SOLDIER LETTERS

The following letter from Lieutenant J. C. Bigger, unattached, now in Europe, was received a short time ago by Harry Starr:

February 11, 1918.

Dear Harry: Just a line to tell you I am none the worse for my experience with the submarines. I was aboard the Tuscania when she was subbed but got away alright in a small boat and after drifting about for (censored) was picked up by a British trawler and landed in Ireland. We came to England yesterday.

I saved my old black traveling bag and a little personal stuff but lost all of my equipment and clothing except what I had on. I imagined that when a boat was hit there would be a h— of a fus but not so my dear "Canyon hound." It jarred us up some and put out the lights. There was not one of us but knew at once what had happened. I was sitting in the smoking room talking to another officer when it happened. My remark was, "That's it" and he said, "Let's get our stuff," and we beat it to our respective cabins for our coats, etc.

We had some trouble with the boat but got away in about 45 minutes. She floated about three hours. I saw her go down. Shortly after I got away. (Censored) British destroyer came alongside and took off a big lot of men. It had not been for these destroyers we would have lost considerable more than half of the 2,500 aboard, instead of the 166 approximately, that were lost.

The conduct of the men in almost all cases was above any reproach, in fact, all that I saw except for a little nervousness, to be expected of men who had never seen big water in their lives and then from the deck of a big vessel, was such that I am proud of them, and removed any doubt that I may have had in my mind as to how they will conduct themselves when they are called on to go at the Hun.

There are of course all sorts of wild stories being told—some are no doubt partially true, but most of them are the product of a broad imagination run wild. Of course all that I saw was just what happened in one part of the boat (censored). After we got away we drifted toward (censored) and when we were picked up our boat was full of water and we were almost on the (censored) when several of our boats were wrecked and a (censored).

Had we been a couple of hundred yards nearer the shore the trawler could not have picked us off, and let me say right here, that the British trawlers, its officers and crew together is one of the biggest factors in combatting the sub. They risk their lives every day and deserve the credit that can be given them. I'll have a warm spot in my heart as long as I live for a certain Lieutenant in this service.

It is sure some experience to climb out of a small boat in a pretty good sea and be pulled aboard a moving vessel, but we were all glad to risk the jump.

We were landed in the north of Ireland and I never expect to receive such hospitable treatment in my life again. We will be on our way to France in a very few days. I don't believe any of us hate the Hun any worse than we did but we are all the more anxious to get a crack at him.

The trawler that picked us up got a sub the next day within five miles of the place where the Tuscania went down.

The paper I am writing on was brought from New York and is in a way a souvenir.

FAMILY REUNIONS

Governor General Harrison, of the Philippines, has appointed his brother Archibald, with whom he is quite chubby, as custodian for the property of enemy aliens in the islands.

Washington City society note, Lucy Burleson, a daughter of Postmaster General Burleson, has been tendered and has accepted a lucrative position in the Navy Department.

Gordon Auchincloss, the clumsy young son-in-law of Colonel House, has been appointed assistant counselor for the State Department at Washington. Together with his father-in-law and uncle-in-law he was a member of that war mission recently sent to Europe.

Alfred Brandeis, a brother of Justice Brandeis has been appointed by the government to a position of "federal investigator of profit-sharing." Oh these family reunions at the pie counter!

The son of Josephus has been appointed to a nice place in the quartermaster's department. How lovely!—Ft. Wayne News.

Stop Lively! Corns Quit with "Gets-It"

The Great Corn-Lessener of the Age Never Fails Painless.

Watch my step! What's the use! I go along "right side up" without care, even with corns, because I use "Gets-It" the painless, off-like-a-banana-peel corn remover. I tried other ways galore until I was blue Corns Simply Can't Stop us, We use "Gets-It" in the face and red in the toes. No more for me. Use "Gets-It." It never fails. Touch any corn or callus with two drops of "Gets-It," and "Gets-It" does the rest. It's a relief to be able to stop cutting corns, making them bleed, wrapping them up like packages and using sticky tape and salves. It removes any corn clear and clean, leaving the toe as smooth as your palm. You can wear those new shoes without pain, dance and be frisky on your feet. It's great to use "Gets-It." "Gets-It" is sold at all druggists (you need pay no more than 25 cents a bottle), or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Grants Pass and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by George C. Sabin.

Right to the Point.

One of the Judges of the county court was called upon at his club recently, makes a New York correspondent, to make a speech in favor of the appointment of a well-known lawyer and member of the club, who was gaining for a political job. The Judge touched on the patriotic issue, various questions of civil virtue and the value of keeping good men on the bench. At this point one of the members of the club, noted for his argumentative and violently demonstrative support of any point he took, arose. The remainder of the audience mentally got on tip-toe. Here is where the fireworks started. "Judge," began the questioner, "there's one thing that has always bothered me, and I hope you can settle it for me so that the other members of this club will see that I am right. This is it: Does or does not a straight flush beat four of a kind under any and all circumstances?"

Friendship.

Friendship is a vase which, when it is flawed by heat, or violence, or accident, may well be broken at once; it can never be trusted after. The more graceful and ornamental it was, the more clearly do we discern the hopelessness of restoring it by its former state. Coarse stones, if they are fractured, may be cemented again; precious stones—never.
