Scriptural Misquotations. "He who runs may read" sounds very Scriptural, but it is in reality a mangled version of the verse in the prophet Habakkuk, "Write the vision and make it plain upon the table that he may run that readeth it." Another Biblical misquotation is, "By the sweat of thy brow shalt thou earn thy bread," the real text in Genesis being, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." And when we pour "oil on the troubled waters" thousands search the Scriptures in vain for the metaphor.—London Chronicle

While the date for the wedding has not been officially announced, the president's friends understand that it will be before mid-December, shortly after congress reconvenes. Whether the couple will be able to make a honeymoon trip is not yet determined, because of the impossibility of knowing the demands of congress upon the executive's time. It is expected, however, that the president and his bride will take a brief voyage on the presidential yacht Mayflower to Hot Springs, Va., or some other southern resort.

RECORD OF "GREAT BUTCHER" BEATEN BY ENVER PASHA

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Oct. 7.—"It is Enver Pasha's boast that he killed more Armenians in 30 days than Abdul Hamid in 30 years. And the latter was known as the 'great butcher' and the 'red sultan.'"

This statement was made today by Miss Emily Wheeler, secretary of the National Armenian and Indian Relief association, an organization active in Armenia since 1895, based on information received from American physicians just back from Turkey. Miss Wheeler herself spent 16 years in Armenia and was there during the 1895 massacre.

"German officers are active in Armenian persecutions, according to my missionary friends," she declared. "Certain classes of Turks don't seem pleased with the outrages. The government is waging a campaign of extermination. This is evident from the slaughter and from the statement of the governor of Van that the government intended to kill every Armenian even the babies, to rid Turkey forever of the 'Armenian question.'"

"They have succeeded so well that in some places there is not even a sign of life. The entire Tiflis district has been leveled by fire and women have been scorched and scalded to death. Even orphans in our missions have been deported. In the Van district 57,000 Armenians were killed during August. Miss McLaren, an American attached to the Van Mission, has been missing since July, and she is probably dead. Sister Martha, a German, fled with fifty orphans from the Kurds in July and has not been heard from since.

"Of 270,000 who started for Russia, more than 100,000 died of the terrible typhus fever. Because 60,000 Armenians are in the Russian army and a handful are revolutionists, the government excuses itself for these wholesale persecutions."

DOMESTIC TROUBLES

PROMPTED SUICIDE

Hood River, Oct. 7.—To domestic trouble was attributed the suicide of Dr. E. E. Ferguson, 40 years old, formerly a prominent physician of The Dalles, who shot himself with a shotgun near here late yesterday.

Ferguson's wife is said to have left him and that divorce proceedings were imminent. Dr. Ferguson was occupying a rustic sleeping house built in the branches of a tall tree on his country estate when he fired the fatal shot. He had slept in this place since his home was destroyed by fire two weeks ago.

ZAPATISTA MARAUDERS

WRECK ENTIRE TRAIN

Washington, Oct. 7.—High up in the mountains that rise between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, Zapatista marauders have wrecked a train, sending, according to one report, the entire trainload to their death. Another report to the state department said 50 were killed and 60 injured, but that no foreigners were aboard.

The wreck was a part of the active Zapatista campaign to shut the capital off from the seaboard.

PRESIDENT TO WED.

served this and deplored that, while he shouldered the burdens of a nation passing through a critical period, he was denied the companionship of the intellectually and personally agreeable. His cabinet heads talked business; his other friends, for the most part, politics.

Then Mrs. Galt, a widow for the past eight years, with no children, came suddenly into his life and his intimates noted a change.

While the date for the wedding has not been officially announced, the president's friends understand that it will be before mid-December, shortly after congress reconvenes. Whether the couple will be able to make a honeymoon trip is not yet determined, because of the impossibility of knowing the demands of congress upon the executive's time. It is expected, however, that the president and his bride will take a brief voyage on the presidential yacht Mayflower to Hot Springs, Va., or some other southern resort.

Mrs. Galt, nee Edith Bolting, of Virginia, is the widow of Norman Galt, who was partner in a prominent jewelry firm here. She trades her relationship to the first families of Virginia.

The president met Mrs. Galt through his daughter, Miss Margaret Wilson, and his cousin, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, a member of the White House family for months past. For a month this summer Mrs. Galt was a guest of Miss Wilson and Miss Jones at the summer White House in Cornish, N. H., and there the relations between the chief executive and the fascinating widow ripened into an affection stronger than friendship. She is a strikingly handsome woman, of graceful, slightly plump figure, with brown hair and gray-blue eyes. Among Washington society folk she is known as a vivacious woman of keen intellectual mind, interested in outdoor sports and an interested follower of charities. As owner of the Galt jewelry firm since her husband's death, she has been rated as wealthy and in a position to give heavily to charitable objects.

On the president's recent golf trips she was a frequent guest and often played with him, Miss Bones and Dr. Cary Grayson, the president's personal physician. Her interest in books and music were akin to those of the president, and she has been a frequent guest at the executive mansion of late, where her vivacity tended to drive away the cares of the day under which the president labored.

Announcement of the engagement followed a small dinner party last night at the White House, on the eve of Secretary McAdoo's departure for the Pacific coast. Previously Washington had heard some rumors of an executive romance, but none of these stories ever received the slightest confirmation. Hence, official confirmation came as a distinct surprise to Washington society and the nation at large. Society here welcomed the announcement as presaging a new era of social activity in the White House. Ever since the Wilson administration began society events in Washington have been at comparatively low ebb because of the absence of White House leadership in the usual brilliant affairs.

The wedding will be extremely quiet, and will be in the Galt home in the fashionable Du Pont Circle section, probably early in December, the White House announced today. "I am very happy," was all Mrs. Galt would say today concerning the engagement announcement. "All else has been said at the White House," she explained.

Mrs. Galt's telephone tinkled all day with calls from friends voicing congratulations.

The wedding date, she said, had not been set, though the ceremony would be in her home during December. She has taken an interest in suffrage recently, but has never committed herself on the subject, maintaining that her "opinion is her own." Some saw significance, however, in the fact that the president made his announcement of a stand for suffrage and the engagement announcement on the same day.

MASON TELLS WHAT WAR MOVES MEAN

New York, Oct. 7.—London complaints that the allies have muddled the Balkan situation were emphasized today by the possibility that King Constantine will be able to organize a coalition ministry by utilizing some of the Venizelos cabinet and some of the opposition. If he succeeds in this move, the outcome will be serious for the allies.

The king has apparently decided that Greece shall not begin hostilities against the Teutons. At the same time, it is unlikely that Bulgaria will attack Greece, as such a move would be contrary to the Teutons' aims.

Then the allied landing at Saloniki would constitute a dangerous element. In fact, it is intimated that Paris and London are not in accord regarding this violation of Greece's neutrality. Furthermore, Greece may interfere with use of it as a base for the allied operations in behalf of Serbia.

While the allies would not fight Greece, their situation would be precarious if, after the troops had reached Serbia, Greece cut their lines of communication.

The allies pinned their faith on the deposed premier, Venizelos, and his support crumbled under the king's opposition. If he is reinstated, all perhaps will yet be well, but at present it appears that the allies placed too much confidence in Venizelos.

GERMAN SUBMARINE GETS ANOTHER STEAMER

London, Oct. 7.—The Dutch steamer Texelstroom has been sunk by a German submarine. Twenty survivors are reported to have been landed. This is the first vessel in days reported as victim of the Teuton undersea craft.

"A Shine in Every Drop"

COMPOSER NORTH WILL JOIN AVIATION CORPS

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—Charles North, Australia's most promising young composer and musical genius, came to San Francisco on the liner Marana on what may be his death journey. An unfinished masterpiece was in his traveling bag. Far behind was the call of art. For he is on his way to London to join the aviation corps. If he lives, he will finish the masterpiece and compose another that sounds the tragic note of war.

Knox Martin, 21 years old, adventurous young American from Baltimore, came to San Francisco on the same ship. Martin wore the white coat of a steward. He, too, is on a journey that may mean death. Martin served with Villa in Mexico, and then went to Australia in hopes of joining the British flying corps, but was unsuccessful. He now is on his way to the French front.
