Mrs. Cornell Surprised

Members of the needlework department of the Society of Arts and Crafts gave Mrs. A. B. Cornell a surprise visit Monday afternoon, her 25th wedding anniversary, presenting her with a handsome traveling bag. The ladies brought with them light refreshments which were served during the afternoon. Those present were Mesdames Bywater, Presley, Macy, Livingston, H. K. Clark, Fred Smith; Misses Prudence Pardee and Lulu Benedict.

A Curiosity About Eclipses.

The average number of total and partial eclipses in any one year is four, the maximum seven and the minimum two. There is nothing really peculiar in this except the fact that where only two occur they are always both of the sun. There are more solar than lunar eclipses, but the sun, being so much larger than the earth or moon, the shadow terminates at a point and is visible only along a narrow track, while the lunar observation is frequently visible over half a continent.

Sacrifice Unrecognized.

"Some of our greatest sacrifices bring us little credit."

"That's right," replied Senator Sorghum. "When I suppress my natural inclination to arise and waste time in speechmaking nobody ever takes me by the hand and congratulates me."—Washington Star.

Supplanted.

"What has become of the old fashioned political boss who used to sit back and put people into office?"

"He has retired," said Senator Sorghum, "to make way for the man of dominating personality who insists on putting himself into office."—Washington Star.

Their Quarrel.

Mrs. Dasher—No, dear, you really must not invite the Fannings and the Jeromes for the same evening. The two families don't speak. Dasher—Fell out over the children, I presume. Mrs. Dasher—No; their cooks quarreled.—Life.

Very Telling.

"Your friend Mrs. Gaddy has rather a downright manner, hasn't she?"

"I must say she has some telling ways."—Baltimore American.

CLIMATE AND COMPLEXION.

Are Americans Destined to Become a Race of Brunettes?

That the coming American race is destined to be a brunette type—and not because of the immigration of dark races, but in obedience to a natural law—was a prediction made in one of his recent Gresham lectures in London by Dr. Harry Campbell. He pointed out that each race and subrace tends to adapt itself to the particular region of the earth which it inhabits through numerous generations. Dark skinned peoples thrive in warm climates and die out in cold.

The blond race had its origin in the cold northwest of Europe, where a plentiful supply of pigment in the skin is not necessary to protect the body from the actinic rays of the sun, and where a white skin favors retention of body heat. This blond race has dominated the world, successive swarms migrating southward and eastward and taking a large part in founding the civilizations of Greece and Rome, India and Egypt. But owing to their inability to survive in a latitude far south of their natural zone they have gradually died out and left no descendants.

Even after so short a period as thirteen generations the inhabitants of the southern states of America are darker than those of the northern states. In process of time the blond type will die out in the United States.—New York World.

A Short Story.

"What seems to be the matter with him?" asked the doctor, approaching the bedside of the man who lay swathed in bandages.

"He found the gas leak," briefly explained the nurse.—London Tit-Bits.

Fill In Picture Puzzle No. 19

THE owl that you drew in your last picture has queer looking eyes, hasn't it, children? It also is called a wise old bird, isn't it? Now, children, have you ever seen a farm? Here's a chance to draw one of the most important machines used by farmers. Cincinnatus, the great Roman conqueror, after beating all his foes, went back to the peaceful occupation of cultivating the soil. Start your pencil at No. 1, draw a line to 2, 3 and 4 and see what you will get. Sometimes this machine is operated by hand, sometimes by animals and sometimes by motor.
