MEDFORD SPIRIT AGAIN CROPS OUT

With a sportsmanship that would do credit to a four-year-old and an outburst of genuine Medford spirit, Captain "Shorty" Miles of the Medford ball team yesterday refused to proceed with the game when a decision had been made against his club. The play in question was in the first of the fourth, when a Medford batter knocked a three-base hit but failed to touch first base and was put out. The game would probably have been resumed but for the "crabbing" of Miles, who has a major asset in his lung power and who had been caught asleep off first by Pernoll a few minutes before.

The first three innings of the game were played in big league style, both teams playing fine ball. The outs were made in quick succession and no runs were scored until the third, when, after a single and two sacrifices had placed a man on third, Weckler laid on the ball for two bases, bringing in the first run. In the first of the fourth, Pernoll, with one out, managed to catch Miles on first. A player then got to second and when the next batter came up and was put out for failing to touch first, the Medford team showed the yellow streak and marched off the field. It was unfortunate that the incident occurred, for even the Medford umpire acknowledged that the decision was fair and that the Medford player "might have touched the bag if he stuck his foot out far enough." Twohy Riggs, base umpire, was on the spot when the play occurred, but evidently the Medford players had had enough of Pernoll. Umpire Miller, of Medford, awarded the game to Grants Pass by a score of 9 to 0, which is in accordance with the rules.

It was reported today that "Curly" Wilson and several other Medford players, disgusted with Captain Miles' action, have turned in their uniforms and quit the Medford team as long as Miles has anything to do with its management or direction.

He stuck to the Show.
"Did you follow the plot of the musical comedy?"
"No. I stayed in my seat and watched the performance. The plot left the theater right after it was introduced."

VILLA DIRECTS MEXICAN REBELS

Columbus, N. M., July 10.—A possibly delicate situation for the United States expedition in Mexico may result from the renewed Villista activity in southern Chihuahua, according to army officers today. This and the discovery of a quantity of dynamite in the Mexican quarter of Columbus were generally discussed in the base camp. After a week's search, started on a tip by a Mexican member of the state militia, secret service men dug up the dynamite during the night. Three Mexicans were arrested. The hiding place of the dynamite was thrice changed as the search became hot, investigation developed. The three prisoners are suspected of taking part in the Villista raid of March 9.

dead and his hands scattered, talk of withdrawal was natural. But now a new army of bandits has begun operations at a moment when the relations between the two governments are fraught with grave possibilities. It looks like a typical Villa move, and I believe Villa is still alive and is directing it. In my opinion, it will lead to a turning point in the present situation."

A Hard Hearted People.

Filial piety finds no place in Tibetan character. It is no uncommon thing for a son to turn his father, when too old for work, out of doors and to leave him to perish in the cold. The superstition that the souls of the dead can, if they will, haunt the living drives their hardened natures to gain by the exercise of cruelty the promise of the dying that they will not return to earth. As death approaches the dying person is asked, "Will you come back or will you not?" If he replies that he will they pull a leather bag over his head and smother him. If he says he will not he is allowed to die in peace.

KERBY MAN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

H. S. Woodcock was severely injured Sunday when his automobile turned turtle on the grade just above the bridge over the Illinois river, between Kerby and Waldo. An auto party coming across the Illinois bridge from the west Sunday afternoon found the Woodcock auto bottom side up and in a badly wrecked condition, while near it, but thrown clear of the machine, was Mr. Woodcock, unconscious from his injuries. First aid remedies were at once applied, and a doctor called from Kerby. An examination disclosed no broken bones, but the injured man was seriously bruised about the head and chest, and one eye was nearly knocked out of its socket. He is now doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. A few stitches were necessary to repair the damage to the eye.

The accident happened on the grade just above the bridge, and at the same place where a girl was burned to death in an auto accident about five years ago. In going down the grade the end of a log that extended out to the roadway smashed one of the front wheels of the car, and the machine turned over. Mr. Woodcock being first thrown clear of the car. He struck upon his face and chest, and luckily the sand saved him from more serious injuries. The auto, a Ford, was badly wrecked.

Poetry and Pleasure.

The poet writes under one restriction only—namely, the necessity of giving immediate pleasure. Nor let this necessity of producing immediate pleasure be considered as a degradation of the poet's art. It is far otherwise. It is an acknowledgment of the beauty of the universe, an acknowledgment the more sincere because not formal, but indirect. It is a task light and easy to him who looks at the world in the spirit of love. Further, it is a homage paid to the native and naked dignity of man, to the grand elementary principle of pleasure, by which he feels and lives and moves.—William Wordsworth
