Ladies' Coats and Suits

MONDAY ONLY

WE received today forty coats and suits direct from New York which were carefully selected by one of the Golden Rule resident buyers from the best manufacturers of ladies' garments. Our instructions were to send a few, but there are more than we intend keeping. However, they will all be on display tomorrow, Monday; after that date a part of them will be returned. These garments are notable for beauty of pattern, correctness of style, thoroughness of making and lowness of price. This season we have put extra thought and extra effort in the suit department—and results show. We want you to visit the department tomorrow if possible. You will appreciate the display by seeing the coats and suits for yourself. There are scores of splendid models, in new mixtures and plain colors in the best shades.

Second Large Shipment of Middies Just Received

Read the following pointers about Jack Tar middies:

Jack Tar middies are fast color—positively. All seams in Jack Tar middies are double needle sewed for strength. All the eyelets are thread worked—they won't rust. The lace tips are rust proof. Jack Tar middies are made to fit—shrinkage is calculated. They are made in a spotless, sanitary factory, by contented, spotless operators.

AUXILIARY PLANS ROSE FESTIVAL

The Ladies' Auxiliary, at its meeting held Saturday afternoon, made preliminary plans for the holding of the annual Rose Festival in the city. The date was not set, as that will have to be adjusted to meet the advance of the season, and will be when the roses are at their best. It was the sentiment of the members present, however, that the festival this year partake of the carnival spirit, and that the day be one of joy and good cheer. An advertising committee, composed of Mrs. A. H. Gunnell, Mrs. Dr. Stricker and Mrs. O. S. Blanchard, was named, and other committees will be named later. The revenues that may be derived from the various activities of the festival will be donated toward the maintenance and supply of the free public library.

MINERS OF WASHINGTON CELEBRATE 8-HOUR DAY

Wilkeson, Wash., April 1.—Commemorating the passing of the eight-hour law as it applies to mine workers, residents of the coal mining towns of Wilkeson, Carbonado and South Prairie are holding an all-day celebration here today. A parade, more than a mile in length, was held during the morning. Representatives from all the mines in Pierce county participated in the parade.

ASTORIA RATE CASE ORDER POSTPONED

Washington, April 1.—The interstate commerce commission today postponed, on recommendation of Commissioner Harlan, the order issued in the Astoria rate case. The order was to have been effective May 1.

Announcing the postponement, the commission said that the railroads involved had asked for a rehearing, but that their petition had been delayed.

Holding up of the order will continue rates, pending the rehearing of the petition.

Portland, April 1.—Postponement of the date the Astoria parity rates are to become effective is looked upon here as a victory for the railroads and a further rebuke to the contention Portland was supposed to be contemplating that because of its nearness to the Inland Empire of Washington it should be granted lower rates than Astoria and, consequently, than the competing Puget sound cities.

The railroads had filed an appeal for a rehearing of the case and the commission has deferred application of the rates recently ordered for May 1 pending decision on the rehearing. It is supposed here that when the case is reopened, if the rehearing is granted, the commission will insist upon a full hearing of all parties interested, either directly or indirectly, that the final decision may end the controversy.

DIVA'S HUSBAND SHIPPER OF ARMS

Tacoma, April 1.—Strengthening the evidence against Captain Hans Tauscher, husband of Madame Galski, under arrest in New York in connection with an alleged German plot to destroy the Welland canal, federal officials here today telegraphed agents of the department of justice that $250,000 worth of war munitions bearing Tauscher's name and trademark are stored in warehouses at Aberdeen, Wash.

The Aberdeen consignment consists of 4,000,000 rounds of ammunition and forty cases of rifles, which were seized by R. L. Sebastian, deputy collector of customs, when the schooner Annie Larsen put into Hoquiam in distress.

According to British consular officials here, Captain Tauscher had planned to ship these munitions either to Mexico or British India, the idea being to inaugurate a revolution which might ultimately involve the United States by reason of the munitions coming from this country.
