

Hillsboro Independent.

By S. C. KILLEN

BY WAY OF INTRODUCTION.

On June 1 the control of THE INDEPENDENT passed to the undersigned, D. W. Bath severing all connection with the paper...

While in no sense is a newspaper any other an object of charity than any other manufacturing or mercantile enterprise, it is a public institution to the extent that towns and cities are judged largely by the character of their newspapers.

All things being equal and the conduct of the local paper in competent hands, a newspaper is usually what the people make it. With reasonable support—not on the theory of charity, but on the principle of a dollar's worth received for every dollar paid—the newspaper may become a powerful agent for good in a community.

THE INDEPENDENT will have opinions and will not hesitate to express them. All men and newspapers worthy the name hold opinions—if we all thought alike there would be a dull old world. But there is a vast difference between a dignified expression of dissent and a fierce assault on an opponent whose ideas do not coincide with your own.

THE INDEPENDENT believes the field of the weekly newspaper of its character is largely local. Rapid transit and rural routes have brought the large dailies to every one's door while the news is fresh. But while the daily is taken for the news of the world, one must rely on the local weekly for the news nearest one's heart—the doings of our neighbors, the hundred and one little happenings which concern us because they deal with people and things we know.

It will be our aim to cover this field, and to successfully do so we ask the cooperation of our friends. If you are interested in having your home paper contain all the news of the week, remember newspapers are not news until it is told, and the office is easily reached by telephone.

While the new editor hopes that his duties will make him a busy man, he will never be too busy to meet all old friends of the paper, and, he hopes, many new ones as well. The office latch-string will always be out. Come and see us and get acquainted. If you have business, well and good; if not, come anyway and you will be welcomed. S. C. KILLEN.

WHERE WE STAND.

When the news of the change in the management of THE INDEPENDENT was first given out rumors were industriously circulated that the paper had been bought to represent certain interests. The new owner comes to Hillsboro absolutely free of any entangling alliance, with the sole idea of working for the best interests of the community and the making of a greater Hillsboro. There are no strings on the paper and it will not be dominated by any faction or clique.

Rumors were also circulated that the political complexion of the paper would be changed. So far as the new editor is able to ascertain THE INDEPENDENT has always been a Republican paper. It will remain so. The name Republican has had many meanings in Oregon of late years. Some have wandered from the fold after strange gods and kind of themselves this kind of Republicanism and that. It is professed to discuss the strike that has divided the party. Let the dead bury the dead.

THE INDEPENDENT believes in the principles of Republicanism. It believes the election of the Republican candidate for the presidency of the November election vital to the interests of the whole country, and that the choice of Bryan would be calamitous. The unparalleled prosperity of the whole country received a temporary set-back in the financial flurry of last winter, but a rapid recovery is in progress. Democratic success in the November elections, with prospective new administration policies cannot but engender a feeling of uncertainty which will retard this recovery, if it does nothing worse.

The election of Chamberlain in last week's vote places Oregon in the list of doubtful states. The normal Republican presidential majority, from being a certainty has become a conjecture. If a Democrat can secure the vote for Senator that Chamberlain did, there is the same danger that a Democratic presidential candidate may be equally fortunate. The duty of Republicans is plain. The possibility of such a proceeding must be eliminated, and this means hard and united work between now and the fall election.

A Fargo, N. D. paper refers to Editor Foy of the Ranier Review as a printer-editor preacher. The versatility of the country editor is proverbial, but a range of intellect to entitle one to the hyphenated title is rare. The combination of printer-editor is not uncommon, but ability to conduct a congregation along the straight and narrow way is not usually an asset of the lowly pen pusher.

THE news of the assignment of Bishop Charles W. Smith to the Pacific northwest will be received with pleasure by Oregon Methodists. The bishop is regarded as one of the intellectual giants of the church, and will prove a worthy successor to Bishop Moore, who goes to Cincinnati.

THE Oregon City Courier tells of an Indiana man who, notwithstanding the increased cost of living, managed to live a double life on $16 per week.

$150 for Best Article. The republican editorial committee offers $150 for the best article not exceeding 1,000 words on the subject "Why the Republican Party Should be Successful Next November." The competition is open to all.

In judging the merits of contributions consideration will be given not only to style, arguments and facts presented, but to the convincing power, and it should be born in mind that members of congress are to be elected as well as president and vice-president.

No manuscripts will be returned, but will be the property of the committee.

The best article will be widely used both in the newspapers of the country and in pamphlet form. The award will be made and check sent to successful contestant about August 15th. Manuscripts must be mailed not later than July 15th to Literary Bureau, Metropolitan Bank Building, Washington, D. C.

Students Rejoice.

As soon as it was known that the university appropriation bill had been carried over the referendum, the entire university enrollment proceeded to have a jubilee parade on Wednesday evening. The procession strung out for a mile, beating tin pans, crockett saws, and anything that would make a noise. The boys sang college songs and painted the town red, as the saying is.—Salem Capital-Journal.

A "Washing" Mission.

The visiting housekeeper recently described in the New York Sun must be a stout armed angel or she would never have lived to write the entry in her daybook quoted below: "Washed the sick woman in bed, washed and dressed four children, did the washing, scrubbed two floors, washed the dishes, washed the windows."

A discriminating glance at this entry will disclose the fact that she washed about everything in the house. How the head of the family escaped the wash rag is not stated. Perhaps there was no head.

Hint Not Taken. "From the grammatical standpoint," said the fair maid with the lofty forehead, "which do you consider correct, 'I had rather go home' or 'I would rather go home?'" "Neither," promptly responded the young man. "I'd much rather stay here."

Always keep a bottle of I. W. Harper whiskey in sight. Good to look at and good to taste; and what's more a benefit to your health. Sold by F. E. Cornelius.

Do You Remember?

And the other fishing days when you got up before dawn and stole down stairs to the dim kitchen—a drink of milk, a doughnut and a triangle of pie, then you strolled out quietly to the lawn and got the spinning fork; then the search, armed with fork and tomato can, under the broad leaves of the rhubarb bed, back of the henhouse and down by the cow barn until you had found enough worms for the day's sport.

Suction. People often speak of chimneys "drawing." We also speak of the suction of a pump. There is not so much harm in these expressions, except that they are liable to lead us away from the true state of affairs. But in truth there is no such thing as suction. Suction is merely partial or entire absence of pressure in one place which enables the greater pressure of air or fluid in another place to rush in. In the case of the chimney the heated air in it does not weigh so much as an equal volume of cold air, and if the air in the chimney, the air in the room and the outside air were all the same temperature there would be no tendency to any motion. But when the air in the chimney is hot it does not press downward so much as the colder surrounding air presses upward. Consequently an upward current is started and will continue if the air in the chimney is kept hot.—A. S. Ackerman in London Express.

Changed the Name.

He had given up town life, with its cares and dissipation, and was living in the country. "What a charming cottage!" exclaimed a dainty lady visitor from London. "What have you called it?" "I have called it 'The Nutshell,'" he told her, and she exclaimed: "Oh, how delightful!"

A Surprise Coming. A horse was standing along Chestnut street the other day anchored by an iron weight. The horse, not knowing what else to do to pass away the time, was industriously chewing the strap. A newsboy happened along, and after watching the animal for awhile he grinned a cluster of grins and turned to a man who was standing near. "Don't say 'Old Empire' here, please," remarked the man. "Old Empire here is going to have the surprise of his life in a few minutes!"

Smugglers' Philanthropy. At Broadmoor and Perth, England, the criminal lunatics have a free supply of the most exquisite pipe tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. In fact, they smoke far finer stuff than the average rich man. Yet all this good tobacco costs the government nothing. The smugglers of England pay for the smoking of the criminal insane. It is from her confiscated smuggled tobacco that England fills the tobacco boxes of Perth and Broadmoor.

Not Her Abode. "My income is small," said a rather dilatory lover, "and perhaps it is cruel of me to take you from your father's roof." "But I don't live on the roof," was the prompt reply.

According to Chinese law, a wife who is not talkative may be divorced.

Quarrelsome Greeks Discharged.

Strife which has raged during the week among the Greeks of the construction gang of the electric railroad culminated Wednesday in the discharge of 19 of them. According to the foreman, they have been divided into factions and quarreled and fought over trifles until he lost patience and weeded out the disturbing element. The discharge will not interfere with the work, as laborers are plentiful.

Jury for July Court.

An order has been received from Judge McBride to draw a jury for the July term of court. While court sits in the July term as a court of equity, it was thought desirable at that time to take up the pending condemnation cases, hence the jury order. Court meets July 20, and the jury will be drawn 10 days prior to that date.

The city electrical department suffered damage to the amount of $200 in Monday's storm, transformers in all parts of the city being burned out by lightning.

Jacob Heltbrand, of Phillips, and John Whitten and Paul Landaur of West Union were visitors during the week.

Annual School Meeting.

The annual school meeting will be held at the school house next Monday, June 15. Every patriotic citizen should show by their presence that he or she is interested in the education of our boys and girls, the hope of the future. We are investing about $70,000 per year in the schools of Washington county. Are you getting the best results from the funds of your district. If not, interest yourself in your school and attend that you realize value received for every cent expended.

Moving Pictures. Moving picture cameras are remarkable pieces of mechanism. The films are only three-quarters of an inch wide. These are in rolls, sometimes 800 feet long. When taking pictures the camera man reels off these rolls just as rapidly as they are unrolled when thrown upon the canvas for the spectator, at a rate of ten or twelve films a second. Moving pictures are simply a number of views thrown upon a white sheet one after another so rapidly that the eye cannot detect the intervals.

The Weather.

During the fore part of the week cloudy and unseasonably cool weather prevailed over the entire section. On Saturday, however, the clouds began to disappear, the temper junes rapidly rose, and the week ended clear and abnormally warm except along the coast, where the prevalence of fogs prevented a rise in temperature. Local showers fell over the western portion of the section on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, and thunderstorms occurred over the eastern counties on Sunday. The accompanying rainfall was, however, very light. No frosts occurred.

To the Voters.

I wish to thank those who gave me their support in the recent election. I assure you that I am very grateful for the honor conferred and trust you may never have cause to regret your action.

Very respectfully, J. B. WILKERSON.
