A CANNING ROUNDELAY

There's something doing in the land. You'll find the signs on every hand. There's something in the air. The folks have formed a kitchen guard and everybody's worrying; they're busy everywhere.

And what I like about the bunch is that they've got the proper hunch about the things we'll eat. They're canning corn and peas and beans, they're drying pumpkin, squash and greens, they've got the food game best.

They're canning every thing they can, to please and feed the inner man and keep the wolf away. They're drying stuff in wholesale lots and taking steps to knock the spots from winter's rainy day.

They've viewed the mammoth garden crop and vowed that they will put a stop to all the waste of food that's taken place from year to year and made the winter living dear for every household brood.

No more we'll see tomatoes fine decaying on the fruitful vine, nor apples on the trees; no more we'll see things fine and rot within a garden spot while mother's out at tea.

For every woman in the town has dressed herself in kitchen gown and works with all her might to can and dry the things she'll need her hungry family to feed, with winter days in sight.

The girls have taken mothers cue, and dad and all the brothers too have set themselves to work, because they know that war-time thrift must be the patriotic gift which none of us may shirk.

They know the nation must provide the food that's either canned or dried to fill the household stores in order that the stuff we've raised may make our country's name be praised on European shores;

They know that we must feed the troops in many-million numbered groups that they may win the fight; that they may win their battle brave the democratic flag to cave and thus maintain the right.

ROAD TALK

Word comes to this city that there is a move on foot at Crescent City and north of that city, to "divert the main north and south highway connecting Oregon and California from the Pacific highway to the so-called coast route."

There is no occasion for anyone getting excited. There may some day be a good highway up the coast, but it will always be secondary to the one now known as the Pacific highway. Wagon roads, like railroads, go where the people live. Wagon roads must be supported by taxable wealth and must be used by actual inhabitants of the territory through which they pass. This means

RED CROSS LEADERS TO BE COMMISSIONED

Washington, Aug. 9.—Secretary of war Baker announces that the national organization of the Red Cross is to be put on a military basis. The more prominent workers to be given titles and commissions closely akin to those prevailing in the army organization.

In explaining the reorganization Secretary Baker made this statement: "These commissions give no military authority, obligation, or other incident to rank or office, nor any right to pay or allowances of similarly described grades."

They serve as certificates of identity, authorized by the president, indicating to members of the land and naval forces that officials of the ranks indicated are persons in whom American Red Cross have confidence and for whom the above authority enjoins cooperation in the dispatch of their function, and with the courtesy and respect due to persons designated for important duty to humanity."

Each Red Cross officer will wear proper military insignia. Regulations for uniforms, equipment, etc., are worked out for their guidance.

HAIG KEEPS MAKING GAINS ALONG LINE

London, Aug. 9.—General Haig reported today that new gains had been made northwest of Bixchote on the Belgian front.

Extensive movements behind the German lines is believed to indicate a growing nervousness of the enemy as days have passed without a resumption of the Flanders offensive.

Near the coast the British have been successful in a raid into the German lines near Lombaertzyde. Berlin officially describes this operation as an attack in force, which it says the Germans beat off in hand to hand fighting. The Teutons also record the repulse of local attacks by the British between Dixmude and Ypres.

Along the Aisne front and the right bank of the Meuse, northwest of Verdun, violent artillery activity continues on both sides. The German crown prince has not followed up his attacks on the Aisne front, where he was repulsed east of Vaux-allion and west of the Calonne plateau.

ARIZONA INDIANS HAVE BEEN QUIETED

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 9.—The uprising of striking Indians and Mexicans at the mines of the United States Asbestos company, high up in the Sierra Anchas mountains, 50 miles from here, was successfully quelled today by the arrival of seven forest rangers and a number of armed ranchers. All of the Indians were driven from the company property today by deputy sheriffs, who arrested an Indian named Montana and another Apache known as Johnny Cook. These two men will be brought to this city.

GOULD IS SLACKER ON WIFE-SUPPORT PLEA

New York, Aug. 9.—Kington Gould Monday claimed exemption from service in the new conscript army. His claim was based on the fact that he was married and his wife is dependent on his labor for support. He appeared before examining officials in the Toms River (N.J.) court house. About a week ago when he passed the physical examination, young Gould had said he would not seek to evade service.

CHINA ANNOUNCES NEW BANKING LAW

Peking, Aug. 9.—China has a new banking law. Among other things it provides that if the bank is a limited liability company it must have a capital of at least $100,000 and if it is not, a capital of $50,000; that no banknotes shall be issued without special legal permission; that a half-yearly return shall be published in connection with its business transactions, and the ministry of finance shall have the right to inspect such reports; that with the exception of holidays banks shall never close on business days without special permission from the local authorities; that the ministry of finance from time to time shall appoint officials to audit the accounts and books of the bank; and that in case of bankruptcy and liquidation a detailed report of the circumstances shall be submitted to the ministry of finance.

DUTIES.

Man cannot choose his duties. He may choose to forsake his duties and choose not to have the sorrow they bring. But he will go forth, and what will he find? Sorrow without duty—bitter herbs and no bread with them.

A classified ad will give results.

they must connect the larger centers of population.

The idea prevalent at Crescent City which gives rise to the report is the effort of the citizens of the rich bench lands north of that city to have the state highway commission build up to the mouth of Smith river before it spends money in a road inland toward Grants Pass. From their standpoint, there is merit to the contention.

But Grants Pass should have a good representation at the forthcoming conference there.

TERRA COTTA RATE HAS BEEN CHANGED

A special telegram to the Courier reports that the interstate commerce commission has ordered a suspension of the Southern Pacific's proposed rates on terra cotta from Oakland and other California points to Grants Pass.

The terra cotta work on the new court house will be finished tonight or tomorrow. Judge Gillette and the contractor doing the terra cotta work are both out of the city; but it is believed that this change, coming after the terra cotta to be used in the court house construction has all reached the city, is of no material consequence, and is probably the rescinding of a special rate granted for the court house shipment.

COPPER AND STEEL PRICES WILL DROP

Washington, Aug. 9.—Copper and steel prices are to take a fall if President Wilson's present plan is put into effect. Furthermore, purchases in war necessities made by the allies are to be on the same basis and at the same prices as purchases by the American government.

The federal trade commission announced today its report on copper prices will be before the president in two weeks.

All purchases will soon be in the hands of B. M. Baruch, as official representative of all the allies. He is now visiting all contracts made in this country to assure against "blood profits."

BUTTE STREET CARS ARE RUNNING AGAIN

Butte, Mont., Aug. 9.—The strike which has tied up street car traffic here since Saturday morning was settled at a conference between officials of the Butte Electric Street Railway company and its employees in the office of Mayor W. H. Maloney late this afternoon. Car service will be resumed at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.
