A great deal of time and labor have been spent by various chemists in investigating the composition and properties of Portland cement. The conclusions drawn from these investigations are not alway concordant, but no one dissents from the view that the some, old-time custom. In the beginessential ingredients of this kind of cement are lime, silica and alumina. Other elements are always present, however, among them being magnesia, soda, potash, iron. phosphorus, man-ganese, titanium, etc. According to Meade, good cements vary considerably in composition, but the three important ingredienst will run about as follows: Lime, 58 to 67 per cent; silica, 19 to 25 per cent; alumina, 5 to 10 per cent; and magnesia is allowable to the FORM.

extent of 3 to 5 per cent. The raw materials from which Portland cement is manufactured are classified as argillaceous and calcareous. Some common forms of the first are clay, shale, and slate, and of the latter limestone, marl and chalk. In these two classes of raw materials are found all the ingredients necessary in the manufacture of Portland cement. In "A match?" growled the fireman. The Evolution of The Household Remedies. The modern patent medicine business is the natural outgrowth of the eld-time household remedies.

In the early history of this country, EVERY FAMILY HAD ITS HOME-MADE MEDICINES. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics, were to be found in almost every house, compoundet ov the housewite, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor. Such remedies as picra, which was aloes and quassia, dissolved in apple brandy. Sometimes a hop tonic, made of whiskey, hops and bitter barks. A score or more of popular, home-made remedies were thus compounded, the formulae for which were passed along from house to house, sometimes written, sometimes verbally communicated. The patent medicine business is a natural outgrowth from this wholehing, some enterprising doctor, impressed by the usefulness of one of these home-made remedies, would take it up, improve it in many ways, manufacture it on a large scale, advertise it mainly through almanacs for the home, and thus it would become used over a large area.
