THE CRUISE OF THE DEUTSCHLAND.

The exploit of the big under-sea freighter, Deutschland, which has arrived from Germany, is more spectacular than commercially valuable.

The arrival of the vessel marks an epoch in navigation, and is a remarkable development of the most recent idea in navigation.

The conning tower rises like the hump of a camel in the middle of the great boat's back.

Although the length of the Deutschland is impressive, she lies so low in the water that one does not appreciate her size until he has crossed her stern and noted her great width of beam.

The real description of the Deutschland, however, will not be written until after the war is over.

that England had claimed could not be pierced.

Not until hours after she arrived at quarantine did American officials take any action.

When the examination was complete, the U boat, now flanked by scows and tugs, continued on her way to the gun-protected wharf of her consignee, the Eastern Forwarding company.

Henry G. Hilken, senior member of A. Schumacker & Company, interested in the North German-Lloyd line and the forwarding concern, boarded her with his son, Paul G. Hilken, Swedish vice-consul and member of the North German-Lloyd agency.

Tears were in the eyes of the men as they embraced the stolid captain, Koenig.

"Ach, Gott, es ist schoen?" said the elder one of the dreamers who dreamed the Ocean Navigation Company, Limited, and its progeny, the under-sea cargo carrier.

They then went into secret session. They must consider what would be the reception and the procedure with this giant stranger in a strange harbor.

When should she return? They did not know—or, at least, they were not telling. Arrived in the middle branch of the Patapasco river, the Deutschland pulled alongside the pier of the Eastern Forwarding company.

Work of discharging the dyestuffs and other merchandise, amounting to from 500 to 1,000 tons, started early. Sturdy Germans, with close cropped von Hindenburg hair, went about their tasks joyfully.

Orders went out that no one was to board the submarine, though there was prospect that this order would be relaxed later.

Backers of the Deutschland frankly anticipate trouble temporarily with the United States officials, but they believe that by tomorrow matters will be straightened and the United States would decide to harbor the vessel as any peaceful merchantman.

great allied offensive the French have advanced on a front of 15 kilometers (about 10 miles) to a depth of from three to five miles, it was stated semi-officially today.

The greatest advance was made along the south bank of the Somme, where the capture of Blaches advanced the French front nearly six miles from its former position.

The war office today reported minor activities in several other places on the French front. In the Argonne a French reconnaissance cleaned up a German trench. North of Verdun the sectors of Chantancourt, Fleury and Lausee were under bombardment and strong German patrols were dispersed.

In the Vosges German detachments unsuccessfully attacked French positions at LaChappellotte five times during the night.

OFFICERS PROTECT OREGON BABIES

Portland, July 10.—Quarantine officers were placed at every railroad station in Oregon today under orders of the state board of health to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis to this state.

The temperature of every child under 15 years will be taken immediately upon arrival in any city. If any symptoms of the dreaded malady are observed, the child will be quarantined. Detailed instructions for detecting and preventing the disease have been sent broadcast by the state board of health.

Dr. H. N. Roberg, state health officer, is in Seattle today conferring with Dr. T. D. Tuttle, commissioner of health for Washington. Roberg hopes Washington will adopt the same measures.

Washington, July 10.—Public service health heads today decided to ask congress for a $100,000 appropriation and permission to draft physicians from civil life to end the paralysis epidemic raging in New York and other cities.

Surgeon-General Blue and heads of divisions of the service met this morning to take this and other steps to eradicate the dread disease. Congress will be asked to make the appropriation available immediately. The service now has only $15,000 to fight contagious diseases.

ranzistas were repulsed. The possibility that former bandits of the Carranzista column went over to the Villistas was also suggested.

Except for artillery, the Villistas active in southern Chihuahua are reported to be as well equipped to fight as the troops of the de facto government. The rebels are said to have many machine guns which Villa had hidden in the mountains before the collapse of his former rebellion.

Changed Meaning.

One of the best examples of how to end letters incorrectly is that of a soldier who wrote home to his wife the following sentence without a single stop or comma.

"May heaven cherish and keep you from yours affectionately John Don"

Difference of Opinion.

"I have nothing to live for," said Sloway at table. "Well, you'll find out soon that you can't live here for nothing," snapped his landlady.—Philadelphia Ledger
