THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1894.

France will coin 4,000,000 francs in silver for 1894, and 8,000,000 for 1895. There are no flies on France.

Don't promise to do anything before you know what it is. It might go against the grain and you would regret it.

Ex-President Harrison received $25,000 for an hour's speech in defense of the right of a Pittsburg corporation to the perpetual possession of the streets of his home city.

J. S. Carter the republican candidate for county school superintendent in Union county, who was defeated by Miss Nellie Stephens, populist, is contesting said election on the constitutional grounds that a woman cannot hold office.

Senator Hill of New York, proved to his constituents and his dominant party that he was a man of independent thought when the roll was called to vote on the tariff bill, he being the only democrat to vote against the measure.

The protracted struggle between organized labor and organized capital has about ended. Perhaps not as many had wished. Yet after all these efforts, with so much idle labor on the one hand and pinching poverty on the other there seems to be but one result; that work of the labor unions in a short time will end in a complete failure.

The laboring men of the country will realize that their last and only alternative is to band together and accomplish the coveted results by a legal process through the power of the ballot box.

The law providing for the return of the delinquent tax by the sheriff to the county should be changed from April 1 to July or August, or later.

Andrew D. White, United States minister to Russia, has resigned. Clifford R. Breckinridge, congressman from Arkansas, has been appointed to succeed him.

A remarkable case has come to the attention of the war department in the shape of the record of the court martial of private Charles O. Cedarquist, second infantry, stationed at Omaha.

The income tax, as now proposed shall be enacted, the president of the United States and the federal judges, with all others in official place, will have to pay the tax; and this will be fair enough.

If the income tax, as now proposed shall be enacted, the president of the United States and the federal judges, with all others in official place, will have to pay the tax; and this will be fair enough.

The postage stamps furnished the postoffice department under the new contract with the bureau of engraving and printing will not be ready for general circulation for two weeks.

It is just as impossible for labor to prosper without capital as for capital to prosper without labor.

The Portland papers have lied like troopers in regard to the strike in Ashland. Every reference is to a mob, a riot, destruction of property and the customary wild-eyed statements.

Have you noticed the latest editorials in the Telegram and Oregonian? Scott is getting in his work on both papers, if one could judge from similarity.—Stayton Times.

Our sympathies were with the A. R. U. because they were out for a grand and noble principle—to help their brothers—follow workers. But if any of them resorted to violence they should be treated accordingly.

AFTERMATH OF THE STRIKE

Business Rapidly Recovering from the Effects of the Railroad Troop.

Business men and farmers, as well as the general public, rejoice that the paralysis of business resulting from the great strike is about over and affairs are regaining their normal poise.

Nothing sensational has happened since last week. Strikers all over the country are returning to work as fast as they can, with the exception of those at Oakland and Sacramento.

The regular soldiers have left Chicago and the city is now under the usual police protection, with a limited number of state troops at a few points in the dangerous districts.

In California railway communication has been generally resumed. The train service from Oakland to Sacramento is not up to normal, but otherwise there is no difficulty in shipping or receiving merchandise.

A law and order league has been formed at Oakland to protect property from destruction during the railroad strike.

The federal grand jury for the ninth district of California, sitting at San Francisco, is making a thorough investigation of violations of the interstate and conspiracy laws by the men who went out on the railroad strike.

California fruit growers are rejoicing at the resumption of traffic. Green fruits are now being shipped in large quantities.

The Standard mill, at Suchonish, Wash., employing 100 men, burned recently. Loss, $20,000 insurance, $4,000.
