Hollow Land.

The Dutch people occupy a country which contains 12,630 square miles—little more than one-tenth of the size of Great Britain and Ireland, the population being just over 6,000,000. Holland is not only flat, it is hollow; hence its name, "Hollowland." Along the canals the meadows are ten or twelve feet, sometimes more, beneath the water line. By the sea, at high tide, there may be a difference in the level of the soil and of the ocean of quite twenty-five feet or more.—London Globe.

Asks Extension of Time

Manager Sanders of The Rogue River Public Service corporation has asked the city council for an extension of time for the completion of its agreement with the city whereby the franchise for an electric light and power line within the city was granted. Mr. Sanders wrote the council that the sugar factory proposition had taken so much of the energy and resources of his company during the past six months that the other projects had necessarily been slighted and further time would be required in meeting the conditions. A committee from the council will handle the matter.

Envelopes printed at the Courier office.

A Crawling Snake

In human form, a husband and his innocent wife, and the victim of a previous coup by the reptilian intriguer, are the principal characters

—in a gripping, tense, three-cornered struggle to save the unsuspecting wife,

—in the Paramount feature, "The Mummy and the Humming Bird,"

—at the STAR theater tonight.

—The powerful acting of Charles Cherry, Arthur Hoops, William Sorrelle and Miss Lillian Tucker held last night's audience breathless.

—Also tonight, the Bray-Paramount cartoon, "Inbad, the Sailor."

—Tonight's program also includes a refined, one-part comedy, by George Barr McCutcheon, "The Day of the Dog," with Edward Abeles.

Announcement

"Regeneration," a William Fox super-feature photoplay, featuring Rockliffe Fellowes, will be the STAR theater's program tomorrow, Saturday, night. This is a sterling attraction.

Put on Diamonds
