HIS PLURALITY LIKELY 1,000.

Entire Republican Ticket Carries in This County--Woman's Suffrage and Local Option Lost.

Last Monday was election day, a day that will long be remembered in Hillsboro and Washington county, for more reasons than one, for on that day the ballots brought many surprises, and it also records the first active work on the new electric railway, known as the Oregon Electric, running from Salem. At 7 o'clock in the morning fifty teams and a hundred or more men gathered on Washington street and soon dirt was flying in earnest, and when 6 o'clock in the evening came, ties and steel were laid to Second street and the roadbed opened and leveled to Fourth. From the eastern limits of the city a gang of men and teams were working west and were in sight of the down town crew at supper time. An immense crowd lined the right-of-way all day, eager to see the men and teams at work and very jubilant over the fact that the long-expected road had at last been commenced and was a certainty. The coming of this line marks a new era in the future prosperity of this city, and when in active operation it means that many new faces will be added to our population and hundreds of new homes go up which will house persons now living in Portland as well as those from abroad, who will be looking for homes near the metropolis.

And another thing which will mark this election day is the fact that at no time in the history of Washington county was there ever such an interest taken in the prohibition question. Men who two years ago would have felt insulted had you so much as suggested local option to them, were out and working hard for the measure. And the women, too, were at the polls early and remained until the last vote was cast, doing all they could to induce men to vote against the saloons, which in more cases than one in this city are casting a blight over their home life.

The ladies furnished free coffee to all who wished a "bracer" without the after effect, and very many men took advantage of their thoughtfulness and enjoyed the lunch immensely. And right here we wish to add that it is a good thing that the women folks use the fire department room of city hall, for otherwise dust, cobwebs and pure unadulterated dirt would have an everlasting abiding place.

All day long the ladies passed out cards on which were printed "We trust you to vote the saloons out for us," while the opposition handed out by the hundreds little pastboards bearing what they expected would cinch the whole thing, and read: "Do you want prohibition and blind pig whiskey? Or are you willing to protect the hop interests? If so, vote against prohibition. To vote against prohibition mark an X after No. 60." Our valiant city marshal showed his gallantry by ordering the women away from the polls, but it took courage for them to go to the polls and make the fight they did, and they refused to go, knowing well that there were plenty of men in the crowd who would not see them harmed. Just where the city marshal gets his authority to allow a lot of men to stand about the door of city hall and peddle tickets all day and refuse the same privilege to the ladies, and with much less noise, is a question he may be called upon to answer for when the next officer is named for this city.

But take it altogether the day passed without very much excitement and but two or three rows. Several persons exhibited a beautiful "jag," and one individual offered a lady who handed him a card, a drink from a bottle of whiskey he displayed for the benefit of the crowd. But as there was no more than he needed in his business, she refused. A wife-beater, only recently out of jail, told the ladies that they might better be at home rocking the cradle and attending to their own business," but this valuable advice did not phase them in their good work.

When 7 o'clock came and the polls closed, about everybody who cared to had deposited his ballot, and the largest vote ever polled in Hillsboro, or Washington county, was in the boxes, and the already tired judges and clerks took off their coats and went to work on the count which took all night.

The table, published on the fourth page, is as near correct as it is possible to get it at this time, but it will give the votes polled for the different candidates and will be found as near correct as it can be had at this time. The figure may be changed slightly, but not enough to materially affect the general result.

At the time of going to press on this side, the result shows the election of the entire republican county ticket, with the possible exception of J. W. Bailey. The unofficial returns give him a majority of 29. The balance of the ticket, all republicans, is as follows: Sheriff, Geo. Hancock, of Forest Grove; recorder, Willis Ireland; school superintendent, M. C. Case; treasurer, W. M. Jackson; surveyor, L. C. Walker; assessor, Max Crandall; coroner, E. C. Brown; county commissioner, John McClaran. The legislative ticket is Dr. W. D. Wood, senator; Dr. Hines, of Forest Grove; S. A. D. Meek, of Mountdale, and R. H. Greer, representative.

Local option failed in North Hillsboro, but carried in South Hillsboro.

Later election news will be found on another page.

CHINESE GUN PLAY

CLYDE WILSON SHOT.

Quong Lee, a Chinese Laundryman of Forest Grove, Shoots Young Wilson--The Latter, Blamed.

Clyde Wilson, a young man of Forest Grove, was shot in the neck at 11:30 Saturday night by Quong Lee, proprietor of a laundry. Stories of the affair differ. Wilson says that he and a companion with some bottles of beer went to the laundry to drink and eat a lunch. Just as he was about to open the door he says the Chinaman fired at him from the inside.

According to the Chinaman, Wilson hurled a stone at the door of the laundry and otherwise made himself obnoxious, and the shot was fired in self-defense. Quong Lee has been molested at different times by boys of the town and he was prepared this time to defend himself with a gun. Several young men have been haled before the police judge for annoying the celestial. Wilson is 30 years old, lives with his widowed mother, his father having died but recently. He is employed in a local livery stable. His wound, while serious, is not considered fatal. The bullet made an ugly wound in the neck and lodged beneath the collar bone.

The weather, excepting Wednesday, which was clear and warm, the weather during the week was cloudy and unseasonably cool, being in this respect a continuation of the prevailing weather during the previous week. Frequent light showers fell over the western counties, but east of the mountains the rainfall was light and scattered. Light frosts occurred in eastern and southern Oregon on Wednesday morning.

Memorial Day.

Memorial Day passed in a very quiet manner in Hillsboro last Saturday, almost every place of business being closed from 12 o'clock until 6. At 10 o'clock the old soldiers gathered on Main street and with members of the Woman's Relief Corps, wended their way to the "silent city of the dead," where, as has been the custom for many years, flowers were scattered over the resting place of the "boys" who are sleeping there. Many school children and quite a number of citizens accompanied the procession of faithful mourners and roses and other flowers were in great abundance.

In the afternoon Decoration Day exercises were held in Crescent Theatre, the large building being filled to the doors, with many persons standing. The program was a splendid one and as rendered was certainly a credit to the management and all who took part. Attorney H. T. Bagley delivered the address, which was one of the best memorial speeches ever delivered in this county. We would be glad to present it to our readers, but election returns have crowded our columns to the limit, and that along with quite a large amount of other news of interest in this vicinity has been crowded out.

Prohibition evidently would not be out of place in Hood River. According to the News-Letter, people have been seeing snakes, or thought they did, in the city water works system. Housewives were in a state of terror, expecting a wriggling reptile every time a faucet was turned on, and the city of big apples might have become dry indeed had not prompt investigation proved the rumors unfounded.

The Woodburn Independent claims the world's record for a Marion county hen. It unblushingly tells of an egg, the product of a brown leghorn, which reached that office, measuring 7x8 3-4 inches and weighing 6 1-2 ounces. Inside the first was a second egg, shell and all, and the hen died.

Probate Court.

Estate of Fred Sommers, deceased; final account filed and Wednesday, July 8, at 10 o'clock a. m., fixed as time for hearing objections to said final account and settlement.

NEWS FROM BEAVERTON

ELECTION DAY QUIET.

Quite a Grist of News From That Hustling Town--Will Soon Be Joined to Us by Electric Rail.

Election day passed very quietly in Beaverton. A good full vote was cast but no stormy street sessions were held. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. served a free dinner to voters.

A crowded house listened to the sermon of Rev. Snyder, of the Congregational church, to the graduating class of the public school last Sunday night.

A great number of the people of this place went to the cemeteries both at Raleigh and Progress on Decoration Day to honor the dead.

Rev. A. N. Hamlin of the M. E. church preached the Memorial Day sermon to the G. A. R. on last Sunday morning.

J. S. Clement and family are seeking rest and recreation in the strawberry fields at Hood River.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cady, of Aberdeen, Wash., are attending the Rose Fiesta in Portland and visiting relatives in this place.

Jos. Reif, has completed the new residence northeast of town and moved into on the 1st inst.

H. G. Vincent, one of the local base ball fans, attended the ball game in Portland last Friday, just to see how the Beaverton boys compared with the professionals.

Mrs. Church, formerly of this city, but lately of Portland, has been visiting friends in this place for the past week.

Jac. Huber, living about two miles west of Beaverton, had quite a serious runaway last Saturday occasioned by his horses becoming frightened at an automobile. At the present writing Mr. Huber is still confined to his bed.

Olds & Livengood, the liverymen, have regained possession of the horse and buggy which was stolen from them on the 19th of May. They found the horse in possession of a liveryman at Vancouver, Wash., where he was held on the 20th by the man who hired him from the home stable.

GOOD BYE.

With this issue the undersigned lays down his work as publisher and editor of The Hillsboro Independent. Four years ago last March we purchased the plant, at that time a broken down, dilapidated affair, and by hard work and a close application to business have made it one of the best paying papers, and the best equipped office in this section. Whether we have published a clean, readable paper, our readers are left to pass the verdict. At least, we did the best we could, and have no apologies to offer.

On Tuesday last we sold this office, subscription list and good will to S. C. Killen, for four years at the head of the mechanical department of the Portland Journal, an old newspaper publisher, and we are proud to say, a republican of the true blue variety. He comes to this city an entire stranger and will soon move his family here and become one of the energetic workers for Hillsboro and its future prosperity. We bespeak for him and his the kindly welcome the people of this city always extends to strangers, for they will prove worthy residents and a very desirable increase to our fast increasing population.

Laying down our newspaper work does not mean that we are to remain idle. We have earned a rest, and perhaps our readers feel the same way. At any rate we intend to devote considerable time out of doors and latter go into business which will be less confining than office work.

All accounts due this office for advertising and job work will be paid to us and all debts of the Independent up to June 1 will be paid by us. The subscription list is the property of the new management. Subscribers who have paid in advance will continue to receive the paper, and those owing on subscription can pay Mr. Killen or at the office.

We wish to thank our friends and patrons for their generous support and the many favors shown us during our four years' labors here and assure them it is appreciated. We hope the same courteous treatment will be extended to our successor.

It is not our intention to leave Hillsboro. Our home is here, our best interests are here, and we know of no better town in the whole state of Oregon to live in, and here we shall remain. In saying "good bye" it refers only to our work in the newspaper field and office work.

For good millinery, see Mrs. Bath. Linklater building.

BREWER-ENOCHS.

Popular Hillsboro Girl a Bride in California.

From Wheatland, Cal., comes the news of the recent marriage of Miss Lorena Enochs, well known in Hillsboro. Miss Enochs left this city about one and one-half years ago, but her parents still reside at Reedville. The Wheatland Four Corners of May 22 has the following to say of the marriage:

A wedding was solemnized in Sacramento yesterday at high noon which is of unusual interest to the readers of the Four Corners on account of the popularity of the happy young couple. The groom is no other than Thomas H. Brewer and the pretty bride Miss Lorena Enochs, both prominent in social circles and favorites with all their companions. Rev. W. F. Coffin was the officiating clergyman.

The wedding of this young couple unites two of the best-known families of Wheatland. The groom is a son of Mrs. E. V. Brewer, and was born and raised in this community. He is a young man of exemplary character and at present a trusted employe at the Bear river dredger. Miss Enochs, his bride, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Enochs, of Reedville, Ore. She was born in Nebraska, but moved to Oregon at an early age where she until recently resided. Miss Enochs spent the past two winters in Wheatland and it was here the courtship started which has ended so happily. She is a handsome and accomplished young woman of charming personality and during her brief residence here has endeared herself to all her acquaintances.

If the happy young couple have arranged plans for their future they have not divulged them but after a short honeymoon they will return to Wheatland.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewer are starting in their married life with every indication that it will prove a happy one. They have the best wishes of a large number of friends and The Four Corners joins heartily in the congratulations. May their lives ever be as bright and happy as they are now.
