CHAUTAUQUA IS MAKING GOOD WITH ITS PROGRAM

Two large audiences were delighted with the chautauqua programs yesterday. The Royal Venetian band, Miss Mary Adel Hays, soprano soloist and Mrs. Lorene Wilson, "community engineer," made up a combination it would be hard to excel on any chautauqua circuit.

It is remarked frequently on the streets of the city of late that the programs this season are far ahead of those last year, and renewed interest in making the chautauqua an annual event has become apparent.

have been attracting unusual attention on the Chautauqua platform. Mrs. Wasser has specialized on child impersonations and is strikingly realistic in her portrayals of youthful eccentricities. Mr. Wasser in his readings and songs introduces clever and laughable stunts all his own. Both of their programs bubble with fun, merriment and merit. Don't miss the Wasser Company on the fifth day, but come prepared to laugh.

noted that the German army has one machine gun to every 10 men. After a graphic picture of just what an attack on an enemy line involved, with the dep dug-outs and their influence, the trained guns from the reserve trenches on their own first line trenches—he complimented the French army on its high development of equipment, and quoted the Russian general who commanded the troops recently brought from that country to fight in France. These men were wholly equipped by the French. The general stated that if the Russian army which started the drive in Galicia a few months theretofore, had been as well equipped as were his men in France—that drive would not have stopped short of Berlin.

announced today that it expected more than 10,000,000 young men would be registered tomorrow. Arrangements have been made for each precinct to hasten reports of its registration to state headquarters and thence to Washington. It is expected that within a week all reports will be in and analyzed. By that time, the government will be ready to form its exemption plans.

In general, men in the government service and in certain lines of productive work—and so far as possible, men with dependents upon them will be freed from first call. It is now expected that the first call to arms will come in September when 500,000 men will be chosen by the "ballot wheel" method. A second half million may be called by November or December.

The department of justice agents are convinced that registration will pass off with comparatively no demonstrations of opposition. The anti-census propaganda seems to have nearly died out.

A departure from the original plan has been announced by the war department, to the effect that it intends to make the first draft cover 625,000 men. The purpose is to have a reserve of 125,000 placed in training, so as to be able to fill vacancies caused by sickness, death and discharge.
