Tiny Scorpion-like Crabs a Deadly Fee to Houseflies.

To the naturalist or to any one accustomed to observe nature closely the fact is apparent that the problems of existence are proportionately the same in every form or stratum of life. Even the common housefly, which seemingly has nothing else to do but to crawl lazily over whatever is left uncovered and then go bappily on its way, doing its best to bring about an affiliation between the clean and the unclean, occasionally meets its Nemesis in the form of a tiny crabilke creature which attaches itself to the fly's legs These little creatures are known to the scientists as pseudo scorpions, or chellfers, says the Popular Science They may sometimes be Monthly. found between the leaves of old books that have stood unused for a long time and also beneath the bark of trees and in mosses.

Although they are called false scorpions, they resemble the true scorpion closely in general structure except for their minute size. But they have no. poison gland as the true scorplons have. They attach themselves to other insects also, but they seem to be the special pest of the houseflies. Scientists suppose that they seize the fy's leg and hold on until the fly dies, either worried on frightened to death by the desirable presence. When the fly is dead the little creature feeds on the body.

TRACING A CRIMINAL.

The Most Expert Will Leave Some Mark That Betrays Him.

Soccessful criminals nearly always specialize in their work, and it is owing to this fact that detectives in many cases are able to track them down. says the Philadelphia Ledger. Not only do criminals make a practice of committing one particular style of crime, but the methods professional crooks employ are practically always on the same plan.

It is by carefully observing and not ing the special systems notorious crooks adout that detectives can often effect their arrests. Many a time a burgiary has occurred and the criminal vanish ed, leaving apparently no marks by which he could be traced, and police officials have been able to produce him in court within a few days, to the utter astonishment of all concerned.

It does not matter how subtle or careful a cominal muy be, he always leaves some betraying sign behind for the well infer med detective to act upon

The Goral of the Story.

Professor John Spencer Bassett, au-thor of "A life of Andrew Jackson," in one of his lectures at Smith college, repeated a well known story in regard to Stephen A. Douglas, closing with a moral which aroused peculiar interest. Douglas, as the narrative runs, was once sitting in a profound sleep in the corridor of the capitol when Adeline cutts, a Washington belle, passed by: She did not know the sleeper, but was struck with compassion on seeing such splendidly intellectual face under such conditions, and, stooping down, inid her handkerchief over it to protect it from the files. Douglas on awakening found the handkerchief, sought the owner and eventually mar ried her. There was a pause, and then the professor added: "Young ladies, the moral of this story is, have your pocket handkerchief marked."

History of the Word "Telegram."

In the reminiscences of Frederick Seward, son of William H. Seward, he tells of the day in the office of the Albany Evening Journal, edited by Thurlow Weed, the political Warwick of his time, when the word "telegram" was first used in that paper. Indeed. it is intimated that the word was there coined by one E. P. Smith and soon taken up and used generally in England as well as in the United States. To pronounce on the validity of this claim, who is competent? But it is always interesting to get a side

TRAPPED IN A STOKEHOLE.

The Fate That Firemen on a Warship Are Liable to Meet.

The soldlers who fight with least recognition in the battles at sea are the stokers of the destroyers running st full steed. Eight men work under the command of a stoker petty officer in a space so narrow that movement of any kind seems impossible. There is a fur nace in front and one in' the back Sandwiched in between is a maze of levers, pipes, pumps and gear.

Yet within these close quarters the stokers find space to perform their heartbreaking toil in an atmosphere almost too hot to breathe, says the Popular Science Monthly. When the men are at their posts the iron hatch is closed down, and the air sucked in through a vestilator has to pass Rogue River to the place of beginthrough the furnace before it gets to them.

So long as the pumps work well and the evaporated water is displaced with automatic regularity by fresh neither the tubes nor the boller casting can get dangerously hot. But sometimes without apparent cause the water slow ly descends below the level. Some times the cause of mischlef is a leak age-a nipe broken or a joint strained that allows the water to escape.

If it can be remedied, well and good But if not and the water continues to drop steadily the stoker petty officer has but one duty to perform-to keep the batchway from being opened by the frenzied stokers, thus allowing the flames to escape and destroy the entire vessel. The heroes who perish In the stokeholds like so many rats caught in a flery trap are not even listed.

Spartaous.

Spartacus was a Thracian of noble birth. While serving as an officer in an auxiliary corps of the Roman army he deserted, and, being apprehended, be was reduced to slavery and made a gladiator. Escaping, he collected a body of slaves and gladiators, 73 B. C., and ravaged all southern Italy, defeat-ing several Roman forces that were .84 acres known as Russell tract:
