the hotel with his father, took the old gentleman to the walk in front of the building. Here he sank to the ground and expired in less than five minutes. Dr. Tamiesie was summoned and pronounced it a case of apoplexy. The deceased had been in good health for a long time and his sudden taking away was a shock to all. He leaves six sons and two daughters, Grant, Charley, Newton and Doc, Mrs. Hopkins of Banks, a daughter living in Oklahoma, and two sons in Nebraska. The body was taken to Pennsylvania, his former home, for interment.

A short service was held over the remains at Patterson's undertaking rooms at 1 o'clock yesterday, Rev. L. F. Belknap giving a brief account of Mr. Shipley's long and useful life and speaking words of comfort to the bereaved relatives and friends, after which the remains were prepared for the long journey East.

When up town don't forget to step in and try the famous Hazelwood Ice Cream, also a stein of Hire's Root Beer at Palmateer's Confectionery.

L. J. Palmateer, Prop.

Mrs. Stanton Files Her Answer.

Blanche Stanton this week files in the circuit court her answer to the divorce proceedings filed against her last week by her husband Albert N. Stanton, in which she makes some serious charges against the defendant. Among other things, she says in her answer that she was induced to make and enter into the marriage ceremony which Stanton declares illegal, because of the six months not elapsing before her divorce and marriage to her present husband, and it was also upon his advice and assurance that such marriage would be legal if consummated in the state of Washington. Immediately upon her marriage she came to Hillsboro with him and since that time has resided on his farm near this city, and has performed manual labor in and about the premises, milking cows, driving team and doing other necessary work, until because of the fact that she is soon to become a mother, she is unable longer to do such work. She declares that she has not a cent in her possession to defend his suit for divorce, and that he has left her home and is now living in Portland, and has instructed the banks where they have been in the habit of depositing money, not to allow her to get one cent on her account; that one Carrie V. Fuller, she says, has come between husband and wife and that they have been living together. That on March 1, of the present year, he struck her on the arm with a pair of scissors, lacerating it, and that he cruelly struck her twice with a chair, breaking the same. He has, the answer says, frequently demanded that she submit to and undergo a criminal surgical operation, and that he has been unlawfully intimate with the said Carrie V. Fuller, and admits it. Being without funds, Mrs. Stanton has asked the court for $1,000 to enable her to defend the divorce suit entered against her by Stanton.

Judge McBride has issued an order that the defendant shall pay to E. J. Godman, clerk of the court, within ten days, the sum of $1,000, or for the defendant to show cause why he has not done so on the 18th day of March, 1908. E. B. Tongue is attorney for Mrs. Stanton.
