

MORE HELPERS NEEDED FOR RED CROSS WORK

The directors of Josephine Chapter Red Cross met at luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms today to discuss matters and hear reports.

There is to be a call for more articles from each of the chapters and the local chapter will soon be called on for greatly increased quotas, which will require additional workers. It will be necessary to have many more helpers and an effort will be made to interest more patriotic women in the work. A plan for securing workers will be worked out and details made known later.

CAPTAIN "SKIPPY" STIRS THINGS UP ON LINER

Plans Big Program of Sports, but Ship's Commander Figures on Safety First.

In America Captain "Skippy" would get credit for being a "self starter," or perhaps a "stem-winder." He does not smoke, nor drink. He is twenty-one, blonde, pink checked and rushes about bareheaded always, like a schoolboy at picnic. And the first day out he started the good American school girl game of skipping the rope, thus winning his title. But he is a "go-getter." He got on and off of Gallipoli. No boy's campaign that for the officers and men. "Skippy" has gone out and got a war cross for bravery. He also got himself a captaincy in the British army; and he has come safely through three years of war.

Outside the smoking room—it is not on record that he infests that spot—the captain has been just about the life of the party. He started galloping promenades with nurses, stealing them right and left. Starting also dissensions and mutterings among the less fortunate.

A few days later he was collecting a "buck" from everybody and presenting a purse to the band. It was he who discovered the ship's "gramophone" and had it carried about deck. At the same time he was organizing "sports" and making a speech to the assembled American officers, enlisting their aid in mustering out their talent.

"We'll have pillow fights, tug of war, potato races, you know; no end of fun," he said, "and we'll give some prizes—a wooden spoon or some such rot."

It was going great guns when the captain of the ship explained it wouldn't be safe to try to crowd the entire ship's company at one spot on the boat. Plans have been changed and the movement goes forward now for a mighty concert in the first cabin dining room.

Aged Woman's War Garden.
Mrs. Marie Crawford, age eighty-four, of Kokonao, Ind., is cultivating a war garden—and that means she is doing the work herself. She began by spading up the onion beds, and, in explaining it, said that it was no special feat of strength. "I am not stiff with age yet," she says. "I walk a mile every fair Sunday to church."

Mrs. Crawford is very proud of her war garden, and considers it her patriotic duty to help increase the country's food supply. Her husband was a soldier in the Civil war.

REFUSED NATURALIZATION
Austrian Has Two Sons in the United States Army.
Anton Kugler, forty-one years old, of St. Louis, who has two sons in the military service of the United States, has been refused final naturalization papers. He is a native of Hungary and came to St. Louis in 1904.

One of the sons, Rudolph, eighteen, is an enlisted man in the regular army. The other, Frank, sixteen, is with a hospital unit in Georgia. Both enlisted with their father's consent before the state of war with Austria-Hungary.

Kugler was deeply affected when informed that he could not become naturalized while the country was at war with this native land. "I want to be an American!" he cried. "I have given my boys to the country."

A small blaze in the home of C. E. Wolfolk on Bridge street this morning at about 3:30 called out the fire department. The fire caught in a small pile of wood under the fire, and the family was awakened by the smoke. The only way to account for the blaze is that mice may have been gnawing matches. There was little damage except blackened walls.

SHARK, DOGFISH AND CARP USED FOR FOOD

Even Whale Is Eaten by Americans During War Time, Says Bulletin.

One of the most curious anomalies of the present war, which has been called the greatest destroyer in the world's history, has been the addition of many thousands of dollars to the national wealth of the United States, through the utilization of fish foods which were thrown away as worthless until necessity demanded their conservation.

The radical change which has been wrought by the war in the fishing industry is reflected in the fisheries service bulletin published by the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce. Instead of being confined solely to items concerning salmon, shad, cod and other fishes which have had a ready sale, the bulletin devotes much space also to news concerning the catch of pole flounders, sharks, rays, skates, carp, grayfish (which formerly rejected in the uninviting name of dogfish) and other types of water food.

Regarding the pole flounder, or gray sole, the bulletin records that it was virtually unknown as food prior to the fall of 1916. As a result of the bureau's food conservation campaign, which taught the value of the flounder and attractive ways to prepare it, demand for the fish increased until last season there were thirty-five boats taking flounders to the New England markets, and probably 2,000,000 pounds have been marketed. Carp abound in the interior lakes. An agent of the bureau was sent to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago and Indianapolis to stimulate the use of fish. A bulletin containing recipes for cooking carp was prepared. State commissions of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana co-operated in the work. The result was a greatly increased demand for carp, which continued to grow in favor as the public became acquainted with its value. More than 1,300,000 pounds of carp were sold from Minnesota lakes, and in Milwaukee the weekly consumption has reached 25,000 pounds.

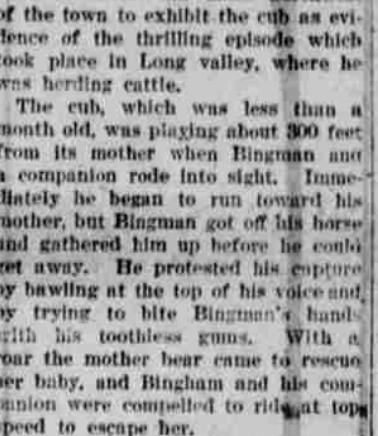

On the Pacific coast there is a growing demand for sharks, rays and whales. Sharks sell for 10 to 12 cents a pound. It is said to be especially delicious when salted or smoked. Numerous canneries have undertaken to preserve the meat.

CHASED BY BEAR
Mother Animal Was Angry When Cub Was Kidnaped.

To be chased across a pasture by a mother bear that was trying to get close enough to his fleeing horse to avenge the kidnapping of her cub was the experience of Hardy Bingham, who came to Meridian, Idaho, recently from his home six miles northwest of the town to exhibit the cub as evidence of the thrilling episode which took place in Long valley, where he was herding cattle.

The cub, which was less than a month old, was playing about 300 feet from its mother when Bingham and a companion rode into sight. Immediately he began to run toward his mother, but Bingham got off his horse and gathered him up before he could get away. He protested his capture by bawling at the top of his voice and, by trying to bite Bingham's hands with his toothless gums. With a roar the mother bear came to rescue her baby, and Bingham and his companion were compelled to ride at top speed to escape her.

"GREATEST MOTHER IN THE WORLD"

Miss Aimee Smith of Washington, D. C., was selected by the Red Cross as the most attractive young woman to pose for the famous poster used in the second war fund drive. She is shown in this beautiful portrait posing as she did for the poster: "The Greatest Mother in the World."
