Leaves for Camp Lewis

Miss Dora Birchard, who was appointed by the government as laboratory technician, received her call yesterday and leaves tonight for the base hospital at Camp Lewis.

Attention Farmers

We now have a limited amount of No. 24 galvanized iron for irrigating purposes, released by the government under Class 4. Tetherow Sheet Metal Works. 02

On Camping Trip

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Bancroft, of the Picture Mill, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Davis, of Portland, left this morning for a camping trip of several weeks, at the head of Cow creek, about 30 miles from Glendale.

Married in Oakland

News was received today of the wedding of Francis R. Steel, of the Winona ranch, to Miss Marguerite Ogden, of Oakland, Cal., Monday, July 1. The young couple passed through Grants Pass this morning on their way to Chicago, where Mr. Steel is to become managing secretary of the Gossard Breeding farm.

Band Plays at Ashland

The Grants Pass band, under the leadership of J. S. MacMurray, will play at the Rogue River Round Up at Ashland July 4, 5 and 6. The boys have been practicing faithfully for some time past and show effective work. They gave an open air concert at Riverside park Sunday and played on the street last night.

Tommy Atkins, Philologist

Mr. Thomas Atkins has further enriched the English language with war words and phrases. They may not creep into future dictionaries, remarks London Answers, but they will certainly remain as part of the common language of everyday use. "Narpoo," coined by Tommy from the French "il n'y a plus," is now our general expression for "nothing doing."

It is safe to assume that the expression "over the top" will become part of our language, to be used when man must be put to the supreme test.

"Anzac" is another coined word that will remain for all time. A "scronger" for a forager, "buckshee" for anything extra in the way of rations, and "Conchy" for the shirker, are hardly likely to be forgotten.

Quarter-Pound Diamond

One of the world's largest diamonds may come to the United States, as Americans are among those dickering for that superior quality amber-colored stone, weighing 42 1/2 carats—about a quarter of a pound—found recently in the Du Toits Pan mine in South Africa. The stone is the most valuable ever found in Griqualand West, although it is not a record as regards weight.

The most famous diamonds in the world are: Cullinan, now called the Star of Africa, part of the British crown jewels, 3,022; Excelsior, 969; Kohinoor, 900; Regent, 410; Orloff, 183, all uncut, and the Great Mogul, 280, cut.

Not That Flavor

"You know, there are some hosts who allow their hospital meals to be seasoned with acerbity."

"Do they? We always use catchup with ours."

Surely the Limit. There seems no limit to the outrages on the King's English wrought by American theater proprietors. "Fencing" was an abomination which moved to revolt all lovers of our language; "picturization" was worse, but there, it was thought, atrocities would stop. But no. From the top of a picture palace in South London flaunts in big letters the announcement that there is presented "the picturization of Sullivan's celebrated song, 'The Lost Chord.'"—London Chronicle.

Who Built It? Summing up his interpretation of the Amlens cathedral, the "Bible of Amlens," Ruskin asks: "Who built it, shall we ask? God and man is the first true answer. The stars in their courses built it, and the nations. Greek Athens labors here, and the Roman Father Jove and Guardian Mars. The Gaul labors here and the Frank; kingly Norman, mighty Ostrogoth and wasted anchorite of Idumea. The actual man who built it scarcely cared to tell you he did so; nor do the historians brag of him. Any quantity of heraldries of knaves and faineants you may find in what they call their history; but this is probably the first time you ever read the name of Robert of Lunarches. I say he 'scarcely cared;' we are not sure that he cared at all. He signed his name nowhere, that I can hear of. You may perhaps find some recent initials cut by English remarkable visitors desirous of immortality, here and there about the edifice, but Robert the builder, or at least the master of that building, cut his on no stone of it."
