Grants Pass Captured

The Boy Scouts took another practice hike Sunday afternoon, with an attack upon Grants Pass by half the troop, the other half defending, as the day's drill. According to Sergeant Bauer, the city was captured. The boys will hereafter give two week-day evenings to these drills, the first coming next Tuesday.

No Endless-chain Letters

National headquarters of the Red Cross is again compelled to send out a warning that the organization has absolutely nothing to do with any endless chain letter appeals, and asks all chapters to frown upon any such methods. Not long ago, an endless chain appeal for anaesthetics for the army's use received quite liberal support in this and Jackson counties and was later proven to be a fraud pure and simple.

Miss Gillilan Makes Good

Word has been received in this city from Miss Dorothy Gillilan, a popular Grants Pass girl, who is working her way through Corvallis college. She is doing junior work in stenography and typewriting and has a demand for her time, outside of school hours, at good compensation, that exceeds her spare hours. Her father and mother have moved to Albany, so her visits to this city may be infrequent.

How He Won Her.

"Something you wanted, madam?" the salesman queried as a lady was going out of the shop.

"Why, I came in for a pair of shoes, and I've waited twenty minutes, and no one has come near me. I've got tired."

"Wait just one minute," he whispered. "I've spent twenty-five minutes with this lady with the big feet, but it won't take five to fit your little No. 2's with something new."

Although she wore No. 5's, she smiled and sat down to wait.—Exchange.

WEEKLY LUNCHEONS TO BRING GOOD SPEAKERS

The first of the Chamber of Commerce's weekly luncheons following the vacation days, will be given next Monday, November 26. RACCOON OUTGREW LEATHER COLLAR

A raccoon wearing a dog collar with name plate attached was killed by Levi Spalding on his ranch on the 13th of this month. The raccoon must have escaped from his captors while quite small as he had long since outgrown the collar which had destroyed the skin about the neck, except a strip about two inches wide on the back. The strap was imbedded in the flesh below the level of the skin.

The odor of the putrified sore was extremely offensive and his coonship breathed with a wheeze, but in spite of all his afflictions he was in fair flesh.

Mr. Spalding lives two miles southwest of Grants Pass on R. F. D. No. 2 and would like to receive data from the looser of the coon.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL WORK ANNOUNCED

County School Superintendent Bacon has received notice from the office of J. A. Churchill, superintendent of public instruction, relative to changes in the school law. One is the changing of Rule 22, which has been changed to read: "An applicant for any certificate shall pay a fee for the certificate at the time of examination, even though the applicant write for exemptions he shall pay the fee each time he takes the examination, if he writes on more than two subjects."

Another ruling is: "After December 1 no standard high school shall accept work done in a non-accredited secondary school and students of such school, beyond being admitted to any standard high school must pass a written examination on those subjects on which they apply for high school credits. The examinations must be conducted by the principal of the high school and the examination questions and manuscripts must be filed in this office for the inspection of the superintendent of public instruction or his representatives."

Superintendent Churchill, in speaking of the work of the teachers and pupils in the work of securing signatures in the food conservation campaign, says, "I feel that the people of Josephine county should be very proud of their teachers. The rural teachers and pupils are especially to be commended, as in most instances they worked without the assistance of the business men and women who helped in the city campaign."

Teachers' examinations will be held in Grants Pass on December 19, 20, 21 and 22.
