FEW RECRUITS FOR 3RD OREGON INFANTRY

Camp Withycombe, Clackamas, July 3.—Only 60 recruits had been secured today in the efforts of federal officers to enlist enough men to bring the Third Oregon infantry up to full war strength. Nearly 700 more men are needed.

Captain Kenneth Williams today appealed to postmasters and newspapers throughout the state in interesting young men in the national guard and the necessity of having a war strength regiment at the border.

where Ulysses Ruined.

Cephalonia, originally Cephalenia, was under the sway of Ulysses, who took his royal title, however, from the smaller island of Ithaca, which lies opposite and above it to the northeast, and under his leadership the Cephalonians went to the Trojan war. It is by far the more fertile of the two islands and has for centuries been noted for its wine and oil. Being divided into four districts, it was sometimes called Tetrapolis, while it sometimes borrowed the name of its chief city and was known as Same or Samos, being occasionally confounded (to the pain of the student, as some of us can recall) with the little island of the same name in the Aegean sea.

Mrs. Beaupre had recently been in the hospital, where she was operated upon, but she had recovered from the affects and had been at her home for a week convalescent. Shortly before noon today she went into the kitchen at her home when she was stricken with heart disease and she fell to the floor dead. The deceased was a woman about 55 years of age.

Dr. Bywater as an Orator— All of the Crescent City people speak most highly of the good work done by Dr. Ed Bywater, who conducted a number of meetings in support of the harbor bond issue. In an extended report of the Bywater meetings, the Crescent City Courier makes the following comment: "So effectively did he speak that nearly all who heard him followed him the next evening to Caltoft's place, where he addressed the people of the Fort Dick and Newberg districts. There, too, his speech was well rendered and received. Sunday afternoon he spoke to the people of Requa. On election day seventy-eight of the seventy-nine votes cast in that precinct were in favor of the bond issue. Monday night Ender's opera house was well filled to hear Dr. Bywater's address. All who heard him speak at any of the above meetings have nothing but the most flattering things to say of Dr. Ed Bywater as an able and convincing speaker and as a sincere friend to our project."

Mocha Closes for Fourth— The Mocha will remain closed all day the Fourth. 788

VISITORS EAT JOE KNOWLES DINNER

A party of Crescent City people arrived in Grants Pass Sunday afternoon, remaining here overnight, then going on to Ashland, where the Fourth will be spent. In the party were Geo. M. Keller, manager of the Hobbs-Wall Lumber company, and Mrs. Keller; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chapman and son, Kenneth; Mr. and Mrs. H. Caughill, Miss Mianje Walton, Miss Martha Childers, Miss Maud Keller, and Mrs. Sarah Patterson of Portland. Their coming having been heralded in advance of their arrival, Dr. Ed Bywater and W. B. Sherman, who had recently returned from Crescent City, where they gave their services in the interests of the harbor bond issue, headed the preparation of a novel feast on the banks of the Rogue, the occasion being in the nature of a return, for the many courtesies extended while in the coast city. In a nook in the grove just below the steel bridge, Mr. Sherman had prepared one of his justly famous "Joe Knowles' dinners," the nature portion of the stunt being in the fact that only nature's methods are used in preparing the meal. In a hole in the ground great juicy steaks and sides of Rogue river chitook were roasted beneath the coals, the meats being reinforced by vegetables of various kinds roasted in the same manner. One noteworthy vegetable was the sugar beet, which was pronounced fit for any banquet prepared a la Sherman. A feature of the affair that was of almost equal interest with the partaking of the viands was the watching of the uncovering of the savory meats from beneath the coals and sands, the edibles being wrapped in grape leaves.

Local people who were present to welcome the visitors and to partake of the feast beneath the trees were Judge and Mrs. Gillette, Dr. and Mrs. Bywater, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clevenger, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Allen, Miss Mills, Mrs. W. B. Harder, Marshall Hooper and W. B. Sherman.

CONGRESS TO ENLARGE PUBLIC BUILDINGS FUND

ALLIES AFTER VON KLUCK'S OLD ARMY

New York, July 3.—Capture of General von Kluck's old army of the Aisne is the immediate objective of the Anglo-French offensive. General von Kluck has gone into retirement, but von Kluck's corner at the southwestern curve of the western battle front remains one of the major defenses of the German holdings in France. To compel the evacuation of this area, under penalty of capture of von Kluck's veterans, is the reason why the allies have started their drive so near to the Aisne. Von Kluck's corner is the Verdun of the German western front, and the allies are trying to duplicate, on a larger scale, the German offensive strategy at Verdun. An advance of 20 miles at Saint Quentin will put the allies in a position to dominate the principal lines of communication on which the German southwestern Aisne army relies for its sustenance. How long it will take to reach Saint Quentin depends primarily on the British supply of artillery ammunition. The gains of the British and French since Saturday have been due to the intenseness of their artillery fire. The big guns of the allies have devastated the German first line trenches before the infantry began to move forward. The hand-to-hand fighting that followed was largely for the possession of craters blown into the earth by the allies' artillery. Now, however, the allies are unquestionably facing German entrenchments fully as strong as those captured during the past 48 hours. It will be necessary to renew the artillery attacks and when the second line of defenses is taken, a third and fourth will remain to be blasted away before the infantry can consolidate the gains. The British have been hoarding their ammunition for a year. In this fact must lie the hopes of the allies that the present drive will force the Germans to retire from the Aisne.

LANTERNS IN CHINA.

Of All Sizes, Shapes and Prices, They Are in Common Use. Particularly gay and attractive are the shops of the lantern vendors in the Chinese cities. All varieties of lanterns are to be seen—the large sliken ones three and four feet high, gorgeously painted with variegated colors, embroidered in gold and silver or decorated with deep fringe of the same material, costing from $100 to $200 and used by the wealthy mandarins and others, and common small horn and paper lanterns, used by the coolies, which cost one-sixteenth of a dollar. The mode of making horn lanterns is very ingenious; the horns are cut into remarkably thin slices which, by means of heat and pressure, are joined together and formed into various shapes; round, square, hexagon, octagon, and some shaped to resemble an hourglass. It is usual for servants, after sunset, to carry before their masters large lanterns made either of horn or highly varnished paper, with the name, title and dignities painted in large letters thereon. At the feast of lanterns, which takes place in the early part of the Chinese New Year, these lantern shop proprietors reap a rich harvest, as it is customary for parents to make presents of lanterns to their children, brother to sister, friend to friend, inferior to superior, and vice versa.

Harmony in the Leaves of a Tree.

One of the remarkable characteristics of a tree is the process of leafage, and if we examine the bough upon which the leaves grow the admiration of the scientific agriculturist will become thoroughly aroused over the perfect consistency and artistic skill manifested in the arrangement of each spray and the exact number of leaves arranged with the most exquisite art and regularity. Every group of leaves forms merely long lines, no two alike, no two in the same position, yet all so perfect and harmoniously blended that there can be no antagonism, no sameness and all those thousands and thousands of strange and delicate forms grouped together, neither confused nor ill arranged.
