ARMY Y. M. C. A.

Two or three hundred citizens of this city have donated their little mites to the work of the army Y. M. C. A. It will interest them to know something of the results which their contributions, with thousands of others over the country, have accomplished.

When the Y. M. C. A. drive was made last May it was expected that 200 Y. M. C. A. buildings would be erected in the various camps throughout the country. The total number has now reached 265 complete buildings, 111 more in process of construction and 34 others under consideration, a total of 410. In addition to this, the work is being carried on in tents and barrack rooms at 245 other places.

The work being conducted in the northwest, which includes the five states of Oregon, Washington, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho, is a sample of what is being done throughout the nation. In this section the Y. M. C. A. has accomplished the following:
At Clackamas; two tents, regular routine. At Fort Stevens, building in process of erection, work conducted in two tents and barracks. At Vancouver; two buildings in operation, over 200 men in evening classes. At Bremerton navy yards; two tents within grounds and one just outside the gate. At Camp Lewis; six large association buildings and large auditorium in process of erection, a total of 45 secretaries will be employed at this camp. At Fort Townsend; a building is being erected in town and tents are established at Forts Worden, Flagler and Casey. At Fort Harrison, Mont.; work being conducted regularly in one of the post buildings. Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo.; a standard association building, fully equipped. Boise, Idaho; work conducted in one of the barrack buildings.

In addition to the work at these regular established points, tons of writing paper, envelopes, magazines, books and athletic equipment have been sent to men on guard details throughout the northwest.

Over 200 Y. M. C. A. secretaries are already at work among the American troops in France, and more will be forwarded with each new contingent.

Some of the ablest business men, professors and ministers are giving their entire time to this service. An intimation of the extent of this work is contained in the statement that 25 tons—10,000,000 sheets—of writing paper is being printed for use in the northwestern camps alone during the next six months.

It is a splendid work. Every dollar contributed to the fund has done its full share in carrying happiness and comfort to American soldiers. If the donors can receive as much pleasure as the recipients—and they should—the contributors to this fund should be happy indeed.

NEW MEXICO FINALLY USING SECRET BALLOT

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 29.—New Mexico voters will use the secret Australian ballot for the first time at the special election November 6, when the prohibition amendment, one creating a ninth judicial district and another providing no county, city, town, village or school district, shall make levies in any one year which will produce in the aggregate more than five per cent in excess of the total of the preceding year.

The Australian ballot law was passed at the last session of the state legislature.

CALIFORNIA U. WILL TEACH ADVERTISING

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 29.—Having made a success with its journalistic classes, the University of California now intends to instruct in the art of advertising writing. A room has been secured in the city hall here, and lectures on all phases of advertising from the short, snappy streetcar legends to the long, involved machinery advertisements will be given. Color advertising will also have an important part in the curriculum of the course as will the use of the moving picture screen as an advertising medium.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

the life of anyone else. But if he will take no useful or efficient part in helping in this war, in running his share of the common risk and doing his part of the common duty, then treat him as having forfeited his right to vote, his right to render the polls any decision which in the long run can only be made good in the face of brutal and hostile men by the ability and willingness of good citizens to back right with might.

"Such a man," Mr. Roosevelt insisted, "who claims citizenship but is not willing to perform the necessary duties, is not entitled to any of the rights of citizenship saying: 'Service to the nation in war stands precisely on a footing with any other service. If a man will not perform it, let him lose all the benefits of war and at least let him lose the political rights which a free country can keep only if its free citizens are willing to fight for them. We stand against all privilege not based on the full performance of duty; and there is no more contemptible form of privilege than the privilege of existing in snug, self-righteous peaceful safety because other, braver, more self-sacrificing men give up safety and go to war to preserve the nation. If a man is too conscientious to fight, then the rest of us ought to be too conscientious to let him vote in a democratic land which can permanently exist only if the average man is willing in the last resort to fight for it and die for it.'"

Mr. Roosevelt said that any workman today, whether he be on the farm or in the shop, who supports Germany, "is not only playing the part of a traitor to the United States, but is playing the part of traitor to the whole spirit of democracy throughout the civilized world."

The speaker asserted that the socialist party and the Industrial Workers of the World organization in this country had been the tools of German autocracy and the enemies of liberty.

A plea for universal military obligation was made by Mr. Roosevelt who said the selective draft system is wrong "because it chooses out one man to make the sacrifice and do the work of two or three other men who are allowed to stay at home and make money, while the first man risks his life for their common country."

The officers training camps were also criticized by Mr. Roosevelt because he said "they have been so conducted that only men of some means could go thither or send their sons."

He said they done admirable work but this feature ought to be remedied so every man who is a respectable man and who has sons of the right type, could feel that those sons had an equal chance to become officers with any man in the land.

BERKELEY PROTECTS OLD-TIMERS' BENCH

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 29.—When the average city sets about improving its streets, it has no quarter for old landmarks that happen to stand in the way. But not this place. The battered old bench that used to set in front of one of the electric railroad depots on the main street has survived a very severe and decided improvement of the street, and has been tenderly deposited in a sheltered place nearby.

The reason is that the old bench was used for years by aged men, who used it to sun themselves while they discussed local and national problems. Town wisecracks dubbed them the "I Remember When" club.

When the bench was threatened the "I Remember When" club got busy. Other landmarks fell like snow mounds before the sun, but the bench remained.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL TO ASSIST HOME AGENT

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Anne McCormick, the recently appointed agent in household economics for Josephine and Jackson counties, called a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms of the representative of women's clubs in Grants Pass and of the granges throughout the county.

Representatives were present from the Parent-Teacher association, The Society of Arts and Crafts, Pomona Grange, Rogue River, Provoit and Freidale granges.

The object of the meeting was to have appointed one person from every community in the county to serve on the advisory council—the guides of the members of this council to be the reporting to Miss McCormick of any need for assistance in their community and to make the arrangements for lectures and demonstrations.

Miss McCormick will spend the first 10 days of each month in Josephine county, making her headquarters at the office of the county agent, C. D. Thompson.

COMING EVENTS

Sept. 29-30, Saturday and Sunday—C. E. district convention at Ashland.

Oct. 4, Thursday—Grants Pass Irrigation District bond election.
