GOETHALS' PLANS FOR SHIPS ARE APPROVED

Washington, May 29.—What threatened to be a serious rupture between the shipping board and General Goethals over the construction of ships for the new merchant marine, has seemingly been smoothed over. It was announced here today that about 200 of the proposed ships will be built of wood and the remainder of steel. This, it is understood, amounts to a practical acceptance of General Goethals' plans.

TOMORROW IS DAY SACRED TO MEMORY OF DEAD HEROES

Tomorrow, Wednesday, is to be a holiday. It belongs to the "boys" of the G. A. R.

Memorial Day exercises will begin with a visit to the graves of sleeping soldiers in the morning. The Boy Scouts will assist the G. A. R. post and the W. R. C. in decorating the graves. Meet at the court house at 9 a. m.

In the afternoon a parade will start from the W. O. W. hall at 1:30 and march to the opera house for the formal exercises. The program arranged is as follows:

GERMANS MAY PLAN RENEWED OFFENSIVE

London, May 29.—General Haig's official report today announces heavy artillery bombardment by the Germans on both the French and British lines. Haig intimates that this bombardment probably forecasts a renewed German offensive. It is known that the withdrawal of more than a half million men from the Russian front has put behind the Hindenburg line a strong force of reserves, and it is thought that the Teuton commander will make the most of this advantage while conditions on the Russian front are not indicative of renewed Slav activity.

The French repulsed two heavy German attacks last night, and in addition brought down seven aeroplanes, and damaged 12 others.
