OREGON WEATHER Tonight and Friday fair, easterly winds.

ROSE CITY BUSINESS MEN'S COMING.

It will be a graceful thing for the business men of Portland to do, this coming down to Grants Pass to get acquainted. Many of the citizens of the Rose City think the state of Oregon is bounded by the corporate limits of the city itself, or at least, have been so concerned with things elsewhere that southern Oregon has not been given due consideration by them.

Do not lose sight of the fact that there will be two of the leaders in agricultural thought in the west here fair week. Farmer Smith has worked a wonderful influence upon farm life since he came west 15 years ago, and thousands of acres of corn are now growing where one grew before.

The nearest to a "war baby" that the southern Oregon district can claim is the chrome iron industry, which is assuming considerable proportions. Until the conflict in Europe made the importation of chrome ore impossible, and placed a premium upon its price through the creation of new demands, the bodies of ore in Josephine county, and other western districts, could not be profitably mined and shipped.

"Perfect weather for the putting of the sugar in the beet," is the way the field expert of the sugar company expresses himself upon southern Oregon September climate. These warm and sunny days with cool nights are just the thing to make sweet not only the sugar beet but the dispositions of the populace.

This is the season of fairs, town, county and state. Exhibit your products at them, attend them, and boost for them at all times. The fair does not belong to any one person—it is composite in its ownership and in its make-up.

There are so many reasons why Wilson should not be continued at the head of the administration that some of the important ones are apt to be forgotten in their multiplicity. It is of the highest importance that in the very critical issues that are to be met in connection with the ending of the war that we should have a consistent and intelligible policy of a constructive and courageous nature and this can not be predicated on a continuance of the democratic administration.
